MORE REGARDING RIVER NAVIGATION

The River and Harbors Chairman Impressed With Captain Schultz's Recent Report.

Just to show the better feeling towards the Missouri river that exists where such spirit counts, Captain E. H. Schultz, who returned to Kansas City Saturday morning from Washington, said that Theodore Burton, chairman of the House committee on rivers and harbors, expressed to him a desire to go down the Missouri river to see for himself the condition of the stream. Mr. Burton gave Lawrence M. Jones and Representative Ellis to understand he was very much impressed with Captain Schultz's comprehensive report. He intimated that there would be generous treatment in the next river and harbor bill for the Missouri. It is probable that when the members of the river and harbors committee make an inspection trip down the river that Mr. Burton will be one of the party. Representative Ellis has strongly urged him to make the trip, so says the Kansas City Star.

Captain Schultz went to Washington to appear before the board of engineers for rivers and harbors at the hearing on his report.

Report Under Consideration.

"The board," he said, "has taken the report under consideration and will make its report upon it between now and the opening of the next session of Congress. As soon as the document is printed it will be made public. Until then I cannot give any particulars about it. I believe, however, that the report covers everything that can possibly be said for the river."

After the engineer board shall have finished with the report nothing else is to be done officially until the river and harbor committee takes up the appropriation bill. Because of the late adjournment of Congress and the national conventions following shortly afterward it is not probable that Representative Ellis will be able to get the committee together before September to make the inspection trip on the river from Kansas City to the mouth. At that time the river will be in fine condition and enough steamboats will be running to make a good showing of business. It may be, also, that the committee will take that opportunity to give hearings along the way to all persons interested in the improvement of the river, instead of having them go to Washington while the appropriation bill is under consideration.

May Hold Hearings Along the River.

Those who are interested in the improvement of the Missouri river would like nothing better than to have Mr. Burton make a trip on the river. He probably knows more about rivers and harbors in a general way than any man in Congress. It was Mr. Burton, too, who in 1892, becoming disgusted with the action of Missouri valley congressmen in demanding always that appropriations, made for river improvement be spent in protecting somebody's farm, "wiped the river off the map." It was Mr. Burton, too, who, on the representation made by Representative Ellis and the promise of Lawrence M. Jones that boats would be placed on the river, consented to an appropriation of $400,000 at the last session of Congress to clear the snags from the channel. And he promised, too, if there was a revival of navigation he would help to place the river back on the map.

W. H. Stokes was a visitor in the city this morning from Mynard.

Henry Hirz, jr., was a visitor in the city this morning, looking after some business matters.

A. W. White was a visitor in Omaha this afternoon, looking after some business matters.

OPPORTUNITY!

Knocks at the door of every one, and there is a tide in all our lives, which taken leads to fortune. We have that opportunity now in the shape of a horse ranch containing a full section and an extra eighty, with thoroughly first class improvements, a modern dwelling, barns, granaries, other out buildings, well fenced, all buildings nearly new, water piped into all barns, feed lots, house and every field. This place, which is now being used for the purpose of breeding horses and raising mules is paying some $8,000.00 per year, and has improvements to the amount of $6,000 and is being sold on account of the death of the wife of the owner. This will go at a figure which will make a good profit and a good per cent income on the investment.
