The Other Mother.

I have been married many years and yet I never saw that married day in which I understood or in anywise enjoyed a ribald joke at the expense of mothers in the law. I knew two mothers. My only mother closed her eyes in the final sleep last night and when her sweet soul found release from the aged body I felt that from the side of my own life path had been taken a flower whose perfume was ever inspiring to those who came within its zone. Perhaps the fact that she had never had an own son made more natural her devotions to me, but certain it is that she showered upon the son who was given to her by marriage with her daughter, a wealth of maternal love not less ardent than that which is bestowed upon me by my own dear mother of the blood. I prized my mother-in-law while she was here upon the earth, and now that she has gone to a paradise pledged to those who lived the life she lived, I hold her memory as a treasure dear.

Fifty-five years ago Mother Loranz came from an eastern state to aid her husband in rearing a new home in Nebraska. Transported from surroundings of comfort in the old home to share in the real privations of the pioneers meant to her no shadow of turning from the character lines which she had chosen for the guidance of her way upon the earth. Close association with the rude and sometimes rough, meant no trace of the contact upon the face nor upon the life of the calm and beautiful matron whose presence hallowed her place among the hardy seekers for homes in the then uncertain territory—uncertain, because there was no proof that its soil would sustain—uncertain, because none knew whether the Indian owners of the soil would give a lasting welcome to the white-faced settlers. She was proud of the fact that she was of the Scottish blood of the Bennetts and of her martial alliance with the Burtches and it was pardonable pride, because it ran always to the record of noble lives, rather than to deeds of daring or of grandeur on the part of ancestors of her line. So pure her life that her very presence banished thought of impurity. So Christian she lived that often times when at her quiet devotion I fancied on her face the glow which poets picture as that hue which glows and glorifies the countenance of one in contact with the very Christ. Good-bye, dear other mother, and may your rest in Paradise be sweet.—Edgar Howard.

Swept Over Niagara.

This terrible calamity often happens because a careless boatman ignores the river's warnings—growing ripples and faster current. Nature's warnings are kind. That dull ache or pain in the back warns you the kidneys need attention if you would escape fatal maladies—dropsy, diabetes or Bright's disease. Take Electric Bitters at once and see backache fly an dull your best feelings return. "After long suffering from weak kidneys and lame back, one $1.00 bottle wholly cured me," writes J. W. Blackenship, of Belk, Tenn. Only 50c at F. G. Fricke & Co.

Handsome Vote for G. E. Dovey.

Through an omission of the compositor the name of Councilman George E. Dovey was unintentionally omitted from the list of winning candidates upon the democratic ticket. As Mr. Dovey had no opposition in the ward, he received the full vote of 133, a just compliment to an able and upright business man and citizen. Republicans and democrats alike rejoice at his selection and are proud to say that he will doubtless make one of the most valuable members of the council. The Journal is proud to say it did all it could to secure Mr. Dovey's election because it believed him the man for the place.

Railroad Officials Meet.

A conference of Burlington engine and trainmen with General Superintendent Byram, Superintendents Bignell and Flynn and other officials of the road, was held at Burlington headquarters yesterday and the question of rights of employees on the two divisions was discussed. The division of the Lincoln division, the reassignment of runs and the assignment of men to work on the Omaha division has been the subject of much consideration and discussion among railroad men recently. Whether engine and trainmen should have rights and seniority preference on one or both divisions has been a matter that engineers and trainmen have given much consideration.

It was agreed yesterday that for the purposes of rights the two divisions shall be considered a district, and that where permanent changes in runs and positions are made men on both divisions shall be eligible. This will not apply where changes made are merely temporary.

It is said the division of the Lincoln division will have little effect on the runs and the residence of train and engine men. Engines and trains will run out of Lincoln as now, the facilities of the road being such that engines will be stored here as usual.

It was said yesterday that work will start within a few days on the completion of the buildings and terminal facilities in the new yards. The work will be carried on far enough to place that part of the yards now nearly completed in use. It is believed that before the end of the year the engines will be transferred from the old to the new round house. Whether the entire yards will be completed, as at first planned, is a matter not yet announced.—State Journal.

Object to Strong Medicines.

Many people object to taking the strong medicines usually prepared by physicians for rheumatism. There is no need of internal treatment in any case of muscular or chronic rheumatism and more than nine cases out of every ten of the disease are of one or the other of these varieties. When there is no fever and little if any swelling, you may know that it is only necessary to apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely to get quick relief. Try it. For sale by F. G. Fricke.

Young Man Dies.

DIED—Kalasek, Thomas, at his home in Plattsmouth, Neb., on Thursday, April 8, 1909, of tumor of the brain, aged 14 years, 9 months, 1 day. Funeral Saturday morning, April 10th, from the Bohemian Catholic church. Interment at Oak Hill.

