L. Brown, acting mayor of old "Kaaooh," was in the city this morning with some rich flavored apples. He left a supply for the Journal force, for which he has our gratitude.

Dr. George Gilmore of Murray went to Omaha this morning, where he had sent a patient by auto early this morning. The sick person was a young man named Peters, and it was thought an operation would be necessary.

Otto Puls, one of the industrious young farmers of Mt. Pleasant precinct, was in town today on business, and found time to call at the Journal office and spend a few moments in social chat. While here Mr. Puls renewed for another year, and said it was not possible to keep house satisfactorily without the Journal.

Mr. A. M. Holmes of Murray came in this morning from Lake Forest, Illinois, near Chicago, to visit his son Troy, and reports a most enjoyable visit. He says Lake Forest is a fine summer resort, and many millionaires reside there in their hundreds of thousand-dollar homes during the summer season, and that in the winter season there is practically nothing there. Mr. Holmes will remain in the city today to visit his daughter and take in the meeting at the tent, and proceed to Murray tomorrow.

Telephone on Main Line.
More than a week ago the Burlington finished equipping its main line, west of Lincoln to Hastings, with telephones for dispatching. Now every main line train on the Lincoln division of the Burlington is dispatched by telephone. On the Wyomere division telephones have been placed on the line between Wymore and Red Cloud. Gradually the system of telephone dispatching is being extended and it is predicted that within a year every main line train on the Burlington will be moved by telephone orders. The extension is also taking in some of the branches, and in time it is said the company will have displaced its telegraph system and substituted the phone. The use of wires for telephone dispatching and message work does not destroy their value for telegraphic work. Many wires used for telephoning also carry at the same time telegraph service, without interfering in the least with the telephoning.—Lincoln Journal.

Naturalization Papers.
A special from Lincoln under date of September 25, says: "United States Attorney A. W. Lane has prepared papers for filing in federal court to attack the validity of the naturalization papers of sixteen Nebraskans. Owing to irregularities in which the papers were served they are said to be no good. Some of them are said to have been illegally naturalized before they were in this country five years, others are charged with having failed to declare their intention of becoming citizens although they were over eighteen years of age when they arrived in this country, and yet others are said to have papers which were witnessed by other foreigners who were not citizens." There are fifteen defendants mentioned and among this number appears the name of Joseph Jellinek, Cass county; certificate issued in Cass county, 1892.

Sells Apple Crop.
Frank Moore, residing ten miles south of this city, disposed of his fine crop of apples for the neat sum of $590 a day or two ago. Mr. Moore has something over twenty acres in orchard, and the young trees had a very good crop of fruit this year. A man from the south was the purchaser, and he is barreling the apples in the orchard and shipping from Murray.

VERY SUGGESTIVE

The School Life of Children Should Interest Parents and Teacher.

The following suggestions from the Omaha News hits the right place, and if the advice is followed it will prove of great benefit to teachers, parents and pupils:

School days are here. Are your children glad to begin school work?

If not, do you know the reason? Do you take the interest you should in their progress at school? Have you made the acquaintance of their teacher? Do you visit school and make yourself familiar with what goes on there? Do you properly appreciate credits your children may have obtained? Do you show a regret at demerits and inquire from both the child and the teacher the reason for them?

Parents should remember that the responsibility for the education of their children does not lie wholly with the teacher. A parent has a responsibility for a child that cannot rightfully be transferred to any one else. Too often the chief part of the care for the children falls upon the mother, and sometimes the mother throws a good part of her burden on the teacher. No child can be properly brought up in this way.

When the business of the father will not allow him to visit the school the mother should make it her business to keep him informed concerning his children's progress. And he should have an interest in the matter.

Questions pertaining to school life of the children should be talked over with the teacher. This will aid both teacher and parents to a better understanding of what is best for the child. While every little foolish complaint of a child need not be taken seriously, it is well to know when there is a real reason to be concerned. It is not well to depend entirely on a child's version of affairs, as its judgment is immature, and it may knowingly or unconsciously misrepresent the facts. No just judgment can be given without hearing at least two sides of a story.

