Plageler, assistant pharmacist of the same company, and Horace Ruffner also connected with the company, came down Saturday evening to spend the night with Mr. Ruffner's parents. The gentlemen yesterday enjoyed a "hike" back to Omaha concluding to walk back for the exercise there was in it for them. Messrs. Cardwell and Plageler are two most excellent gentlemen and those who met them during their brief stay were more than impressed with them.

Delightful Gathering.

Last Saturday evening Edgar Steinhauer gave a delightful birthday party at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinhauer, in the south part of the city. The evening was very pleasantly spent with music and games and social conversation and a most delightful little luncheon was served the merry guests who were proud to be the young man's guests. When the time came to leave they one and all expressed their satisfaction at the delightful things of the world, and many more anniversaries.

Those who attended were Misses Katis Foster, Seva Johnson, Hattis Hoffman, Ethel Bell, Sophia Hild, Elsie Roessler, Gladys Steinhauer, Thelma Hallstrom, Lester Benson, Messrs. William Bell, Roy Denson, Charles Bell, Emil Hild, Elmer Hallstrom, Lester Dalton, Clarence Busche, Karl Roessler, Delno Denson of Omaha.

Entertains Past Chiefs.

The past chiefs of the Degree of Honor were most delightfully entertained Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Val Burkel.

For a time social conversation, interspersed with various amusements, which had been planned for the occasion, were thoroughly enjoyed.

The pleasures of the afternoon were further augmented when the guests were invited to the dining room where a dainty course luncheon was provided. This luncheon was prepared as only the hostess knows how to prepare one and the guests found it appetizing and pleasant.

It being the 20th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Burkel the guests presented them with a basket of rare china, some of which must be handled with utmost care, and sherbet cups, all of which will assist them in remembering their 20th anniversary.

BIG MEETING IN INTEREST OF BETTER MANHOOD.

Presbyterian Church Crowded to Hear Rev. Birch Speak.

From Monday's Daily. The congregation at the church Sunday morning listened to a strong appeal to feel their responsibility for the salvation of souls, taking his text from Romans 8:1-2. Mr. Birch endeavored to lay on the hearts of the members of the church their part which is not small in the matter of reaching men and women for Christ. "A real heaviness" which would make them go after and work for the conversion of their friends and loved ones that they might be saved. It was a characteristic message of the straightforward type for which Mr. Birch is noted, keen cutting but always fair and never coarse. A feature of the morning service was the solo by Mrs. Gamble, who sang the "Ninty and Nine." At the close a corps of men ushers was organized for the week's meetings, consisting of J. M. Roberts, head usher, and Will Ramsey, Will McCoig, J. W. Gamble, C. C. Parmele, T. M. Patterson and J. N. Wise as assistants.

In the afternoon Mr. Birch addressed a men's meeting in the Presbyterian church. More than one hundred and fifty men were present and listened with deep interest to a straight forward heart to heart talk that will make better every man who heard it. Music was furnished by a choir of young men assisted by the Evangelist and his cornet. The meeting was opened by singing "A Man Among Men," the words and music of which are by Mr. Birch. Each man present was presented with a copy of the song. The title of the song was taken as the subject of the address, which was a plain practical appeal to men to be manly. That it made a deep impression on all present was easily seen. At the conclusion of the address upon invitation of the men present Mr. Birch arranged for another men's meeting for next Sunday in the opera house which was kindly donated by Mr. Chas. Parmele, who was in the audience. After this Mr. Birch told the men how he secured his cornet, and a little of his life and then played "Home Sweet Home" on the cornet accompanied by Hilt Wescott at the piano. The men listened with rapt attention as the sweet strains produced by this master cornetist floated forth. At the close of the selection the audience was dismissed with the Quaker benediction and the men crowded to the platform to shake hands with the speaker. As the unusual audience, a very unusual one for our city, dispersed the men were congratulating each other upon having been privileged to attend such a meeting.

At the same hour at the Methodist church Miss Ida V. Jontz of Omaha gave an address to the women on the subject "Something Lost, I Must Find It." She discussed the lost son, the lost girl and the lost soul. Her address was one of exceptional power and greatly impressed those who were there to hear it. Special music for this service was provided by Miss Howard and Mrs. Mae Morgan and Miss Helen and Ruth Chapman.

