

LARGE STRUCTURE OF HANDSOME DESIGN

The Home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Born a Fine Testimonial of Energy and Enterprise.

Several days since the Journal made a brief mention of the fine new residence recently completed by Henry Born, information for a more complete description not being available at the time. Since then the writer has been enabled to make a personal visit to the place and he is more than gratified to be able to say that all the good things said of this palatial home by the neighbors is more than justified.

Mr. Born's home lies some three miles west of the city, the new residence being built in a fine grove of trees upon a commanding eminence. The location is a slightly one and the fine dwelling is visible a long distance away. From its commanding position one can look away over rich, fertile fields for miles and no better situation could have been chosen for the building. The house is surrounded by a fine and artistic fence of square pickets standing high and of tasteful design. On the south is the gateway leading to the front of the house, a gate of artistic design handsomely grained and varnished, in itself a veritable gem of work. On the west another gate leads from the door yard to the barn yard where stands another monument of Mr. Born's excellent husbandry, a large barn and granary sheltering Mr. Born's fine animals, and in itself a structure to be proud of.

Before entering the house itself one must take a look at the neat dooryard with cement walks leading in every direction and all precautions having been taken against carrying mud and dirt to Mrs. Born's scrupulously clean floors. This is a splendid improvement and one which Mr. Born can well be proud of. It may also be remarked that Mr. Born has a plentiful supply of fine water upon his premises and it is so arranged that the house is plentifully supplied with both well and cistern water.

The house itself is a fine large structure of handsome design, one of the most pleasing features being a roomy porch or veranda extending around the south and west sides whereon the family can take the cool of the summer evenings in peace and content, the porch having handsome white pillars and an artistic railing about it.

The foundation of the structure is of reinforced concrete, several feet thick with a four inch air chamber making it frost proof. The entire basement is used for various purposes. There is a cellar loaded with the store of winter foods and on one side of the cellar is a large frame case for canned fruits. A look inside this case makes one's mouth water for Mrs. Born has stored it to the brim with bottles and cans of every sort of fruit, seemingly enough to feed a nation. The heating plant is also in the cellar and it consists of a fine Campbell hot air furnace so fitted that hot water can also be supplied if necessary. Two large tanks for water stand in another part of the cellar, these being kept filled from the well by a little powerful gasoline engine which puffed and fumed away at its task like it was worried over the job. It was Mr. Born's intention to have this engine also arranged so that it will turn the washing machine and other machinery for the household duties and save Mrs. Born the strain and work of running them herself. The wash room is in the basement also and it is fitted up in splendid shape for the work.

The first floor contains the parlor, living room or dining room, a large bed room, kitchen, pantry which is a wonder, a bath room than which none finer can be found in this section and closets galore. The parlor faces to the south and is a large room, superbly finished in what is known as Mission oak, with a floor of red oak, a room at once tasty and pleasing to the eye. It is also lighted brilliantly by large, single glass windows which let in a great amount of light. But one of the finest pieces of work in the building is the front door, a large, massive oak door superbly grained and painted with a gold band about it which shows up strikingly. This door is one of the most artistic pieces of work the writer ever had the fortune to look upon and speaks well for the workman, who in this case was Mr. N. K. Peoples. The dining room opens from the parlor with two large sliding doors which are gems in themselves. It, too, is finished in Mission oak, but the floors are of quarter-sawn oak and smooth and level as a billiard table. As in the parlor, the painting and varnishing is one of the handsome features of the room. This room has another door which Mr. Peoples finished which is also a beautiful piece of work. In both rooms the hot air registers are of ornamental iron and add to the appearance of the rooms. The window shades are large, green shades neat and attractive in appearance and aiding in making the general effect pleasant.

Then comes the kitchen, the pride of Mrs. Born, and quite justly so. It is thoroughly modern in every way. There is a handsome sink with hot and cold water and finely nicked fixtures throughout.

There is a fine range set along the wall with hot water tank for immediate use. Then there is a pantry which is simply one of the finest arrangements of the kind in existence. Mrs. Born cannot help but feel proud of it for it is so arranged that everything is at her finger ends. There is a place for everything and it is a matter of regret that space forbids a detailed description of just how it is arranged. It is enough to say that the plan is entirely Mrs. Born's and it is right in every way. There is a short entrance from the back porch which is so arranged that coats, hats, wraps and overshoes may be left there and none of the muck and slush carried into the interior of the building.

