Miss Dovey Scores.

The triumph of Miss Alice Dovey in New York in the Princess Theater success "Stubborn Cinderella" is sweeping and complete. The lady has captured the heart of America's theaterdom and won for herself a high place in the affections of the metropolis critics, by her finished acting and her charming voice. Out of an immense array of flattering words which she has been the recipient of, those of the New York Mail's critic are of special import. The Mail is noted as one of the most critical of metropolitan papers in its theatrical standards and the high compliment paid Miss Dovey can all the more be appreciated when this is understood. This critic says in part:

"There is a young girl named Alice Dovey cast for a born flirt who is as chipper and wheedling

Geo. H. Wood, the Canada land man was in the city today between trains, preparing to depart for Calgary, Canada, where he takes up the agency for the northwest land as mentioned in this paper several days since.

The Duff Grain Company today required the services of Andrew Kroehler of Kroehler Brothers, to go out to their elevator at Oreadopolis and thaw out the water tank which thereat cold snap had frozen up tight. It is a structure holding about ten barrels and it will take some little time to get it thawed. Mr. Kroehler went out this morning.

Edna Wallace Hopper was in "The Girl I Left Behind Me" when I was a boy, and who has the added attraction of a singing voice. Keep an eye on Miss Dovey."

This is praise indeed, and the young lady and her parents are alike to be congratulated upon the brilliant success she has so early attained.

ROBBED OF PURSE

Traveling Man Suffers Loss Friday at Lincoln Hotel

L. P. Utterback one of the well known traveling men, who travels out of this city, was robbed of his purse containing $31 at the Lincoln Hotel at Lincoln. He and Al Leisle sat up in their rooms Friday morning watching the storm and talking over matters and then they concluded they would go to bed. Mr. Utterback retired and was soon fast asleep. He heard some one enter his room, but he was so sleepy he could not arouse himself and when he got up in the morning he found his pocket book and watch gone. The timepiece, which had his name therein was afterwards found up over the transom in the bath room wrapped up in a piece of paper, and his empty pocketbook in his coat pocket. Mr. Utterback says it was the first time he was ever robbed during all the years he has been on the road, but there was no key to his room and the door being open and the storm making so much noise that he coupled the noise made by the robber with that of the storm and did not arouse himself.—Nebraska City News.

A Rare Treat.

One of the most interesting discourses to be heard in this city for a long time will be that of Superintendent Davidson of the Omaha Public Schools who speaks before the Presbyterian Brotherhood at the church on next Sunday night. Prof. Davidson is a finished speaker, an educator of rare merit and one thoroughly at home upon questions touching his profession. His subject will be "The Problem of the Public School," he having so notified D. C. Morgan of the Brotherhood to that effect this morning. This is a subject which every parent must be interested in and one which merits their closest attention. It will be to their interest to turn out on next Sunday evening and hear what Prof. Davidson has to say upon this theme so vital to the public welfare.

From the standpoint of securing the adoption of the very best methods in the public schools and teachings, there can be nothing more attractive nor of greater merit than this address promises to be. Everyone having children in the schools owes it to them as well as himself to take the time and attend this address. At the Presbyterian church on next Sunday night, February 7.

Animal is Slain.

The panther has been slain. Fred Rice did the deed this morning, having read the account in last evening's Journal of the wild animals which were roaming the big island and starting out at once to bag some of this game. He did not find the animal on the island but discovered it on a high cliff on the west of the river. He states that he brought it down at a distance of three hundred yards with a pump gun. He was the proud possessor of the carcass of the slain animal when he came up town this afternoon and exhibited the product of his skill. If it is the same animal Mr. Blunt saw, it has shrunk some in dimensions as this one measured about three feet from tip to tip and did not stand over a foot from the ground. It had a very pointed nose, sharp ears and claws and hide like a coon. Everyone has a guess coming as to what it was. It is said to be the same animal which has been alarming the denizens by its wild howls and cries in the night, further down the river. Anyway, one of the panthers has been accounted for, now for the other two.

C. C. Tucker was among the Journal visitors on Monday last, calling to renew his subscription and to make a visit with the proprietor, Mr. Tucker is another one of the solid citizens of the county who appreciates the fact that he gets value received in the Journal and we are proud to name him as one of our best friends.

HAPPILY WEDDED

Miss Mary E. Cremer and James L. Turner Married Near Elmwood

On last Wednesday evening, January 27, occurred the marriage of Miss Mary E. Cremer to Mr. James L. Turner, at the home of the brideparents, Mr. and Mrs. Isah Cremer, three miles west of Elmwood. Precisely at 7:30 o'clock, while Miss Hettie Turner of Bethany played Lohengrin's wedding march, the bride and groom preceded by the bridesmaid, Miss May Cremer, and the best man, Mr. J. B. Turner, entered the room and took their places in the alcove of the parlor, where the marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Woodcock, pastor of the Methodist church. The bride was gowned most becomingly in white lansdown and carried bride's roses and smilax, while the groom wore conventional black.

The decorations were elaborate, each room having had treatment with a color scheme of blue and white. The parlor received the most generous touch, the entire ceiling of which was delicately wrought in basket work of crepe paper, while the bay window was heavily draped in white with a labyrinth of threads of knotted fleecy running from ceiling to floor, giving the effect of falling snow and transforming it into an alcove of unusual beauty. It was in this recess the bride party took its position. An adjoining room was festooned from ceiling to center table, on which rested dainty packages of bride's cake. In succession each room had its individual decoration. The refreshments were no small part of this marked event. The occasion was certainly a festive one, and largely attended by relatives and friends of this popular couple. They received a great many useful and costly tokens of esteem and best wishes from their friends.

Mrs. Turner is one of our most excellent young ladies, well known and highly esteemed, while Mr. Turner is respected by all who know him and is one of the most prosperous young farmers of the community. The best wishes of their host of friends follow them in their new home, which will be on the old Turner farm, two miles southwest of town.

With the Sick.

An operation was performed last evening at the Methodist hospital at Omaha upon Will, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Richardson. The little fellow was attended by his parents and Dr. Cummins of this city was present. The operation was a complete success and the unfortunate little man is reported this morning as getting along finely and with every prospect of a speedy recovery. Dr. Cummins received a telephone message from Mr. Richardson this morning to the effect that the boy had had an easy night everything considered and the attending physicians were surprised at the rapidity of his recovery.

Mrs. Frank Sivey had so far recovered from her illness as to be permitted to return to her home in this city this evening, her husband going to Omaha to accompany her. This will be gratifying intelligence to the lady's friends who will rejoice to have her back here among them once more, and so far along the highway toward recovery.

Today's intelligence from W. L. Street is that he is still progressing toward recovery in a satisfactory manner. Mrs. Street and little Clara Mae Morgan are visiting him today and cheering him on his way to re-good health.

The condition of Mrs. John Nemetz after the second operation is reported as very good, the lady making rapid strides toward recovery and doing far better than her physicians had hoped. That this favorable state of affairs will continue is the hope of her many friends.

Ed. Egenberger had a narrow escape from a serious case of blood poisoning and in fact, still has a very bad hand as the result of an infected scratch. Sometime since he scratched his hand but as it seemed a trivial matter he gave it no attention. Soon the hand commenced to swell and it became very sore. He consulted a physician who discovered that it had become infected in some manner and threatened to give him serious trouble. With prompt treatment, the poison was gradually eradicated and today he was gratified to be told by his attending physician that he was getting along very nicely. While he has not been off his work, he has been greatly inconvenienced by the hand.

C. V. Hay of Weeping Water spent yesterday in the city, being registered at the Perkins hotel.
