WILL COMMENCE RIPRAPING SOON

Burlington Arranging to Renew Work on the Iowa Side of the River.

The Burlington is starting to once more upon the work of riprapping the banks of the Missouri river at various points. The general foreman in charge of this work was in this vicinity last week and left assurances that this work will be commenced upon the other side of the river opposite this city in a very short time. As has been the custom for the past six or eight years, another section of the bank will be riprapped, that which has been done in the past having proven successful in resisting the cutting of the waters and protecting the tracks of the company to a great extent. This morning Ed Fitzgerald, who has the contract for cutting willows in this vicinity commenced the loading of seven cars of willows for use near Gibson where the river is encroaching upon the right of way, and as soon as this is completed it is believed work on loading for other points, among them just across the river, will commence. It is the usual custom of the company to cut these willows, weave them into a strong mat and when the river closes extend this mat over the ice and heavily weight it so that the breaking up of the ice automatically sinks it. The willows when woven in this form have great resisting force and when once in place they protect the banks along which they are placed from the action of the current. There has been a great deal of this work done the past six to ten years at various points on the river and it has saved an immense amount of money for the companies engaged in it. The amount of willow in this section has resulted in cutting out a great amount of the available willows, so that the stock is now very low. Mr. Fitzgerald, who has had the general charge of this cutting and leading finds it difficult at times to secure a supply and is constantly on the outlook for additional groves.

GOOD NEWS

Many Plattsmouth People Have Heard It and Profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and thousands of bad back sufferers in Plattsmouth are glad to learn that prompt relief is within their reach. Many a lame, weak and aching back is no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Our citizens are telling the good news of their experience with the Old Quaker remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

Mrs. James Hodgert, living at 1102 Main street, Plattsmouth, Neb., says: "I first used Doan's Kidney Pills about two years ago and they brought me such quick and positive relief from backache that I have since appealed to them in cases of recurrence of my trouble and they heavy aching in the small of my back, most gratifying results. I suffered a great deal at times from a dull, heavy aching in the small of my back, especially severe when I stooped or brought any strain on the muscles of my back. The fact that Doan's Kidney Pills rid me of this suffering and have never failed me since gives me cause to value them highly. My husband also used them for pain in his back and found them true to representation. We mean never to be without a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills, always getting them at Gering & Co.'s drug store."

The Horse Industry.

From Wednesday's Daily.

The firm of Schlater & Fitzgerald, who own a large ranch near Bridgeport, Neb., have concluded to start in the business of raising horses on a large scale and to this end, they last night shipped out a carload of horses from this city to that point. This is the commencement of shipments from here at different intervals as the stock can be picked up and the industry will be placed upon a paying basis in a very short time. Frank Fitzgerald for them departed last night with the car load to look after it on the road. It is Mr. Fitzgerald's intention to take up a homestead under the Kinkaid act in the near future, the raising of horses in western Nebraska gives promise of being a highly profitable industry and one in which many will embark. By getting a start at this time this firm will be in a position to reap the benefits of the industry.

Be a Little More Particular.
From Wednesday's Daily.

Some of the lady passengers in the cab coming down from the M. P. last evening have complained because a map in the vehicle had been fighting John Burley over a not wisely, but too well. He was decidedly offensive to them by his roasting breath, but more so when he got ready to unload at the Riley, as he fell all over one lady and was almost unable to handle himself. It might be just as well for the proprietor of the hack line to see that his drivers be a little more chokey in picking up their passengers as such revolting incidents cannot fail but hurt his business. It would have done this passenger good from all accounts to have walked down town as the walk world likely have sobered him up.
