WEATHER VERY GOLD AND CLEAR

Last Night Colder Than Night Before. Is Very Near Zero.

From Wednesday's Daily.
 The cold weather of the past few days has resulted in a big flow of ice in the river and the continuance of the snap means an early closing of the channel. As it is the ferry is out of commission, the boat not having operated either yesterday or today and of little prospect of again resuming its trips for some days to come. The ice is running very thick and at times seems to jam. The jams do not hold long however, but soon break and the flow is resumed. It is so thick now that the continuance of the freezing weather over another night or so, means the freezing of the mass into a solid body. This afternoon the weather is some warmer than for the past two days and the sky is clouded over with indications of snow.

Reports from the west and north indicate very cold weather last night. In this city the thermometers this morning registered from two to six above zero. Reports from points in the Dakotas, Minnesota, and the Canadian northwest indicate that the temperature last night reached considerably below the zero mark as it was colder than the night before when the mercury got down to one below at St. Paul, Minn and twenty below at Winnipeg.

Owing to the suddenness of the change the weather has been severely felt and reports on the cattle range where the snow fall was heavy, indicate great suffering among the cattle. Reports from the cities do not indicate unusual amount of suffering from the cold, owing probably to the brief time the snap has been on.

Trains through here today were on time and the snow and bad weather has not appreciably affected them, so far as their schedule is concerned.

The floods in Oklahoma and Kansas have greatly subsided the cold weather helping in this respect materially and it is believed the worst is over in these sections.

A Fine Steam Table.

From Monday's Daily.
 J. E. Daniel this morning received a fine steam table which he will install in his place today and which he hopes to have in fine working shape tomorrow. The table is all copper and has three receptacles, two of which can be used for serving chili, sauerkraut and the like while the center one will be used for hot roasts of different kinds. It is a handsome piece of furniture and as is usual with everything Mr. Daniel buys, it is the very best money can purchase. The primary object of the table is to serve hot free lunch upon.

Narrow Escape From Burning.

From Wednesday's Daily.
 Last evening O. P. Monroe was the probable cause of saving the paint shop and probably other buildings of the Burlington from destruction by fire, by his prompt and vigorous work. Mr. Monroe had been to the city and was driving home past the shops when he noticed a light in the paint shop, he paused and watched the light and presently concluded that it was a fire. He at once tied up his horse and ran into the shop yards, going to the door of the paint shop and trying it but finding it locked. He then ran down to the boiler house where he found night Watchman Oliver Gilson, and together they hurried back to the shop which Gilson opened. They discovered one of the large closets in the building in flames. The two men at once turned in and by dint of hard work soon had the water upon the closet and the flames under control and out. It was a piece of good work well done and Mr. Monroe deserves the thanks of the company for his forethought and observation. It is always a good idea for a man to notice anything unusual such as this light was and to investigate it. The loss had the flames been allowed a little further headway must have been heavy.

Their Marriage Legal.

From Wednesday's Daily.
 Yesterday at Nebraska City, Judge Travis handed down a decision in a case involving the legality of a marriage between a white man and a negro. Some time ago James Hand, a white man was arrested for living with a negro woman and held for trial in the district court. The facts as developed in the case went to show that the two had been married in Council Bluffs, Ia., in November 1892, by a justice of the peace and had been living together since that time as man and wife at various places. As the Iowa laws do not make such a marriage illegal the court held yesterday that the marriage must be recognized as a legal one and discharged the parties from custody. Under the laws of this state such a marriage would be illegal and the parties could have been prosecuted but the laws of a sister state must be recognized as binding. The case developed great interest in Nebraska City where strong prejudice against such an union existed.

Good Cough Medicine for Children.

The season for coughs and colds is now at hand and too much care cannot be used to protect the children. A child is more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a cold. The quicker you cure his cold the less risk Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the sole reliance of many mothers, and few of them who have tried it are willing to use any other. Mrs. F. F. Starcher, of Ripley, W. Va., says: "I have never used anything other than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for my children and it has always given good satisfaction." This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given confidently to a child as to an adult. For sale by F. G. Fricke & Co.