In the evening there was a union service of the three churches beginning with a song service by the chorus which is becoming more and more a source of delight to all lovers of song. At this time Mr. Birch spoke on the text found in Psalms 119:16 "I will not forget thy word." He presented the bible as the foundation for all law and all principle of real life, as a weapon to disarm the enemy and the best means with which to lead souls to Christ, as a guide to our lives and as a light in the pathway of life. Mr. Birch's preaching takes on new force and appeal with each recurring sermon and the eminent fairness of the man is telling strongly with all classes. His work will surely bring a great impulse to the religious life of this city. At this service as well as the one in the afternoon a large number sought the interest of Christians in their prayers either for themselves or for friends.

Railroad Notes From Ashland.

An altercation between John Morris, an American laborer in Mr. Bower's bridge gang, and Tonk Congelos, an Italian belonging to the same gang, resulted rather seriously for both parties. Monday the trouble between the two men began in a joke on the part of Morris last Sunday night, which Congelos resented Monday while at their work, on bridge 44 northeast of the city, the quarrel was renewed, and Morris struck the Italian in the fact, being a much stronger and more powerful man than he. This aroused the Italian's hot blood and he went for Morris with a steel bar. They were parted and the bar was taken away from him. He made another attempt with a pick but was prevented by bystanders. A third attempt was more successful, and a blow aimed with a pick at Morris' head landed on his shoulder, making a serious and painful, but not dangerous wound. Railroad detectives who happened to be here traced Congelos, who had made his escape into Sarpy county where he was arrested. He was brought back, but Morris refused to appear against him, saying that he was as much to blame as the Italian, and he was let go. Marshal Granger arrested Congelos and he was kept in the city jail over night but during the day he was released and allowed to go. Congelos has been in the employ of Mr. Bowers for about a year. He was saying and had accumulated several hundred dollars in the bank. Morris had been in the gang about three months. He was at the Burlington hotel on the east side and will not be laid off from work long.—Ashland Gazette.

Operator C. A. Dean has accepted a position with the Great Northern railway as operator at the freight house of that company in Sioux City.

Burlington Detectives Smith and Searle were in Ashland the fore part of the week looking into the matter of coal thefts and other malicious depredations committed upon the property of the railroad company. Private settlements were made with ten youthful offenders, and it is safe to predict that if this measure does not effect a reduction in offenses against the property of the railroad company there will be a noticeable influx of youthful Ashlandites in the reform schools of the state, as the company has born with the annoyances until patience or forbearance has ceased to be a virtue.—Ashland Gazette.

Some Wolf Hunt.

From Monday's Daily. Sergeant Wilson and wife of Fort Des Moines, Ia., are making an extended visit of several weeks at the home of Frank Metteer. Sergeant Wilson a few days since killed a large and hungry coyote which was prowling around Mr. Metteer's premises and this has aroused great interest in a projected wolf hunt which is taking place today in the Metteer neighborhood some seven miles west of the city. About one week ago these animals descended upon Mr. Metteer's farm in numbers there being six or seven of them present at one time. They have been playing havoc with hen roosts and such fowls and small animals in that section and the success of Sergeant Wilson so stirred up the neighborhood that the grand wolf hunt was made up for today. It is hoped to relieve the community of these pests. Sergeant Wilson is a crack rifle shot, his army experience standing him in good stead and there is warm rivalry among those taking part in the hunt as to who will carry off the honors. Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Metteer were in the city today looking after some business matters, returning to the farm this afternoon. Sergeant Wilson and wife expect to depart very shortly for the Philippines where he will be stationed for some time to come. They will remain here and visit with Mr. and Mrs. Metteer until after Easter Sunday.

As Lincoln Sees It.

There is a hot campaign on at Plattsmouth between the democrats and the "citizens" ticket forces. The republicans are in the minority in that town and dare also hopelessly divided so they have put up a "citizens" ticket in hopes to fool the people and capture the offices. The democrats have a straight ticket of good men and the probability is they will elect the whole works.—Lincoln Herald.

Frank Marshall, son of Dr. C. A. Marshall, is reported as being quite ill at his home in this city suffering from pneumonia. His condition is so serious that a trained nurse has been sent for from Omaha. His many friends trust that the unseasonedness of his folks is not well founded and that the young man will speedily recover from his trouble and soon be himself once more.