The bathroom, which comes next, is one of the finest in the country. The tub is of the latest style and finish, highly enameled and with nicked trimmings, a fine brass towel rack, and in fact, every modern accoutrement for the cleanliness of man. It may be remarked that the design of this room is splendid, there being two entrances, one from the adjacent bed room and another from the hall. The room is very handsomely decorated in blue and gold, the workmanship being of the very highest order and the work of a genuine artist. Mr. Peoples also did much of this work assisted by his partner R. H. Patton.

The bed room is a very large, roomy one and also quite handsomely finished. It is also handsomely furnished and is quite homelike.

The stairs leading to the upper floor are grained in Mission oak finish, also a nice piece of work.

The upper floor contains large, roomy bed rooms, all of them finely finished and handsome with hot air registers everywhere, rooms fit for the gods. There is also a handsome linen room upon this floor.

Then there is the attic, an ideal room for rainy days, large and lofty, which can easily be turned into two handsome rooms when needed.

The china closet, which was neglected above, stands between the dining room and the kitchen opening into both and is a fine piece of work. It is very handy and convenient.

Although this sketch of this delightful suburban home is necessarily incomplete and hasty, enough has been shown above to show how nicely these good people are situated. They have a home which is the pride of their lives and which all their neighbors point to as one of the best places in the neighborhood, and they are so fixed that life for them is even now one of ease.

The work upon this fine structure was done by Smith & Tiekotter, who did the wood work and reared this stately building and their work is a monument to their industry and ability. They can well refer to this building, for it is a splendid recommendation. The painting was done by N. K. Peoples and R. H. Patton and these gentlemen can well point to this work. It is one of the finest jobs they have ever done and is well worth investigating by anyone who hopes to employ decorators and painters. The long experience of both of these gentlemen shows up well in this work which is highly artistic and handsome. From personal observation the Journal man is prepared to state they do the work and do it well. The iron work, the furnace, etc., was put in by John Bauer.

The old house which the present structure superseded has been moved back from the site and still stands after a long life of fifty-three years.

The new building is a fine testimonial to the thrift and worth of Mr. Born and his very charming wife. It is at once a great and worthy monument to their patient toil and well may they be proud of it.

Birthday Surprise Party.

From Wednesday's Daily—
Yesterday a number of friends and relatives of Mrs. C. A. Berggren gave her a very pleasant birthday surprise party, the occasion being Mrs. Berggren's forty-ninth anniversary. They came in during the morning and green home, proceeding to decorate the house to their own taste and very handsomely in chrysantheums and autumn foliage. They also brought in the estimable lady many presents both beautiful and costly all expressing their just esteem of her.

The entire day was spent by her guests in a most enjoyable manner, Mrs. Berggren outdoing herself as a hostess. Her children came down from Omaha to grace the occasion and the lady surely had one of her most pleasant days. For the benefit of the guests she had prepared a splendid dinner which all partook of with the utmost appreciation. It was such a collation as anyone might well be proud of and the guests were not slow in expressing their delight. When evening came they could not help but feel that a delightful and enjoyable day had been passed.

In the good day were Mesdames A. Those present and participating in the good day were Mesdames A. Pies trup, P. Nord, John Brady, C. J. Berggren, Mrs. Simpson and Mesdames A. G. Wahlstrom, John Wahlstrom, O. W. Johnson and Miss Hannah Berggren of Omaha, and Mr. Fredolf Nord, and Gottfried Berggren of Omaha.

How is Your Digestion?

Mrs. Mary Dowling of 228 3th Ave., San Francisco, recommends a remedy for stomach trouble. She says: "Gratitude for the wonderful effect of Electric Bitters in a case of acute indigestion, prompts this testimonial. I am fully convinced that for stomach and liver troubles Electric Bitters is the best remedy on the market today." This great tonic and alterative medicine invigorates the system, purifies the blood and is especially helpful in all forms of female weakness. 50c at F. C. Fricke & Co's. drug store.

CASS COUNTY S. S. CONVENTION

A Highly Interesting and Successful Session and Large Attendance.

The Cass County Sunday School convention held at Weeping Water Monday and Tuesday closed last night after a highly interesting and successful session. At the opening of the convention the attendance numbered about one hundred delegates, officers and teachers. Several of the prominent members of the convention were from this city including Rev. A. A. Randall, who delivered a powerful and eloquent discourse on the saloon question in politics, Rev. J. H. Salsbury, who did much active work at the convention and Cliff C. Wescott, whose activities during and before the convention were very marked, while Mrs. H. E. Wescott of this city had charge of the musical program, a highly pleasing one.