Inculcate in your child a respect for their teachers and a pride in properly and honorably performing their tasks. Do not allow them to think it "smart" to "trick" the teachers or to "get the best" of them, or in any way cause them needless trouble. The public school is maintained at great cost and offers freely that which is very much to the advantage of every one to possess. Do not let the share of its benefits that your children should have go to waste for lack of attention on your part.

Sheldon May Be

The Lincoln correspondent of the Omaha World-Herald says: "If it appears that the reactionary element in the Republican party threatens to dominate affairs next year, George L. Sheldon will again be a candidate for governor." is the opinion of a Lincoln man who is not new to the game of politics. While not expressing his views about the condition that would probably exist a year hence, it is everywhere apparent that the reactionaries who controlled the last state convention will make their grip stronger within the next year if they possibly can. This condition recognized it is taken that Sheldon will be a candidate. Without reference to this quotation, O. R. Thompson, state senator from Wisner, said while in Lincoln this week that he believed Sheldon could secure the nomination if he sought it. "Sheldon has a great many friends over the state and these men would help him. Moreover, by custom he has certain rights to a renomination which, I presume, his friends would press warmly."

The Revival Services.

The revival in the tent was attended last night by a large and deeply interested crowd. Evangelist Wilhite's sermon on the theme, "The Blues, Their Cause and Cure," was able, eloquent and helpful. The text for the sermon was "Vanity of vanities, saith the preacher, all is vanity." The sermon was a plea for looking on the sunny side of things and for living above the shadows. Mr. Tuckerman was at his best in his work. In response to the invitation a number came out to confess Christ. There were five baptisms at the close of the services. Tonight Mr. Wilhite will speak on "Things Transitory and Eternal." Everybody is invited to attend and enjoy these great meetings.

There is a great deal of "fixing up" in town right at the present time. The painters and paperhangers are all busy. The carpenters likewise. There seems to be nobody idle, only the fellows who do not want to work.

Local Event.

Adam Fornoff of near Cedar Creek was in the city last evening.

Mrs. James Loughridge of Murray was in the city yesterday doing some shopping and looking after some other matters.

Gus Heidemann and wife were passengers on the early train for Omaha, where they looked after business matters today.

Will T. Adams, one of the precinct's best and most energetic farmers, was a caller last evening for the purpose of renewing his subscription to the Journal.

Judge M. Archer is spending a few days in the west end of the county, and will visit the Murdock carnival today and tomorrow, where he will meet many of his old friends.

Many farmers who are selling their apple crops to foreign buyers will wish they had kept them before Christmas. They will be worth a dollar a bushel long before that time.

George Horn was down from Cedar Creek yesterday, and let the light of his genial countenance beam in upon the Journal force, where he is always a welcome visitor.

A truant officer could find some business to do in this city if he would inquire around a little. Boys, or girls, either, should attend school, even when it becomes compulsory.

Henry Miller returned from Galitan, Mo., this morning, where he has been visiting his family for a few days.

Mrs. J. Hoffines, who has been the guest of William Cole and family for a few days, departed for her home at Leon, Ia., today.

Mrs. J. F. Tubbs went to Omaha this morning to meet her daughter, who will arrive from Belle Fourche, S. D., to visit her parents for a time.

T. T. Wilkins and wife went to Omaha this morning to consult a surgeon regarding Mrs. Wilkins's health. Mr. Wilkins fears that she will have to undergo another operation.

W. H. Larkin of Omaha is the guest of his son, the novelty store man. Mr. Larkin, Sr., is one of the pioneers of eastern Nebraska, having come to Omaha when that city was quite small.

Your Individuality

is expressed in the clothes you wear more than any other way. If you are wearing the identical same style of suit and same pattern of cloth as a lot of other fellows, you lose your individuality. Maybe they look good in your suit and maybe not. Our exclusive suit idea—one suit of a pattern—gives you as much individuality and exclusiveness in your attire as tho' you went to the $60 custom tailor and at one-half the cost. Our Quality Line from $20 to $35 embodies all the excellence of tailoring and all the distinction of style that you can possibly find at the highest priced custom shop. The early picking is fine. A great many have already made their selections. Drop in and let us show you the cream of the best makes in the world.

