ANOTHER SMALL BIT OF HISTORY

Wherein the Celebrated Cannon Forms a Part of Same

The Nehawka Register says: "While waiting at the depot last Sunday evening we had the pleasure of forming the acquaintance of Mr. S. T. Darrow and wife who were here on a visit to the family of W. R. Davis.

"Mr. Darrow is the engineer in charge of the work of the Burlington at Fremont where they are trying to control the channel of the Platte river and lessen the danger from floods. While there his work took him close to some very historic points in connection with the state's history; one being the place where the Pawnee council of May 25, 1855, was held and which is commemorated by a stone set near up where they are working.

"In looking up the history of this council we have learned that prior to this time the Pawnees and the Sioux were in constant warfare. The Sioux on the north and the Pawnees on the south and these were allied with the whites.

General Thayer was influential in bringing about this cessation of war in which the old twelve-pounder that has long been in the possession of Nehawka took a prominent part, and was used by the Nebraska troops in keeping the Indians in subjection. Finally a peace council was brought about by General Thayer between the Pawnees and the Sioux and this monument was erected to commemorate the event.

"And now for another bit of history about the old cannon. Investigations made by Isaac Pollard has proven conclusively that this old twelve-pounder was originally brought to Nebraska in a very early day from Westport, Mo., which was then a sort of military depot and the only one near this section and given to the First Nebraska, then it fell into the hands of Papillion, was borrowed by Springfield, was 'found' at Plattsmouth and every Nehawkan knows the rest, which is properly termed the 'cannon war between Plattsmouth and Nehawka.'

DEMOCRATIC EDITORS OF NEBRASKA

Mr. Bryan to Meet With Them in Lincoln March 31

William Jennings Bryan will meet with the Democratic Editorial association in Lincoln on Tuesday, March 31, and it is suggested that the editors get there in time to attend a business session March 31. At this meeting a representative of the Bryan Volunteers will be on hand to make suggestions which will be of advantage to democratic and populist editors—whether financially cannot be learned yet. This information was secured from the following letter, sent out by J. B. Donovan, president of the association:

Madison, Neb., March 9.—Dear Sir: I desire to extend to you, on behalf of the Nebraska Democratic Editorial association, an earnest and most cordial invitation to be present at a business meeting of the association, to be held in Lincoln on Tuesday, March 31, at 2 p. m., headquarters at the Lindell hotel. This meeting is called at the suggestion of the Hon. William Jennings Bryan, and is for the purpose of perfecting plans of carrying on a careful and systematic campaign. A representative of the Bryan Volunteers will be present at the meeting and submit a proposition which will no doubt prove of much importance in the campaign and be of mutual advantage to all democratic and populist editors.

The letter closes by urging the editors to be in attendance at the meeting, and tells them Mr. Bryan wants them to be his guests at a dinner at which a program will be carried out.

Will Enforce Fire Escape Law.

J. J. Ryder, deputy labor commissioner, of Lincoln, was in the city this morning called here to inspect some of our three-story buildings which are being used for hotel purposes without fire escapes as required by law. Since the catastrophe at Collinwood, Ohio, the enforcement of the laws relating to fire escapes and exits, is being pushed with a great deal of vigor. While in the city, Mr. Ryder inspected the Central and Columbia school buildings, and says he finds the facilities for escape in case of fire away above the average. The buildings are provided with fire escapes and doors which swing outward. He recommended that the seats not in use in the Central building be stored elsewhere, and that the boiler room be not used as a workshop. Speaking of the child labor law he highly commended the actions of the superintendent of the city schools, and the officers of the city in seeing that the law was enforced, saying that its enforcement was being pushed everywhere. He also recommended keeping up the practice training the children in using the fire escapes, then there would be no timidity should there be a necessity for such use in case of fire.

ANOTHER ROAST FOR ROOSEVELT

New York Congressman Says the President Has Been a Great Memace to the Business Interests

A special from Washington to the Omaha Bee, under date of March 13 says: "Denunciation was heaped on President Roosevelt in the house of representatives today by Mr. Willett of New York. Mr. Willett insisted that the distressing effects of the panic of 1907 still were being felt. 'There seems to be,' he said, 'a conspiracy of silence on the part of the republican members of the house on the subject of the cause and effect of the panic.' Those members, he declared, were afraid to attack the president for fear of his 'big stick.' The president, he said, was 'reaping the reward of his own reckless misconduct.'"

