Eagles National Meeting.

Kansas City, Feb. 24.—Dates for the national meeting of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, which is to be held in Omaha have been selected and announced by the grand worthy secretary. The national aerial will meet in Omaha September 13 to 20 inclusive, and it is estimated over 32,000 members and delegates will attend.

The joint committee of Eagles from the local lodge and business men of Omaha met Wednesday noon at the Commercial Club to discuss further plans for entertaining the visitors to the national meeting to be held in September. The general committee will be divided into subcommittees and almost every member will be made a chairman of a committee on something, such as music, decoration, drills badges, transportation, entertainment and other departments necessary to the handling of such a crowd. The business men feel the national meeting of the Eagles will be an opportunity for Omaha to "make good" and they intend to go into it with more than the usual spirit.

That the Omaha meeting will be much larger than anticipated is the verdict after looking after the field. The order now has 350,000 members. More than 25,000 attended the meeting in Milwaukee three years ago; an equal number attended the Seattle meeting last year, regardless of the fact that the meeting was held on the Pacific coast far from the center of Eagledom. To Jamestown and Norfolk during the exposition almost 17,000 Eagles went to the Atlantic coast, the eastern extreme of Eagledom. To Omaha 32,000 Eagles will come, say those who are making the arrangements.—Omaha Bee.

LIKE THE OLD DAYS

Washington Social at Travis Home a Complete Success

The Martha Washington event at the home of Judge and Mrs. H. D. Travis last night was an unqualified success. The ladies who promulgated the affair are to be congratulated that the cold nor the snow could keep away the crowds. Over a hundred people were present and the pleasure experienced was ample reward for all inconvenience. The Travis home never looked better; it was decorated with flags, pictures and bunting throughout. As one entered the hall he found himself in the midst of a patriotic effusion of red, white and blue colors. Bunting was drawn over the bannisters leading to the second floor. Into these regions the guests were escorted for the laying aside of their wraps and the last final touch to their elaborate costumes. Gen. George Washington and Mrs. Washington, in the persons of Rev. J. H. Salisbury and Mrs. J. N. Wise, headed the receiving line, in which was found such distinguished characters as Lady Baltimore (Mrs. L. A. Moore), Sallie Fairfax (Miss Verna Cole), Mrs. Governor Peter Stuyvesant (Miss Alice Eaton), Janice Meredith (Miss Anna Heisel), and a Page of the Provincial Congress (Master Russel Salisbury), also a miniature Uncle Sam (Master Clement Chapman). These had position in the library, where again the hand of the artist was to be seen displayed in the decorations. Flags were to be seen everywhere, draped along the picture moulding and festooning the bookcases. At the west end of the room hung two large pictures of General Washington and his wife. These were gracefully mantled in the colors. Into the midst of this work of art and this distinguished line of notables the guests were ushered by a colonial dame (Mrs. J. W. Gamble), who introduced each in turn and were received with the deep bows of courtesy of that period.

The guests then gathered within the parlor, where the national emblem hung about the piano, and here was rendered a musical and elocutionary program of rare merit. Piano solos by Miss Emma Cummins, Miss Marie Douglas, Miss Johnson, Charles Hopping, Waldimar Soennichsen; vocal solos by Prof. W. G. Brooks and Mr. H. S. Austin; recitations by Misses Marie Douglas and Mildred Cummins and Master Joe Eaton, also a reading by Mrs. J. N. Wise. A male quartet consisting of Messrs. Glen Scott, Clarence Staats, George Falter and Claude Selvers sang two beautiful numbers. The program was brought to a close by a rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner" led by General Washington and Martha, while Lady Baltimore presided at the piano.

At the close of this pleasing feature the guests were led by installments into the dining room, where bunting in prodigious profusion had been employed in making the room an appetizing place. It was caught diagonally across the ceiling and fastened at the center of the room. It was festooned at the top of the walls. The napkins told of George's first temptation by the suggestion of cherries, and the hatchet which was pinned on every guest as they passed from the room completed the tale.

Mrs. George Washington and General Washington's mother (Mrs. Agnes Chapman) presided at the table and poured the coffee. An elegant two-course luncheon was served by the ladies and the evening was voted a decided success in every particular. The decorations were the work of Mrs. Travis and her visiting friend, Mrs. James Mitchell of Omaha. For an ideal evening this writer recommends the Travis home, for as had been prophesied, it is impossible to tax their hospitality. There were many beautiful costumes present, representing different periods, but to attempt to mention them separately would be an endless task, and then, they must be seen to be appreciated. At the conclusion of the evening, the Delaware having frozen over, General Washington returned to Trenton on the ice.—Contributed.

When he arrived he found a much larger family than usual and an appetizing lap supper waiting to be served. The evening was spent in playing games, music and a couple of delightful recitations by Miss Barnes and Mrs. Lewis. Rev. J. R.
