He informs us that he has been unable to work in the shops at that point but very little during the past few weeks, owing to a severe attack of rheumatism that he has been suffering with. He returned home yesterday afternoon.

Old Times Dance.

One of the most interesting and pleasant events to be given in the city during the winter was the old country dance at T. J. Sokol hall on Saturday night. The dance was an exclusive affair there being invitations issued to a select party of the old settlers of the city. They came dressed in the style of fifty years ago. Many of the Bohemian ladies came dressed in their bridal gowns dating back for a period of many years, fabrics rich and creamy with age. The styles were those of several generations gone and were quaint and unique. The attendance was large for the Bohemians have lived in Plattsmouth and vicinity for many years and the old settlers were much in evidence. There was an abundance of fine music and all the old country dances were had to a complete satisfaction. It was as much a scene from Bohemia as these good folks met once more and renewed the memories of the fatherland. Such parties are to be commended as they promote the fellowship feeling among the people. This was one of the most delightful ever here.

Laid to Rest.

The funeral of the late Herman Herold was held from the home in this city on last Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. Burgess, of the Episcopal church officiating, and the remains were gently laid in their last earthly resting place in the Oak Hill cemetery. A large concourse of sympathizing friends and relatives attended the services at both the home and the cemetery. The pall bearers were Wm. Schmidtman, Geo. Luchinsky, John Ledgway, John Schulhof, Mike Whallen and Robt. Patten.

FIRE AT UNION

Pool Hall of James Gruber and the Implement House of J. E. Banning Destroyed

The town of Union which has been suffering from a run of bad luck, last Sunday night had another stroke of misfortune when fire broke out and destroyed the two story structure occupied by James Gruber and family as a residence in the second story and as a pool hall on the lower floor. The flames also spread to a two story frame building occupied by the Modern Woodmen as a lodge room on the second floor and by Joseph Banning as an implement house on the first floor.

The flames were discovered just after eleven o'clock at night after Mr. Gruber and family had retired. They were aroused in time to permit of their getting away but they were unable to save anything, making their escape in their night clothes. The building was speedily reduced to ashes being a total loss. It was owned by Mr. Gruber and valued at $3,500. There was $2,500 insurance upon it.

The Modern Woodmen lodge owned the two story structure next door and it was soon in flames. Owing to the discovery of the fire in time citizens had been able to enter this building and get out most of the lodge paraphernalia so that they will not be heavy losers in that respect. The lower floor was filled with a fine stock of wagons, and farming implements and these were speedily run out into the street and the bulk of them saved. His loss on stock will not be very heavy although it will amount to something at the very lowest. The building was entirely destroyed. It was valued at $2,500 and insured for $1,000.

Owing to the character of the night which was still the flames burned out without spreading further. The store of R. H. Frans was threatened with destruction but, being a brick building, it did not catch readily and by the use of buckets it was saved.

This makes the second series of fires in that town in a few weeks and like the former one, there is no clue as to its origin. These two fires have made a big gap in the business section of the town. Doubtless, the buildings will soon be replaced by better structures.

Champion Walker.

Speak it very low—Louis Egenberger is not getting about his store today as spry as usual. The young man took an unusual long walk yesterday afternoon. He in company with Peter Goos and Val Burkel started out to make a pleasant afternoon's walk to the water works. After they had gotten there the pleasant weather beguiled them into going on to Oreadpolis and then his satanic majesty must have gotten in his work for they crossed the river to LaPlatte. Having gone so far they concluded to go on to Ft. Crook and here is where Louie's heart began to fail him. A few miles on the other side of LaPlatte he cried with King Dick, "A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse." But no horse was to be had and a cold cruel world smiled upon his footsore and weary protests. Soon the village of Ft. Crook burst upon the vision of the three travelers in the wilderness. Pete and Val were getting strong and striding away like champion walkers but Louie was rather down in flesh as the experts say, and did not hit the pace in the boyant manner of one seeking to make a record.