IS TO SUCCEED O. L. DICKESON

George W. Covert Appointed Superintendent of Transportation.

George W. Covert has been appointed assistant superintendent of transportation of the Burlington lines in charge of transportation west of the Missouri river to succeed O. L. Dickeson, who was promoted to the staff of the second vice president of the Burlington, with headquarters in Chicago. Mr. Covert has been with the Burlington since 1888, having entered the service at Lincoln as chief clerk in the office of car accountant. He was afterwards chief clerk in the office of assistant superintendent of transportation at Lincoln and when that office was moved to Omaha, Mr. Covert came also.

O. L. Dickeson left last night for Chicago, where he will make his home. His going is deeply regretted by the business men of Omaha, as during his short stay here he has made a world of friends and has been a good friend to Omaha. He has been most active in all undertakings for the good of Omaha and especially in assisting in organizing the magnificent trade excursions which the city has sent to the northwest during the last two years.

Since the announcement of Mr. Dickeson's promotion and of his intention to leave Omaha he has been made the recipient of many good wishes and also of many complimentary social functions and dinners by the leading business men of Omaha.

While Mr. Dickeson will make his headquarters in Chicago he will still retain an active interest in Omaha and will retain his membership in the different clubs of which he is a member. Mr. Dickeson is a member of the Omaha Commercial club, the Omaha Club and the Field club.—Omaha Bee.

Bignell Takes Vacation.

Superintendent E. Bignell of the Burlington left Saturday for a trip to Mexico, and it is understood that he will be gone two or three weeks, taking the first real vacation he has enjoyed in the past ten years. Mr. Bignell has been planning to take this trip for some time.

Mr. Bignell has under his charge one of the biggest railroad divisions in the country. In the Lincoln division of the road there is nearly one thousand miles of track. The heavy traffic of the lines pass over this division, and through Lincoln where the traffic centers. To manage this division keeps him almost constantly on the road.

The Lecture Last Night.

From Wednesday's Daily.
 The lecture of Mrs. Bulloch at the Methodist church last evening drew a fair audience despite the sharp weather and the added attraction of a sensational play at the Parmele. It was a fine lecture and one which all greatly admired who heard it. Mrs. Bulloch is a good talker and had her subject down well. She delivered a lecture that was very largely an historical review of the growth of the temperance movement in the United States.

Commencing with the origin of the first pledge in this country, made some one hundred years ago by Geo. R. Clark in Maine which pledge by the way, was against elder drinking and which excepted certain days when this tippie could be indulged in to one's heart's content, down through the time of Neal Dow until Maine from a state with probably the largest number of open saloons in proportion to its population and without a savings bank within its limits, had become absolutely prohibition and with more money in its savings banks in proportion to population than any other state. She also cited some statistics of Kansas, Iowa and Oklahoma, and gave an interesting history of the growth of the White Ribbon movement. She made a particularly strong appeal for women to wear the white ribbon. On the whole the lecture was a good one and well worth listening to.

Previous to the lecture Rev. A. A. Randall led in prayer and the choir of the Methodist church sang several appropriate selections. Mrs. Kerr introduced the speaker.

Tonight Miss Kearney, a talented southern orator, speaks upon the same subject at the Methodist church. There will be musical selections by Mrs. H. S. Austin and Miss Ella Margaret Dovey.

In a Fearful Condition.

From Monday's Daily.
 The condition of Main and Sixth street today is something fierce. There is a coating of mud over the pavement to the depth of several inches which makes it nearly impossible to get across the street without recourse to waders and the center of the streets is taken up by a stream of water several inches in depth. At the southeast corner of Main and Sixth streets, the mud has blocked the water up and a fish pond of several feet in length and 5 or 6 inches in depth has formed, almost cutting off communication between the different sides of the streets except by boat. It might be just as well for the city authorities to let this water out even if they do insist in having the mud on the streets. Along north and South Sixth streets the water stands in the middle of the streets due to either a lack of proper pitch or to clogging up of the drainway by mud. This ought to be looked after and remedied. On the whole the two streets have a most disreputable appearance and it is doubtful whether the expected good to the pavement will materialize. Certainly it is a tough proposition for pedestrians to get around through the mud.
