The day was spent in fishing, bathing, boating and enjoying the pleasant shade of the big trees on the hills and a fine picnic dinner was had upon the green, the entire party having taken along enough eatables to feed a regiment. SENATE FIXES TAX EXEMPTIONS

Labor and Fraternal Organizations Excluded From Law.

Washington, July 7.—Completing the tariff bill in the committee of the whole, that measure was reported to the senate so that legislation providing for customs duties is now regarded as on the home stretch.

Senators generally desiring to obtain a reprint of the bill as amended before further considering it, the senate adjourned to afford senators an opportunity to look over it before taking further action. The adjournment was taken with the understanding that when the body reconvenes all sections of the bill that senators do not desire to reserve for further amendment shall be agreed to en bloc.

The senate then will consider the tobacco tax, the only amendment not adopted in the committee of the whole. When that is disposed of senators will offer and votes will be taken on numerous amendments they have reserved to be acted upon when the bill, in a parliamentary sense, shall be in the senate.

Among amendments to the tariff bill agreed to was one exempting labor organizations, fraternal beneficiary societies and organizations exclusively for charitable and educational purposes from the operations of the corporation tax provisions.

About 2,000 striking miners from the various collieries congregated about the main entry of No. 2 mine. The crowd made no violence, but as the miners who had worked during the day attempted to leave for their homes they were followed by crowds of men and boys, who hissed and jeered them. AMBASSADORS IN PEACE TALK

Jusserand and Bryce Speak at Champlain Fete.

PRESIDENT TAFT ALSO TALKS.

All Voice the Hope There Never Again

Will Be Another War—Day of Historic Incidents at Old Fort Ticonderoga—Celebration Takes On International Scope and World-Wide Interest.

Bluff Point, N. Y., July 7.—With the arrival of President Taft, Ambassador Jusserand of France, Ambassador Bryce of Great Britain, Secretary of War Dickinson and Vice Admiral Uriu of Japan the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the discovery of Lake Champlain, which had been confined during the past few days to the states of New York and Vermont, took on an international scope and a world-wide interest.

For Ambassadors Jusserand and Bryce and President Taft all committed their respective countries to policies of peace, and in the shadow of an old fortress, which had witnessed some of the bloodiest battles in all history, they expressed the hope that never again would the peace among the great nations of the world be interrupted by a war. The president and the other distinguished guests had a day of continuing interest from the moment of their arrival by special train from Albany. The visitors were taken to old Fort Ticonderoga, where the principal celebration of the day was held.

See Ruins of "Old Ti."

The president and the ambassadors and the members of their staffs were shown through the historic ruins of "Old Ti," as the natives call the stronghold, which is now in course of restoration. There was historic interest in the old place, alike for the representatives of Great Britain, of France and the United States, for the rocky promontory was held in turn by the French, the English and the American revolutionists. Some of the old cannon were in place and hundreds of rusty relics were on view. Some of these were reminders of the days of Indian conflicts, others were links of history leading back to the bloody fights of Montcalm, Abercrombie and Amherst, to the famous taking of the place by a band of eighty-three American colonists under General Ethan Allen, and to the naval battles which helped to make famous the waters of the lake discovered three centuries ago by Samuel Champlain.

One Hundred Years of Peace.

Ambassador Jusserand in his speech was most felicitous in his expressions of peace and good will toward America, toward Great Britain and toward all the world. He referred with much feeling to the fact that France and Great Britain soon are to celebrate the passing of 100 years of peace.

Ambassador Bryce took up this theme and declared that, although he was preceded by scenes of martial strife, he himself was a man of peace.

Ambassador Bryce declared that the English and French in the fighting about Ticonderoga found each other worthy foes. "And while we all admired them," he said, "for their courage, we hope they will never, never do it again."

President Taft concluded as follows:

"I echo and emphasize the statements of the two ambassadors and repeat their prayer, that never again may this great valley be given a name in history by reason of its being the seat of bloody war."