He referred to "the imperialistic methods" of the president as evidenced in American discharge of whole companies of American soldiers without trial, without proof of guilt, and said it sounded "more like the edict of an African chieftain or Russian despot than the command of an American president."

Mr. Willett charged that President Roosevelt had "done more than all other presidents and all other public men in the history of the country to shake the confidence of the people in our form of government, and has done more than any one man in our nation's history to destroy legitimate business, shattered confidence among the people and bring utter panic into every counting room, factory, shop, office and home in the land, and has exhibited a greater degree of son-consciousness and egotism, which are the natural results of power and flattery, than any president who has occupied the White House.

"Nevertheless," he said, "the clarion tongues of the great republican party are silent; the people's right may be trampled upon, but party interests must be protected." He characterized the president as "that great central deity," and that if the usurpations of the president passed unchallenged by the people they would soon create the force of precedent. "Now is the time," he exclaimed, "and we are the people to watch with jealousy such beginnings, indignantly to attack them and if possible to destroy them."

In conclusion he said: "Remove the cause of the unrest, silence the ceaseless, senseless clamor for spectacular effect of the part of the man in the White House and quiet will be restored."

MARRIED IN OMAHA WEDNESDAY

The Smoothness of a Plattsmouth Young Couple—Marry Without Letting Anyone Know

With the smoothness of a veteran, Fred Warner stood around the Burlington station last Wednesday and evaded the scrutinizing glances of his friends and acquaintances, and told the unsuspecting reporter, that he was just going to Omaha for the afternoon, and would return in the evening, thus throwing off any suspicion that anything was liable to happen. In the meantime his bride-to-be, Miss Bonnie Marie Robinson, whose home has been at Avoca, Iowa, but, who has been living here for some time past, where she was employed at the Hotel Riley, was also waiting for the fast mail for Omaha, where they were married in the afternoon. The happy couple departed that same afternoon for Avoca, where they visited for a day with the parents of the bride. Thursday night they returned on the late Missouri Pacific train, stopped at Mynard. Both the bride and groom are well acquainted in the city, the former having been a dining-room girl at the Hotel Riley for some time past, while Fred has grown to manhood just outside the city limits.

The newly married people will live on a farm of Stephen Wiles, west of city, where they will farm. They have a host of friends who, with the Journal, wish them a very happy and prosperous journey through life.

Married in the Early Morning.

Last evening Peter Rouchka obtained a license and this morning was united in wedlock with Miss Margaret Aschenberger at the Holy Rosary church by Rev. Father Hanck in the presence of a few friends. The bride and groom are well and favorably known by a large number of our people. They will make their home at this place where the groom is employed in the Burlington shops. The Journal joins with their friends in wishing them a happy journey through life.

INTERSTATE TELEPHONE RATES

Agreement Planned by Independent Telephone Companies, Which no Doubt Will be Agreeable to all Patrons

An interstate rate and routing book for the guidance of independent telephone line operators will soon be issued, applying to the state of Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Iowa, says the Lincoln News. It will be based on the block system of rates, with each county in Nebraska forming one block and the same division probably observed in the other state. There will be a fixed rate between each county in this state and every county in Missouri, Kansas and Iowa. The rate will apply in both directions. It is intended by this plan to get rid of details which have led to much confusion heretofore and to make the system of charging uniform.

The matter of standardizing interstate rates, time limit of conservations, overtime charges and abolishing reduced rates at night was considered at the meeting of the Iowa independent telephone association, which met at Cedar Rapids this week. Secretary R. E. Mattison of the Nebraska independent telephone traffic association was in attendance. He found sentiment there favorable to the proposed unification of service and rates.

It has been agreed that representatives of the independent interests in all four states shall meet at Kansas City as soon as the respective associations can name them, to draft the block traffic plan. Nebraska will be represented by R. E. Mattison and Frank H. Woods. The Iowa men who will be there are Charles G. Cockrell of Jefferson and W. J. Thill of Des Moines, C. G. Myers of Kansas City and one other man will represent Missouri and Kansas.

Rates and service on toll lines within the state of Nebraska will not be affected by the action to be taken at Kansas City. No changes can be made on state business here without an application being made to the railway commission and its consent secured. On interstate traffic, however, the companies are not subject to regulation and may fix such rates and rules as they see fit. Nebraska rates are fixed on a mileage basis. Patrons in this state get the benefit of five minute conservation and half rates for night service, while in Missouri, Iowa and Kansas they are not so liberally treated.
