It Has Some Boy.

Wintersteen Hill is the scene of festivity and rejoicing today over the advent of the stork, who yesterday visited the home of Will Graves and delighted that gentleman and his wife with a brand new, bouncing baby boy. It is some boy according to the proud father and the fond mother, and the neighbors all agree they have a right to feel pretty gay over the youngster. Mr. Graves is a sedate person, but on this occasion he is justified in getting foxy and cutting him some capers. He is quite a different man from what he was yesterday morning.

Continues to Boom.

The Missouri river continues to rise, it having gone up two and a half inches last night and yesterday. The rise also continues up the river and the reports are that the tributaries are still rising. The Platte is still on the up-grade and the indications are that the river will reach the highest stage of the year within the next few days. It is not thought that the Iowa bottoms will be overflowed, however, as this would take a rise of two feet or more. There will likely be high water in the river for some days to come.

The morning papers report the flood damage over Iowa, Missouri and Kansas to have easily passed the million dollar mark, with many thousands of people homeless and a number of lives lost. The worst of the flood is over, however, on the upper rivers and is now passing through the lower stages into the Mississippi. Many towns in Missouri and Kansas have been devastated and suffered great loss. There is a probability that the wet weather which has caused all this loss is now drawing to a close and that a period of fair, hot weather is in sight. This is badly needed, as crops are suffering from the continued rain and coolness.

Beautifying His Store Room.

Louis B. Egenberger is making some improvements and alterations in his store building which will make it a much prettier one than it has been. He has been having the chilling papered with a pretty light colored paper, which serves to make things much lighter and more easily discerned. He is also going to have the entire interior painted with a light colored paint and this will also aid in giving the store a brighter appearance. The work is being pushed to a finish and when it is completed the store will be a handsome one. It not alone presents a pleasing appearance, but gives the stock a much better appearance. The improvements will cost him quite a sum of money and take some time to complete. He is having a great deal of grief just now on account of having to keep his stock on the move constantly to avoid the workmen.

They Were Friends.

Two men came here from Nehawka yesterday and loaded up with intoxicants and about noon they were down near Fifth street and got into an altercation. One man beat the other up in a shameful manner, cutting several gashes in his face and bursting his nose open. They fought until they were tired and none bothered them. After it was all over the victor took his vanquished friend and washed him up, bound up his wounds and then went into a thirt palace, where they slaked their thirst and seemed as friendly as before they had any trouble, and last evening they went to the depot arm in arm and left for their home. They were friends, it was remarked, and out for a good time.—Nebraska City News.

Big Wages for Harvest Hands.

The Omaha World-Herald says Nebraska farmers want harvest hands and want them badly. The extent of that desire may be measured by the wages which they are willing to pay—$3 a day and board—which just about reaches the maximum offered anywhere.

Since corn is Nebraska's staple product, reaching many times over the annual harvest of wheat, oats and rye, the cry for harvest hands doesn't come with the same vehemence as from the great winter wheat region of Kansas or the spring wheat raisers of Minnesota and the Dakotas. The need for harvest hands, however, is none the less acute.

"I could place 500 men in the harvest fields right now," said W. M. Maupin, state labor commissioner. "I have stacks of letters from farmers on file in my office asking for harvest hands. But I haven't the men to send them."

"It isn't harvest hands alone that farmers of Nebraska are needing, either. They want men for regular, all the year around work, and they are willing to pay attractive wages. A good farm hand can get $35 a month, a house to live in, a good sized garden plot, a cow and plenty of feed for it, by making inquiry at almost any farming community in the state," says Mr. Maupin.

A. L. Becker, one of the best farmers and stock raisers in Cass county, stopped over in the city a few minutes last evening en route from Omaha to his home near Union. Mr. Becker has one of the finest farms in Cass county, and is also the possessor of a great deal of fine stock and hogs. He has his crop in good shape despite the wet weather and hopes a dry spell will now come on for awhile until he gets all his work done. He drove to and from the city.

Will Your Name Be Entered There?

Today is "Weed Day" and Mayor Sattler's proclamation has set people at work all over the city cleaning out the weeds. Reports from every part of town indicate that the committee which will go out tomorrow will find the streets and property clean and free from the pest. In the first ward many people are reported to have started in several days ago and to have been at weed cutting in an energetic manner. Today the force at work was much larger. The second ward reports a similar condition of affairs, while the big Third is pushing the weed cutting today with great vigor and hopes to make the best showing of the city. The fourth ward citizens are also out in force and are doing their best to establish the fact that they are the real hustlers. The Fifth is not behind and will have as clean streets and premises as any. Taken all around, when tomorrow dawns the chances are good that Plattsmouth will have the cleanest streets and less weeds than any city in Nebraska. This is as it should be, and bespeaks a splendid civic feeling and one which makes for a better Plattsmouth. The committee will have its report in the Journal on Monday evening and your name should receive honorable mention.

Killed by the Cars.

A special from Weeping Water under date of yesterday, says: "One man was killed and one seriously injured at 1 p. m. today by the Missouri Pacific freight train, Conductor Klepper in charge. The train was coming north and about two miles from Avoca two men who work in the quarry near town and had been to Avoca, were sitting on the end of a cross tie resting. The engineer supposed they would move, but they did not seem to realize the danger. Robert Haswell, an Englishman about 65 years old, was instantly killed and his companion, Hugh Rone, about 37 years old, was struck on the side of the head and a deep hole made in his skull. He may live. The coroner has been notified.

George Sheldon, the prominent capitalist of Lincoln, spent the night in this city looking after business matters, returning to the capital this morning.

Robert Hunter leaves this afternoon for Nehawka, where he expects to take employment in the grocery store of John Swartz. Bobby is well known in this city as a hustler and a good grocery clerk, and he will doubtless make good with Mr. Swartz.

It surely pays to advertise. Col. H. C. McMaken a few days since lost a pair of spectacles and last night he saw the advertisement of a pair being found in the Journal. He called at the office this morning, identified the glasses and paid for the advertisement, going on his way rejoicing. It pays to advertise.

Frank Svoboda is reported this morning as continuing to gain and as feeling quite well. He passed a good night and rested well. He has commenced to take on flesh and is now in better condition than for some time past. His many friends are pleased to note his progress and trust he will continue to improve.

Mrs. J. L. Thompson is reported today as being practically no better. She finds it quite impossible to get about, even with crutches, and has concluded not to try to do so until she is quite well and the weak knee fully recovered. It will likely be several days before she will be in shape to be about.

For three or four days Silas Breckenridge has been attracting attention by his curious actions and the secret and whyfore has just come to the surface. Several days since the stork in his rounds left with Mr. and Mrs. Breckenridge a fine, bouncing baby girl. Silas really thinks she is just a little the best ever, and Mrs. Breckenridge is a very proud mother and fully agrees with him. This explains why he has that wide-open and pleasing smile on his face. Both the mother and child are doing finely.