However, he dragged into the Fort. Then a long consultation was held as to whether they should tie up there and wait for the M. P. or go on to South Omaha. Val and Pete insisted on walking into South Omaha and at it they went, Louie bemoaning the day he was born. They did get into South Omaha although the last block they walked took one hour and a half. They claim it was on account of the mob there but the fact is hinted that it was because of Louie's sore feet. They could find no solace in the town either as everything was shut up. They took the train to come back on.

Very Quiet Day.

Yesterday being a legal holiday, business in the city especially during the afternoon, was practically suspended. The county offices were closed and the Burlington shops shut down for the day. The banks also took a day off and the clerks took advantage of the day to get a needed rest. A large number of citizens made the journey to Omaha where they attended the several shows during the afternoon and at night. Despite the miserable weather which was a combination of rain, snow and cold weather, abominable in the extreme, the crowds turned out in good numbers for the several entertainments.

South Bend Visitors.

From Tuesday's Daily. Chas. Hill and wife, Mrs. J. J. Hill of Belvidere, Neb., and Mrs. Jerry McHugh all came down this morning from South Bend for the purpose of proving the last will of Mrs. Nancy L. Willis. Mrs. Hill and Mrs. McHugh were witnesses to the will. While here Mr. Hill made this office a very pleasant call and on which was much appreciated. He is one of the best and brightest of the younger men of his section and he is always welcome at this sanctum.

FUNERAL SERVICES

Of the Late Adam Schantz Held Yesterday Afternoon

From Tuesday's Daily. The funeral of the late Adam Schantz, jr., was held yesterday afternoon from St. Paul's Evangelical church and was very largely attended by the many friends of this noble young man. The cortège left the house in South Park at one o'clock and proceeded to the church where Rev. F. J. Longhorst delivered an eloquent and touching discourse upon the virtues and good works of the deceased. Rev. Longhorst adopted as his text "Rev. 14-13" and, in accordance with the text, he made reference to the devout Christian life deceased had led. Rev. Longhorst's sermon made a visible impression upon the congregation where the young man was so well known and so universally beloved.

In addition to the sermon of Rev. Longhorst, the choir sang a number of the favorite selections of the deceased.

The body was then taken to Oak Hill cemetery where it was laid to rest in the beautiful city of the dead. The pall bearers were young men friends of deceased in his life time, they being Messrs James Ptacek, Anton H. Koubek, William Hassler, Jr., Emil Droege, Henry Hesse, and Charles Wilkins.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Schantz in the loss of their beloved son who was taken from them while the mantle of youth had but just been laid upon his brow.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend our heart felt thanks and appreciation to our relatives and friends for the floral offerings, attendance and kind expressions of sympathy in our sad bereavement in the death of our beloved son and brother Adam Schantz, and wish to thank the Cigar Makers Union and the employees of the coach shops for the kindness shown during the death of our son and brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Schantz.
Geo. Schantz, Jr.

"Round Up" a Winner.

A large number of Plattsmouth people spent yesterday in Omaha, most of them spending the afternoon at the Boyd theater where the play of "The Round Up" holds the boards for this week. The show is one of the best to visit this section for years and fully warrants the praise accorded it by the metropolitan press. Like all plays located in the west or southwest, it is overdrawn in spots especially in the delineation of western characters but with all that it is a strong and interesting comedy drama. The company presenting the play is one of excellence, several of the characters being taken by people of much experience and with well deserved reputations. The scenic production is also of a high class, the stabe mountings in the third and fourth acts being striking and sensational. The battle scene in the third act is all the management pronounced it to be—the greatest scene of the kind ever attempted on the stage. It comes close to being a genuine battle scene from real life. The play deserves full houses at every performance.

Improving Nicely.

Thos. Walling and small sons were in Omaha yesterday afternoon visiting with Mrs. Walling at the hospital. It is pleasant to state that Mrs. Walling is progressing finely toward recovery and that she will be able to return to her home within a short time.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Elmer Bodeker, aged 25, of Murray and Miss Gertrude Opp, aged 18 of Nehawka. Both of these young people are well and popularly known in their respective neighborhoods and they have a large circle of friends who wish them all possible good fortune in their matrimonial venture.
