A BUSINESS VIEW OF CONSERVATION

The Conference of Big Men in the National Capitol

The conference of governors of the states and territories, now in session at Washington is a unique assembly alike in object and in constitution. Never before have the executive heads of all the commonwealths of the union met in Washington or elsewhere for any purpose, and never before has a conference representing every section of the country as this been officially called together for the purpose of arriving at a comprehensive program for the conservation of the national resources. Thus the conference is an epoch making event in a double sense and doubtless the proceedings of the sessions now open in the historic east room, will be watched, as they should be, with the keenest interest by Americans of all degrees and sections.

The scene should be worth commemorating when the chief executive of the world's greatest federation faces for the first time in history the chief executives of its forty-six constituent states, all met to consult together of ways of keeping for future Americans the heritage of natural resources, which has lifted America to her present place of wealth and power. There are other distinguished men present, too, among them representatives of all the important national organizations of one kind and another, the welfare of which depends upon national resources.

The reason why the manufacturer is interested in the conservation of our natural resources is plain enough. In fact his interest is, or ought to be, of a direct personal kind for the result of the policy adopted toward the national resources will affect no one more immediately or more forcibly. Coal, iron wood, oil, the products of the soil, these are the things he must have to carry on his business. Let the present wasteful processes go on to the end pointed out by our scientists and experts and the factory chimneys will cease to smoke and workshops close for lack of material. What this would mean to America's prosperity and place in the world and incidentally to her manufactures, it needs no imagination to see. His own business interests, to say nothing of his interests as a patriotic citizen, are thus enough to make the question of conserving the national resources one of the questions in which every foresighted business man—and that means every member of the National Association of Manufacturers, as a matter of course—must take the liveliest possible interest.

J. W. Berger, of Nebraska City, the manager of the Duff Grain company's elevator at that place, passed through the city today enroute for Louisville, to assist in the repairing of their elevators at that place which were wrecked in the cyclone of Monday evening.

Lecture Course.

We are going to have another lecture course for the coming year. Excellent talent has been secured to appear among the various numbers. It will open with Adam Bede, the humorist of the national house of representatives. Following him comes one of the greatest pulpit orators in this western country, the man with a message, Matt Hughes. After them the Oriole Quartette, a very talented and highly recommended ladies musical organization, then Fletcher, a very prominent lecturer, who is held in very high esteem by a number of our local friends who have heard him. Following comes Ralph Bingham and the magician, Durro, about whom, as entertainers, we need say nothing, since they are so well and favorably known the country over.

The lecture course this year had a small deficit to meet, due largely to the panic which followed soon after the opening number, but those who have farthered it and promoted it are determined to carry it through for another season and so are offering Eldredge, the famous impersonator to the public of Plattsmouth on Monday, the 18th, as an aid in meeting the deficit of the past season. He is an entertainer from beginning to the end, who has never failed to please his audience wherever he has appeared, and the present opportunity is one not to be missed. Come and hear him. Reserved seats on sale Saturday—50c, 35c and 25c.

Gibbon House Changed Hands.

C. E. Frank of the Gibbon House has turned over the hotel to Misses Chloey and Rachael Tanner, who are now in charge. These ladies we believe will conduct the establishment in good shape, keep the rooms in nice order and it is hoped, make some money. Mrs. Tanner will also come and help the girls, and as all are hard workers, their success ought to be insured.—Weeping Water Republican.

Visit Louisville.

A large number of Plattsmouth people visited the tornado ruins at Louisville yesterday, and they returned last evening with the report of the fearful devastation of property. They say that while the first reports were somewhat exaggerated, the ruins are fearful to view. The town was visited by thousands of people yesterday, and many will be there today from all over Cass county.

Painting and Papering Now

Painting, paper hanging, and ceilinging, all kinds of graining and staining done on short notice. This is the season of the year for new paint and paper. All work guaranteed and promptly done. Independent phone 378 Green. O. G. HALE.