As had been outlined in this paper before, the program came off without a hitch. There was a very long program of many interesting things for the first day, one of the most important of which was the several addresses upon the practical side of Sunday school management by C. D. Meigs of Indianapolis, Ind., and Paul S. Deitrick of Lincoln. All of them were excellent and filled with sound, practical reasoning and instructive to the many teachers and delegates in attendance.

The choice of officers of the association was as follows: Charles E. Noyes, president; C. C. Wescott, vice president; Geo. L. Farley, secretary; Jas. Stander, treasurer; Rev. A. A. Randall, superintendent temperance department; Miss Olga Neitzel, superintendent of primary department; Rev. J. H. Salsbury, superintendent pastor's department; Miss Elizabeth Chapman, teachers' training.

The next place of meeting was fixed at Elmwood and the time as next fall, the exact date to be determined later.

Rev. A. A. Randall of this city yesterday delivered an address upon the saloon in politics, in which he bitterly arraigned the liquor interests for their alleged activities and their advocacy of different candidates for office. The methods which they use to secure victory in the election also came in for a scoring at his hands and his remedy for the evils which he complained of was the adoption of prohibition.

A resolution pledging the members of the convention to county option and ultimate prohibition was unanimously adopted. The resolution is as follows:

"We, the members of this convention do hereby desire to go on record as emphatically pledged to county option and all other good measures looking toward the hastening of state and national prohibition, and we will always support the men whom we know to be pledged to the same."

An Old Friend Calls.

From Wednesday's Daily—
S. M. Barnhart, of Council Bluffs, dropped down upon the Journal people this morning. Sam is now in the wholesale business at the Bluffs and simply took a day off to come down to see us. He several years ago lived at Silver City, Ia., when R. A. Bates published the Times at that place, and they became fast friends. Mr. Barnhart is a fine gentleman, and there is no one of our acquaintances that we would feel more delighted to meet than Sam, and we only regret that our work is in such shape that it would not permit us to take a day off and show him around. We hope his next visit to our city will be under more favorable auspices.

More Than Enough is Too Much.

To maintain health, a nature man or woman needs just enough food to repair the waste and supply energy and body heat. The habitual consumption of more food than is necessary for these purposes is the prime cause of stomach troubles, rheumatism and disorders of the kidneys. If troubled with indigestion, revise your diet, let reason and not appetite control and take a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and you will soon be all right again. Justly Proud.

Senator W. E. Banning came up from his home at Union on the Missouri Pacific train which was some four hours behind time, as usual. He came in to meet his many friends and to thank them for the good work they did for him on election day. The senator is quite justly proud of his victory despite the hard and bitter fight which many made against him and is proud of the confidence imposed in him by his many friends.

Come Up With the Cigars, Judge.

From Wednesday's Daily—
County Judge Beeson declares that he will not set up the cigars, but his many friends insist he must and when he shows up at the office he can well be prepared to hand them over for they will have them. The cause of all the controversy is the arrival of a fine, handsome, bouncing girl baby at his home last night. Really and seriously, the Judge is mighty proud of his new heiress and can't help but show it. Both mother and child are doing well. The little one is pronounced a regular corker.

THE EXPENSES OF CANDIDATES

The Statements Filed by the Various Candidates in Cass County.

A number of the candidates have filed their expense accounts with County Clerk Rosencrans showing a varied assortment of figures. For county attorney it cost Billy Ramsey $92.80 to defeat A. L. Tidd. Ramsey spent 47.00 in advertising—a well placed expenditure; paid $15.00 assessment; paid party workers $23.00 and had miscellaneous expenditures of $8.80. Tidd, to get defeated, parted with $89.37, of which the central committee secured $65.00, the printers got $22.25, and other expenses ate up $2.12. It cost Representative Noyes $87.50 to return to the legislature, of which he paid $60 to the central committee, spent $9.00 in advertising and spent $18.50 for cards. His colleague, D. Smith, secured an election by spending $67.30, paying $60 for an assessment, $6 for cards and $1.30 for miscellaneous expenses. Commissioner Switzer returned to the office after parting with $60.00, he paying the county central committee $40.00 and buying $20.00 worth of cards.

