Bridge Now In Shape.

From Thursday's Daily.

J. C. Bowers departed this morning for his home at Ashland. Mr. Bowers is one of the force of men who have been engaged for some time in replacing the broken ties in the Burlington bridge over the Missouri. These ties were broken some time since by the derailment of a refrigerator car which ran almost the length of the bridge upon the ties cutting and tearing them up so badly as to necessitate their replacing. Mr. Bowers found that the work was not difficult except the last few days when the weather interfered very materially with it. The work had to be performed at a high elevation above the river and the piercing northwest wind made it hard to perform. The work was completed last night, however, and the bridge is now safe for travel once more. The slow order had not been taken off this morning, however. Mr. Bowers says it was a great piece of luck that the wreck was not a disastrous one as the car was dangerously close to the edge of the track in several places and, had it gone over several of the cars must have been hurled from their lofty perch and dashed to pieces upon the ground below.

Another costly linotype machine of very highest regard. His illness has high and costly grade has taken its place in a Nebraska newspaper office, that of the Daily Journal of Plattsmouth. At this writing the machine is in parts, but will be set up and put in operation in a few days. Mr. Robert Bates, who took hold of the Journal a few years ago when it was not a very profitable institution, has made the paper a great success, as is evidenced by the big outlay that is now incurred in the mechanical department. The Journal is both daily and weekly, therefore the new mechanism will be kept busy all the time.-Western Pub-