Robert Richter and wife were visitors yesterday in Murray with Westley Hill and wife, Mrs. Hill and Mr. Richter being brother and sister.

I. Pearlman, of Omaha, departed for home this morning, after having been in the city for the past few days, looking after his monthly collections.

AT REST IN THE SILENT CITY

The Mortal Remains of Miss Lizzie Kroehler Laid to Rest in Oak Hill Cemetery.

The last sad rites were celebrated this afternoon over the remains of Miss Lizzie Kroehler, who died last Monday with a stroke of paralysis. The services were conducted jointly by the Daughters of Rebekah, and the Local Mystic Legion of America, each furnishing one-half the pall bearers, and the Rev. H. D. Thomas, of the Christian church, delivering the funeral address. A large number of her friends gathered to pay the last respects to her memory. The choir of the Christian church rendered some beautiful numbers.

The interment being made in Oak Hill cemetery. With the calling of this lady to the other world, goes one whom all loved to respect and honor. Ever seeking to do a kind act for someone who needed it, and from the time when the former stroke came, a very patient sufferer, and regaining her strength and health from will power more than anything else. In her sphere she will be missed by a multitude of friends who know of her kindly acts and good work. The pall bearers were for the Rebekah's: J. P. Sattler, John Busche and Frank Buttery, the Mystic Legion were: Harry Messersmith, Will Mason and Robert Brissey.

Going to Celebrate.

On July 4th there is going to be a big celebration in Weeping Water. The Commercial Club is behind the move, and the entertainment will be such that everybody will want to come. We don't get up cheap celebrations in Weeping Water, but this one will be bigger and better than all previous efforts.—Weeping Water Republican.

That's the way to do it. If you want a successful celebration the business men of the town must unite in working to that end. Now, it is very easy to determine whether our business men will unite on having a celebration. If they don't want one let them come out and say so. People can just as well go elsewhere to celebrate and spend their money, no matter how much they dislike to do so.

SEVERELY BITTEN BY A DOG

Little Ruth Monroe, at Pacific Junction Has Arm Badly Lacerated

A few days ago a dog which was supposed to be entirely gentle and harmless, bit little Ruth, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Monroe of Pacific Junction, inflicting some ugly wounds on her right arm. Mrs. Wm. Barnhart, the grandmother of the little girl, went over to Pacific Junction today, and took with her the mad-stone which Mr. H. C. McMaken has with his collection of curios, and with which the wounds will be treated. Dr. E. W. Cook has instructed Mrs. Barnhart how to apply the stone and how to treat the wounds, which is in charge of Dr. Bacon of Pacific Junction. The dog belonged to Wm. Anderson and it is thought it will be killed.

Our "Rosey" Re-elected.

W. E. Rosencrans returned last evening from Lincoln where, he was in attendance at the Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias and where he was re-elected one of the trustees of the grand lodge for a term of three years. This makes another three years and the office seems to come to him as natural as can be. But there is a reason for it—the people either in a public office or a lodge like to know they have a person who is competent, and will do the work and do it right without any question. Such a man is Mr. Rosencrans.

Tornado Views.

G. R. Olson, of the Olson Photograph company, of this city, was right on hand early yesterday morning, taking views of the Louisville tornado wreckage, and early this morning had numerous views placed in front of the Journal building, which are attracting the attention of everybody. This shows the enterprise of which this company is possessed, when it comes to being first on the ground in such cases.

Entertained at Omaha.

