THAT BANNER AT THE CAPITOL

What a Traveling Man Says Regarding the Banner Torn Down

A special from Lincoln says: "The traveling man, who had no particular interest in the matter, declares that a neighbor of his was the man employed to take down the banner, and that neighbor told the facts to him under a pledge of keeping his name secret. Neither man wants his name known because of the trouble it is liable to plunge them into. The traveling man does not want to be placed in a position where he may be forced to break faith with his neighbor and the latter fears that liability for the damage done in taking the banner down may be charged to him.

"It is true at any rate that the banner did not bear the union label, and that union labor men of Lincoln had made several complaints to the state committee about the omission.

"The banner in falling dropped over a trolley wire, which promptly set fire to it. It was the resulting appearance of the banner after the fire had been extinguished that gave the state committee its clue to make political capital out of the incident. No one save the committee knows anything about the banner from the time it was taken down. No other hand than those of the employees of the committee have ever touched it. No attempt by any one else to take it away.

"The committee had it taken to the shop of Lincoln Sign works where no one is allowed even to see it, and where the photographs which are being distributed were made. These photographs, made behind closed doors by the employees of the committee, are the only ones in existence. One is told at the sign company shop that they have orders to let no one see it.

Celebrated His Birthday.

Matt Joy was the recipient last evening of a most pleasant surprise, a number of his friends descending upon his home on Vine street to help him celebrate his thirty-second birthday. As a memento of their good feelings, they left with him a fine rattan rocking chair, something he will cherish for the rest of his days.

The evening was spent most pleasantly with games, music and pastimes galore, an especially pleasing feature being several ballads rendered by Victor Anderson. Mrs. Joy prepared some most toothsome refreshments, after which the guests departed satisfied that they had had one of the most enjoyable evenings in their lives.

Those present included Messrs. and Mesdames Will Scotten, Louis Egenberger, Joseph Peters, John Lutz, Mike Lutz, Harry Barthold, Dan Smith, Will Smith, Joseph Wales, Ward Clark, John Sattler, John Busche, Dallas Gibson, A. L. Anderson, Mrs. B. E. Byers of Hastings, Neb., and Victor Anderson.

The Matter Somewhat Mixed.

Mr. R. B. Windham, local representative of the Nebraska Underwriters Insurance Company, called at the Journal yesterday and stated that that company took exception to the statement that they had declined to settle the loss sustained by H. E. Weidman upon his stock of merchandise in the fire of July 4th. From their statement it would appear that the company did not refuse payment but that their adjuster left with the understanding that Mr. Weidman was to make an inventory of the stock left which was still saleable when the matter would be taken up again. They claim all companies had this understanding and not them alone. This is presented so that all may have a right to be heard in the matter. Mr. Weidman last evening denied that any understanding had been entered into by which he was to make an inventory.

Nebraska Loses Money on Eggs.

State Food Commissioner Johnson has issued another bulletin against bad eggs. He warns farmers, retailers and produce men against selling them, as each offense makes a person liable to a fine of $10 to $100. It is his duty to prosecute offenders. He says:

"Nebraska hens are producing 90,000,000 dozen eggs annually. These Nebraska eggs are worth 3 to 5 cents per dozen less than the highest market price in New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore on account of the low grade they take on these markets by reason of the dishonest and careless mixing of bad eggs with the good.

"Five cents a dozen on 90,000,000 dozen eggs amounts to $4,500,000.

"It gives me unbounded pleasure to recommend Bucklen's Arnica Salve, says J. W. Jenkins of Chapel Hill, N.C. "I am convinced it's the best salve the world affords. Pretty Quick Time.

W. B. Banning and William K. Cross of Union, came up this morning in Mr. Banning's automobile, making the run in one hour. They came near having a serious accident at Henry Eikentary's place just south of the city, the burr coming off of the rear wheel on the right hand side of the car letting the wheel drop down. Fortunately the accident had been discovered by Mr. Banning before any harm resulted, he feeling the unusual motion of the machine and thinking it was skidding, bringing the machine to a stop without damage. Mr. Banning had business to transact at the court house and also took occasion to treat a number of his friends to a ride in his machine.

Don't Overlook a Good Thing.

Recently there has been a strong demand for the spoons being given away by this paper, many prominent people calling and paying their subscriptions for a year in advance to the daily at four dollars and a half per year where the paper is delivered by carrier and four dollars where it is sent by mail. The spoons may also be obtained by paying two dollars a year in advance for the semi-weekly. These people comprise those in all walks of life and show that a lot of them know a good business proposition when they see it. If you are not one of them, it means you are overlooking a good thing.