After an illness extending over many months and after much suffering, Thomas Kalasek, the son of the late Jos Kalasek, died this morning. The deceased was a popular and well known young man just budding into early manhood—a fine boy and one well liked by everyone who knew him. The young man was born in this city on July 7, 1894 and played upon the hills of this city until death came. He had many playmates with whom he shared all those trials, tribulations and joys of boyhood and who feel his loss very keenly.

Kalasek, six brothers, Anton, now living in St. Louis, Mo., Joe, Julius, Frank, Wesley and Edward, all of this city, and five sisters, Mrs. Pauline Bajcek, Miss Merma Kalasek, Miss Cecil Kalasek, all of this city, Mrs. Hronek of Sheridan, Wyo., and Mrs. Nelson of Omaha, Neb. One brother John died several years ago.

The funeral takes place on Saturday morning from the Bohemian Catholic church in the western part of the city. Rev. Father M. Shine officiating. The interment will be at the beautiful catholic cemetery at Oak Hill.

Grandpa Green.

The Journal learns with great satisfaction that Col Frank Ever Green of the Lincoln Evening News is a new grandpa. It is doubly gratifying to know that the Colonel is one of those kind of men who never grow old and who fail to notice the slipping away of time. He has quite evidently taken the added honors which come with years with his usual nonchalance and good grace, and writes the Journal as follows:

"I'm a grandpa now. Son born to Mrs. Harry S. Lambers here Saturday. Formerly Caroline Elizabeth Green. All doing fine. Regards to all.

Frank E. Green."

Accompanying the card which conveys the glad intelligence is a picture with the motto "Just a little bit added to what you got makes just a little bit more." The Journal extends its congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Lambert and especially Grandpa Green—one of the best newspaper men and good fellows the world has ever produced.

An Easter Luncheon.

Mrs. Judge A. J. Beeson very pleasantly entertained a number of young people at her home on Washington avenue last evening at an Easter luncheon. The occasion was in honor of Miss Clara Brown, who leaves for Salina, Kansas, Friday evening where she will visit relatives for a time and then will go to California where her parents now reside and where she expects to make her home in the future.

For a time social conversation interspersed with vocal and instrumental music was thoroughly enjoyed.

At an appropriate hour the guests were invited to the dining room and seated at a prettily decorated table. In deference to the season the color scheme of yellow, white and green was used and successfully carried out with decorations of daffodils, yellow chickens and ferns artistically arranged and which spoke of spring and the Easter tide. A dainty three course luncheon was served to which all did ample justice.

Wishing Miss Brown a pleasant and safe journey and happiness in her new home and vowing the hostess a charming entertainer the guests took their departure.

Those who participated in this delightful occasion were Misses Ththa Crabbill, Gertrude Beeson, Minnie and Dora Will, Lillian Thompson, Carrie Becker and Margaret Rennie.

"I'd Rather Die, Doctor."

"I'd rather die, doctor," said M. L. Bingham, of Princeville, Ill. "But you'll die from gangrene (which had eaten away eight toes) if you don't!" said all the doctors. Instead he used Bucklin's Arnica Salve till wholly cured. Its cures of eczema, fever sores, boils and burns and plies astound the world. 25c at F. G. Fricke & Co.

To the Young Men's Class.

Dr. W. O. Henry of Omaha, a noted physician and surgeon of that city, last evening delivered a fine lecture to the members of the Young Men's Bible Class of the Methodist church at their rooms in the basement of the church. The lecture was along scientific lines and was full of much import to those who listened to it. Dr. Henry is a master of his subject and he gave his audience a splendid discourse and one which they could not fail to appreciate the value of. He is a pleasant and forceful speaker and by his pleasing personality he helped much toward making the evening a thoroughly enjoyable one. He can always be assured a large audience upon any future visit to this city.

The lecture was one of the regular course of the class who have been fortunate in securing many men of note for the series. The lectures are designed to secure practical results and they have certainly accomplished their purpose. There are a number of other able speakers who have been secured for future addresses, prominent among them being Mr. Holdrege of Omaha, son of the general manager of the Burlington and a powerful and able speaker, and William Hayward, vice-chairman of the Republican National Committee, well known in this city as a lawyer and politician. These two gentlemen have accepted their invitations to address the class while others have tentatively accepted.

Spends Day at Home.

Mrs. Florence Lingerer Haller spent the day yesterday at the Masonic home. This time she came to look over the possibilities of finding a quiet room which she proposes to furnish all in white and make perfectly sanitary which shall answer for an emergency hospital and a quiet rest room for neurotic patients. Such a room will be a great blessing to the home at times, when the noises (unavoidable in a large house) becomes a torture to those suffering from extreme pain and nervous prostration.

Mrs. Haller, like her father, who has gone, is always planning ways to benefit and make pleasures for the residents of the home and she holds a warm spot in the hearts of the inmates.—J. E. V.