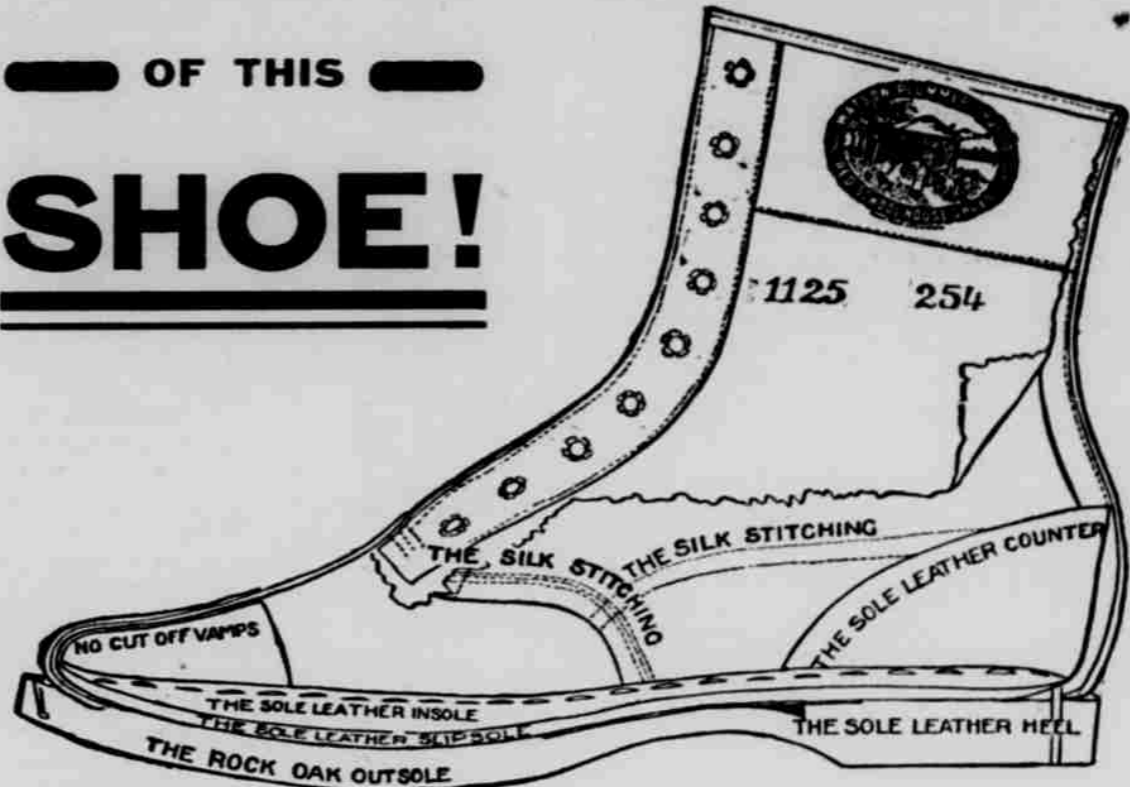

Mrs. T. P. Livingston, Misses Claire Dovey and Lena Fricke departed for Omaha on the early morning train, where they will be entertained by Miss Lucette Patterson at a luncheon and by Miss Bertha White at a box party at the Orpheum, this afternoon. Miss Margie Walker of Murray, will also be one of the party, having gone to Omaha on the M. P. train last evening.

A. J. Grindall, of Tabor, Iowa, departed for his home this morning, after having visited in the city with friends, and looked after some business matters.

Wm. Krisky, who takes the Sioux City-Plattsmouth run which was formerly held by Mr. Whittaker, has move to the city and will occupy the house of J. W. Johnson on South Ninth street, just off Chicago avenue.

The shovelers on the street work were laid off for an hour this morning, awaiting the return of Mr. Woodworth, who was in Omaha, and who brought with him on his return some tongs or carriers for handling the stone. The work is moving along as well as could be expected, and with favorable weather we might expect to see a completion of the contract at an early date.

Ensign H. Hankins, of the Salvation Army, who was soliciting in the city yesterday for the Girls Rescue Home at Omaha, departed for Glenwood, Ia., this morning, where he will look after some matters for the Army. In speaking of his visit in this city he said he was received with a great deal of courtesy, and treated the best, for which he wanted to express his thanks.