A Successful Affair.

The box sociable given by the pupils of Eight Mile Grove Sunday school at the home of R. W. Long at Mynard on last Saturday night, was a success in every particular. There was a large audience, many of the guests being from this city, and everyone had a fine time, as can well be imagined they would.

In addition to the box features of the sociable, there was elegant ice cream refreshments, while the usual incidents of such a gathering were in evidence everywhere. All in attendance united in their praise of the success of the affair.

BIG CLOUDS OF MOTHS

New York Pestered by an Egyptian Plague in the Downtown Section.

BUGLOGGISTS MUCH BOTHERED

Moths Have Been the Cause of One Death, a Little Boy Falling from a Window While Watching the Insects.

New York, July 20.—The host of white-winged moths which appeared again during the evening caused the death of Frank Stevens, three years old. The boy stood at one of the windows of his parents' home on the top floor of the house and jumped up and down when he saw the little moths flutter past the window. Finally the child climbed upon the sill and tumbled to the yard.

The myriads of white moths which have swept downtown in the last two days, thick enough in places to suggest a summer snowstorm, are believed by entomologists to be descendants of the great army of measuring worms that afflicted New York in 1862 and caused such concern that an association of distinguished physicians was formed to design the destruction of the pests.

Strangers to Bug Expert.

Professor Beutenmuller of the Museum of Natural History never saw this particular species before, and he is on terms of intimacy with the entire bug family.

The invasion of 1862 lasted six days and one morning in the latter part of July the streets in New York and Brooklyn were filled with millions of dead moths. The "measuring worms" which laid the eggs that produced the insects disappeared as suddenly as they came and have not been seen since then.

Deposit Eggs in Park Trees.

The cloud of moths that swept down Broadway did not stop to feed in city hall park. The flight was continued to Battery Park, where the insects clung to tree trunks and branches while the eggs were deposited. These eggs will go through a period of incubation of 355 days and the butterfly that finally appears will live seven days.

Dr. Southwick, the city entomologist, foresaw three days ago that the invasion of the measuring worm threatened the park and made preparations to spray the trees. Five gangs of men will work until the entire park area is covered.

CARDINAL IS CONCERNED

Bemoans the Trend in This Country Toward Unrighteousness—Problem Must Be Met.

New York, July 20.—Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, said before he sailed for Genoa with many other Roman Catholic dignitaries on the pilgrimage to Rome: "I am much concerned over the political conditions of this country. There seems to be such a gradual trend toward unrighteousness in the great mass of our people that thinking men must realize that the problem must be met without delay. There is no politics without morality. There is no morality without religion, and without religion there is no God. In politics today men will sell their votes for a dollar and a half. Corrupt political bosses in many states and cities lead men to vote either way they choose. Men are nominated and elected who are unfit." The cardinal continued that the place to begin training the future citizens is in the public schools. He suggested that each religious denomination maintain its own schools, the expense to be borne by the state.

been Fifty-three Years in Harness.

Bloomington, Ill., July 21.—George Hough, a passenger conductor on the Wabash railroad, has rounded out fifty-five years of active service on the rail and bids fair to go another five years before retiring. He is seventy-two years of age and for the last thirty years has had a regular run between the Bluffs and Keokuk. A native of Connecticut, Hough worked for four years for the New York, New Haven and Hartford road before coming west in 1857. His only accident was thirty years ago when running as an engineer, and he was so badly injured that he was made a passenger conductor.

In Justice Court

Before Justice H. D. Barr this morning Albert Pope had his examination on the charge of bastardy preferred by Minnie Osbon of Greenwood. The young man and his father appeared, his counsel being Byron Clark while the young woman and her father appeared with Matthew Gering as counsel.

Miss Osbon testified that Pope was the father of her unborn child and on cross examination by Mr. Clark gave the date when intercourse was alleged to have taken place with the statement of the location where it was had.

At the conclusion of her testimony, Justice Barr held Pope to the district court in one thousand dollar bonds which he furnished, all parties departing for their respective homes in Greenwood on the fast mail.

A Surprise Party

A surprise party arranged for Miss Gretchen Donnelly upon the occasion of her twentieth birthday, took place last evening at the home of Miss Ruth Johnson. Miss Donnelly was inveigled into visiting Miss Johnson, who had carefully concealed several of her young lady friends on the premises, and whose sudden appearance greatly surprised Miss Donnelly. A most delicious luncheon had been prepared in advance and was served on the lawn, Miss Johnson officiating as hostess.

Those present were Misses Francis Weidman, Helen Chapman, Gladys Marshall, Ruth Johnson, and Marie and Gretchen Donnelly.