Senator Banning defeated Orlando Tefft after spending $92.58, of which the democratic central committee got $15.00, the printers $39.25 and the incidental expenses of the campaign eating up $38.57. Col. M. A. Bates to change the "Col." to "Hon." paid out the princely sum of $49.25, of which the democratic central committee took $15.00; the soulless corporations of railroads secured $10.00, the livymen got $8.00 and the printers $16.25.

There was considerable curiosity expressed by several prominent republicans as to what their committee did with the large assessments they levied upon their candidates, they contending that results didn't bear out the expenditure.

Taken Suddenly Ill.

From Wednesday's Daily—
Mrs. Moses Hiatt was taken very ill during Monday night, and her son Demie was aroused from his slumbers by her groaning. He found his mother very ill and immediately summoned a physician, who alleviated her suffering to some extent, but yesterday she was still unable to take any nourishment. Today we are pleased to learn that she is somewhat better and is able to retain some nourishment. The Journal hopes for Mrs. Hiatt's speedy recovery.

Watched Fifteen Years.

"For fifteen years I have watched the working of Bucklen's Arnica Salve; and it has never failed to cure any sore, boil, ulcer or burn to which it was applied. It has saved us many a doctor bill," says A. F. Hardy, of East Wilton, Maine. 25c at F. C. Fricke & Co's. drug store.

Local News.

From Tuesday's Daily—
W. R. Haffke departed this morning on No. 6 for Chicago, Ill., where he went to look after business matters.

John Halstrom, wife and daughter and two sons departed this noon on the fast mail for Omaha, where they will make a short visit. Mrs. Vanfleet has a son buried at Walnut Hill cemetery, Omaha, and makes the trip for the purpose of visiting his grave.

Mrs. McCrea of Smith Center, Kas., who has been in the city for the past week, visiting with W. D. Jones and family departed this morning for Osceola, Neb., where she will visit with other relatives previous to returning to her home. Mrs. McCrea is a sister of Mr. Jones.

Former Senator S. L. Thomas, Walter L. Thomas and Clair Thomas were passengers this morning on the early train for Omaha where they go to make a purchase of a new automobile. As told yesterday in this paper they have sold their machine and intend to get a larger one. Senator Thomas declares they will not purchase, however, unless they can get a 1909 model of which a shipment of one hundred is expected by this time.

A DELIGHTFUL SURPRISE.

To Mr. Louis Born at His Home Saturday Night.

Last Saturday night Mrs. Louis Born gave her husband a very delightful surprise party at their home in the precinct. For the occasion she had invited their many friends to the house and had a scene of festivity until a late hour. There was a complete surprise in the affair as Mr. Born did not know of the careful preparations his good wife had made. When the guests came in on him he was very much surprised and needless to say, delighted to have them come.

The evening was spent in the jolliest manner imaginable. There was music of all kinds, singing and card playing and later the assembled guests indulged in dancing which continued until almost the close of the party when Mrs. Born uncovered the fine feast which she had prepared to crown the evening's entertainment. And she had done herself proud in this for there was almost everything to eat to be had and gotten up in her very choicest style. After the supper, the many guests departed for their homes wishing both Mr. Born and his charming wife many happy returns and pleasant anniversaries. It was a red letter day for them all. There were many handsome and useful presents presented.

Those attending were Messrs. and Mesdames Geo. Born, Phillip Born, Henry Born, Charles Stoehr, Adam Stoehr, Anton Meisinger, John Meisinger, Aug. Nolting, Fred Nolting, Peter Halmes, George Halmes, William Schultz, John Hirz, Philip Tritsch, Julius Helflicker, Bert Vanhorn, Frank Parkenings, Phillip Meisinger, Louie Born, all the foregoing having their families with them; Misses Nettie, Mary, Cora, Mary Meisinger, Emma, Anna, Louise Gauer, Minnie Born, Anna Heil, Lena Hirz, Lula Blotzer, Ida Engerberger, Messrs. Adam Meisinger, Will Allie, Emil, Louis, Emile Meisinger, Elmer and Clarence Meisinger, George and Harry Horn, Will and Fred Hirz, Nick Baumgardner, Louie and Will Heil, Frank Blotzer, Fred Kaffenberger, Philip Fornoff, Frank Steppat, Carl Sargune, Albert Sargune, Fred Senonite, Tony Clem.