FAREWELL RECEPTION TO PASTOR

Rev. J. E. Baumgartner Severs Connection With Church.

Last Sunday, September 26, at the Lutheran church, north of Murdock, occurred a most memorable farewell reception, which will always be a pleasant and cheering page of life's book. Owing to continued ill health the beloved pastor, Rev. J. E. Baumgartner, was unable longer to minister to his congregation in the able manner he desired, and as he also wished to leave his charge in splendid condition, he thought it best to resign his pastorate at this time, while the church was prospering and he still retained his mental faculties.

A meeting of the church members was held Sunday afternoon, at which time Rev. Meiers of Araphoe, Neb., was tendered a call to fill the vacancy caused by Rev. Baumgartner's resignation. Mr. Meiers was strongly recommended by those present, who knew of his ability, and the call was made by a unanimous vote and should he decide to accept of this call we bid him a hearty welcome. After the business of the day was disposed of Rev. Hartman made a fine address to the congregation present, in which he went over the record of the past seventeen years, during which time Rev. Baumgartner was pastor. Certainly the Lord has dealt kindly with the people of the congregation, as they have prospered in every way beyond what was their due. The ladies of the church next very cordially invited all present to partake of refreshments, which had been prepared, and it was a real pleasure to drop a coin into the basket which was passed, to show our appreciation of the good work of the retiring minister, and which was only a slight testimonial of the love and affection in which he was held by his admiring flock. Seventeen years ago Rev. Baumgartner took up the local church work, coming here from Buffalo county, and during this period of time he has succeeded in building up a very strong congregation, which worships in a beautiful church, surrounded by groves, vineyards and orchards. In this beauty spot are also located the parsonage, school and cemetery.

Rev. Baumgartner and family will leave for Lincoln, Neb., this week to take up their future residence, as he has purchased a fine home in the capitol city, located at 1640 South Twenty-fourth street, where he will be glad to greet all of his old friends. We regret his departure from our midst and can only wish him a full measure of the good things in store for all those who have lived a true Christian life.

Arrives From Russia.

Abe Babitz of Kamenaz, Podolsk, Russia, who is a fine violinist, arrived in Plattsmouth Monday. The young man will be found at M. Fanger's department store, where he is employed for the present.

Mr. Babitz was leader of a fine orchestra in one of the largest theaters in Russia, and is an expert on the violin. He composes as well as executes music. Any one needing his services as a player or teacher will find him a very genial gentleman.

System Complete.

John Bauer & Son are putting in the pipes and radiators for Clark & Walling. The new system costs these gentlemen about $350, and will be warmed by hot water. There will be two sets of pipes, one running the hot and the other the cold water, and when the water is turned in, in the required amount, there will be no necessity for disturbing that part again, as the water remains in the pipes all winter, and as there is no evaporation and no steam, once supplied the water cannot be exhausted.

George Lushinsky went over to Murdock this morning to take in the carnival for a day or two.

Open Season for Squirrels.

The open season for squirrels in Nebraska opens October 1 and lasts two months. Dan Geilus, deputy game warden, has some valuable remarks to make about the etiquette of squirrel shooting. He insists that a true sportsman will use nothing but a .22 calibre rifle, and that one who uses a shotgun is to be classed as a game hog and a pot hunter. The law allows one to kill ten squirrels in one day, if he can get on the right side of the tree, and allows one to have twenty squirrels in his possession at one time. The open season was decreed by the last legislature in response to the demands of farmers living in the southeastern part of the state. Many of them wrote letters to their representatives showing how squirrels had destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of corn. One Gage county farmer wrote to his representative demanding that the state indemnify him for the loss of his corn.

C. C. Despain, who has been canvassing in Liberty precinct for a few days says that the corn crop in that precinct is far ahead the corn in this locality. Mr. Despain thinks the farmers will have more than an average crop this year in that part of the county.
