Mrs. J. A. Enberg and children of Sheridan, Wyo., has been spending several days in the city the guest of Miss Alma Peterson. In company with the later she was a visitor for the day in Omaha, going up on No. 15 this morning.

George Kaffenberger was a passenger this morning for South Omaha, where he goes to look after a car of cattle which he shipped there last night. Mr. Kaffenberger has some very fine animals and his stock usually brings the best price of any on the market.

Joseph Kahoutek, Sr.; Joseph Kahoutek, Jr., and wife, and Tim Kahoutek were passengers this morning for Omaha, called there by the sudden death of the infant child of James Kahoutek. The little one was taken ill last Friday evening and died Saturday evening, the cause of death not being known here.

Hans Tams departed for his work on the road again this morning after spending several days at home with his family. Mr. Tams returned a few days ago from Tripp county, S. D., where he selected a fine farm as the result of his good luck in drawing last fall. Hans thinks the prospects in the country where he was so fortunate are good, and expects later to take up his residence upon the claim permanently.

A postal card received last Saturday by A. W. Atwood from Miss Emma Tresham, formerly a teacher in the public schools of this city, dated at Vancouver, B. C., states that that young lady has been engaged to teach during the coming winter at the town of Cames, Wash., taking a position in the public schools there at a salary of $65 per month. She writes that she is enjoying health and is greatly pleased with the coast. Her many friends in this city will be glad to learn of her improved health and that she has secured so lucrative a place in that section.

Captain Isaac Wiles is spending today in Omaha visiting his son, T. F., going there on the morning train.

J. H. Oltroegge departed this morning for his trip on the road after spending Sunday with his folks.

UNION.

(Ledger.)

Miss Jessie Todd returned last Friday from Seneca, Mo., where she had spent two months visiting with relatives.

Rufus Taylor has been under the doctor's care the past week, his illness developing into a case of typhoid fever, but at last reports he was improving nicely.

Ben F. Hoback has been wearing a smile that won't rub off, because he is grandpa, his new grandson being a member of Oscar Hoback's family at Talmage.

Tom McQuinn returned last Saturday from Coleridge, where he had been on a business trip. He reports that land is selling high in that country, and that G. A. Rose had sold his farm for $87,500 per acre.

G. W. Garrison and wife arrived home last Saturday from their trip to the Pacific coast, where they spent a few weeks taking in the exposition at Seattle and visiting their daughter, Mrs. Charles Pittman and family.

George Stites, one of our rural mail carriers, has been quite sick the past several days but we are pleased to report that he is improving. Sherman Austin is looking after the mail route during his absence.

A telegram was received here yesterday morning from Greeley, Colo., announcing the death of the mother of J. D. and W. R. Cross. Will has been out there for some time and J. D. left for there the first of this week.

A large number of people from Union and vicinity went to Plattsmouth last Saturday to attend the carnival and encourage the local ball team, and they pronounced the carnival a success in every respect. Plattsmouth certainly did well in putting on a carnival of such magnitude, and the energetic citizens who planned and carried it through are entitled to much credit for its success.

Wilhite-Tuckerman Meeting.

The series of revival meetings to be conducted by the Christian church in the big tent which stands on the lawn north of the court house will begin Wednesday evening of this week. Word comes from Evangelist Wilhite, saying that a part of the evangelistic team will be here Wednesday to begin the Plattsmouth meeting. He also states that owing to the fact that the whole town of Guthrie, Ky., is accepting Christ, it will be impossible for him to reach Plattsmouth before Saturday. While we rejoice in this good news from Guthrie we are sorry that Mr. Wilhite cannot be here the first night of the meeting. But Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman will be here and take charge as stated above. Mr. Moore, the pastor of the church, will likely do the preaching for the three evenings until the arrival of the evangelist. Mr. Tuckerman will devote his time to the organization of a large chorus. Any one who will, regardless of their church connections, will be welcome in this chorus work, but members of any church choir in the city are especially invited to assist in this feature of the work. Give in your name Wednesday evening to Mr. Tuckerman at the tent.

On Saturday evening a rousing reception will be tendered the evangelist and his assistants. This reception will be held in the tent. An excellent program is being prepared for this occasion, which will be published later. The ladies of the church will serve refreshments free to all visitors. The aim and desire is to make this reception thoroughly representative of the city in all its interests. The coming of a man like Wilhite to any community means more than money can purchase or words can explain. Wherever he goes he demonstrates the power of the gospel of Christ to save men. The people of Plattsmouth and Cass county are cordially invited to enjoy these meetings.

Conrad Cend Wins Prize.

Through an oversight yesterday no mention was made of the counting of the buttons contained in the jar at Wescott's Sons store. These buttons, which are the regular button used on the "Dutchess" brand of trousers, were in a sealed jar, and Messrs. H. N. Dovey and Frank E. Schlatter were chosen as a committee to count them. The work was done on Saturday morning last and the total number of buttons found in the jar were 1,671. An examination of the stubs kept in the store showing the number guessed by each person revealed the fact that the number nearest the correct number was 1,656. This number was guessed by Conrad Cend of Cedar Creek, who won the prize of a fine $3.50 pair of Dutchess trousers. There were many guesses registered altogether, and they varied most remarkably, ranging all the way from 300 to 10,000. As an advertisement for the Dutchess trousers the scheme proved a good one and as a means of securing a fine mailing list it was also effective. The Messrs. Wescott believe in advertising and they get results for their efforts. There were a large number of people who could not guess right and even the winner was not so close to the right number as might have been supposed.

LOUISVILLE.

(Courier.)

Willie Fitzgerald was up from Plattsmouth Tuesday. It is reported that Willie thinks seriously of signing with the medicine show.

By increasing the registered letter rate from 8 to 10 cents, the postoffice department shows a perfect knowledge of senatorial downward revision.

Mrs. C. G. Mayfield went to Omaha Tuesday to visit her son Raymond, who is confined in St. Joseph hospital. She reports him getting along nicely.

At last Louisville has won a game of ball from Manly, and accomplished the feat on the Manly grounds. The eventful game was pulled off Sunday, the score being 10 to 3 in our favor. John Tighe and Jim Murphy have the sympathy of the Courier in their grief.

John Givens will move his family back from Cedar Creek. Mr. Givens expects to make extensive improvements in his residence property in the north part of town. He will move his present house farther back on the lot and erect a neat residence on the site it now occupies.

At the German Lutheran church, on Wednesday, September 1, occurred the marriage of Miss Louisa C. Kraft of Louisville and Herman W. H. Meyer, a prosperous young farmer of Rushia, Neb. Rev. Theo. Heartman performing the ceremony according to the rites of the German Lutheran church.

Little Harry Jacobson received a very painful accident Monday evening. His brother Paul was putting hay down from the hay mow. Harry Argue Over North Pole.

One Fred Webster last evening became too friendly with John Barleycorn with disastrous results to himself. Fred, it would appear, is, or rather was, one of the men engaged in the apple packing industry in the city, and yesterday being somewhat of a dull day in his line, he put in most of it seeking to accumulate various brands of malt, spirituous and vinous liquors. When the eventide drew near Fred had nearly as much as he could conveniently handle, or as the poet has so aptly phrased it, he "was pretty well loaded." By the time it came around for supper he hid him to his hostelry on the lower end of Main street and sat him down alongside one of his fellow workers—a man who had worked with him for several years apart—and they entered into what is colloquially known as a "dispute." Fred maintained that Peary had the pole, while his colleague politely insisted that Cook seen it first, or some equally obtrusive proposition worried them, for presently Fred conceived that his friend had emitted a casual bell and he rose up and smote him a resounding crack upon the jaw. Under ordinary circumstances mankind is prone to resent such assaults, but in this case Fred's friend did not do so, but politely arose from the table and left the room. As he marched out Fred remarked with much satisfaction, "There, I give him one crack," and the rest of the meal was consumed in silence.

After supper was over and the guests had assembled in the mammoth rotunda of the hostelry, Fred's boss, scenting the trouble from afar, appeared and incontinently "fred" both men for their scandalous misconduct. Then did Fred wax wroth and he vowed by the great horn spoon that he would even up. So goes he forth like Alexander the Great, seeking more worlds to conquer, and in front of Barnes' restaurant he meets up with his erstime friend and seeks to renew hostilities. The friend demurred and suggested Fred leave him in peace while he was whole, which caused Fred to get peevish and to use language utterly unfit for publication. Following this he marched in battle array against his imaginary foe and would perhaps have severely chastised him had it not been the foe smote him in the neck and spun him around like a top, administering a severe kick to his posterior as he did so.

Then came ye vigilant cop and both men were gathered in and haled to gaol. Here the valiant Freddie was incarcerated, while the other man, stating how came it to be and having ample proof that he was in the right, was let go. This morning Fred was haled before Judge Archer, listened to his wayward course and lectured him severely upon conduct so unseemly and so unbecoming a gentleman and a scholar, administering a fine of five simoleons and costs, which he suspended if Freddie would leave the community for the community's good. This he hastened to do and the place that knew him no more.

School Days.

A number of the Lincoln young people will leave soon for school, a number going to eastern schools and a few selecting western places of learning. Among the number who have already gone or who are going soon are: Misses Beatrice Johnson and Helen Thornburg, Mt. St. Joseph's, Dubuque, Ia.; Miss Lourene Bratt, Monticello seminary, Monticello, Ill.; Miss Florence Chapman, Miss Mason's school, "The Castle," at Tarrytown-on-the-Hudson; Misses Martha Quiggle, Majorie Kimball, Harriet and Lillian Chapin, Mildred Morning, Eugene Woods of Lincoln and Catherine Dovey of Plattsmouth, Girton hall at Winnetka, Ill.; Miss Regina Steckly, Gunston hall, Washington, D. C.; Miss Ruth Lahr, Brownell hall, Omaha; Miss Marie Holm, Girl's Collegiate school, Los Angeles, Cal.; Miss Mary Stuart and Ruth Munger, Wellsey; Miss Margaret Mansfield will go to Akiey hall at Lake Forest; Harry and Herbert Grainger and Edward Jones, Shattuck Military academy; Henry Pomerene, Kentucky Military academy; De Vere Dierks, Culver.—Lincoln Journal.

Celebrate Twentieth Anniversary.

Last Saturday evening about twenty of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Petersen unexpectedly dropped in on them at their home on lower Main street and gave them a little party in remembrance of their twentieth anniversary. The party was a most enjoyable one, and Mr. and Mrs. Petersen could not but appreciate the thoughtfulness of their many friends in gathering with them. The evening was spent in various games and some very delightful musical numbers made a most enjoyable program. A delicious four-course luncheon was served at a late hour and the merry party broke up after tendering the popular couple their wishes for many more happy anniversaries.

Thieves Steal Valuable Animal.

Last Saturday night George W. Shrader, the well known citizen of Rock Bluff precinct, suffered the loss by theft of a valuable black mare. The animal is bald faced with white stripe inside one of the forelegs. Mr. Shrader values the animal at $1,500. He immediately notified Sheriff Quinton, who is bending every effort toward the apprehension of the thieves and who is confident he will meet with success. It is not known at just what hour in the night the mare was taken, the thief or thieves working very quietly and getting away with the goods without detection. The animal is well known in the immediate neighborhood of Mr. Shrader's home and is considered one of the best animals in that section. A liberal reward will be given for the arrest and conviction of the thief or thieves and any information leading to their apprehension should be sent to George W. Shrader at Murray or to Sheriff Quinton in this city.
