A. F. Kraeger of Eight Mile Grove was in the city today. Mr. Kraeger was passed by a couple of autos which seemed to have rather reckless drivers. In our local columns last week we had an item read "Fred Lentz and wife of Plattsmouth, Neb." They reside at Plymouth, Neb., and Mr. Lentz is the man who purchased the G. L. Berger and Louis Jensen farms. The Berger farm brought $130 per acre.

Misses Nellie Willcockson, Lillian Kiersey and Margaret O'Mara and Sanford Clements left for Peru Monday morning to take a course of study at the state normal school. They were accompanied as far as Nebraska City by Miss Daisy Langhorr and Earl Horton, who assisted materially in the enjoyment of the day at that place, the students not being able to resume their journey until late in the day.

If the wish of the voters is adhered to Elmwood will have another lighting system. Such was the sentiment as expressed last Monday afternoon when a special vote was taken to determine the points at variance, as it seems the village board was divided on the lighting question. It is not known for a certainty now just what lighting system the board will decide upon, but that which is being favored by many is the gasoline system now in use by our sister towns of Eagle and Murdock.

To Publish Proclamation.

Governor Shallenberger Monday designated the Omaha World-Herald and the Lincoln Star as the two daily papers to publish his proclamation containing the names of 5,000 corporations that failed to pay the new state occupation tax September 1. It is estimated that the legal charge for the publication in one issue of a newspaper is $535. Two other papers designated offered to do the work for $450. The legislature appropriated $1,000 to pay the cost of publication. In parceling out this patronage the governor overlooked several Democratic daily papers in the state, but as he could not give the work to all he gave it to the two papers designated. The proclamation will declare that unless the corporations named pay the state occupation tax by November 30, at 4 p. m., their right to do business in the state shall cease. It applies to both domestic and foreign corporations, except insurance companies, banks and other institutions specifically exempted under the law. A suit has been filed to test the validity of the tax.

The Moran Case.

The divorce case of Mrs. Maude L. Moran vs. her husband, William F. Moran, which had been on trial in the district court for several days last week, was on Saturday evening submitted to the court. It was agreed that Mr. Moran was to be given a divorce and the custody of the children, and the only question at issue was the amount of money which was to be given to Mrs. Moran, and how it was to be paid, or when it was to be paid. This case has been on for some time, and after Mrs. Moran was declared sane there was nothing to do but go ahead with the divorce proceedings. Judge Travis took the matter under advisement and will hand down a decision when he returns next week some time.—Nebraska City News.

OMAHA STRIKERS

Prospects for an Early Settlement Not Very Favorable.

Omaha, Sept. 27.—The chances for settling the strike of street car men in this city did not clear up much today, although it had been believed there was a probability of the strike being ended before tonight. President Wattles at yesterday's conference with municipal officials of Omaha and adjacent cities through which the company's lines run, intimated on what basis he would reemploy the strikers, but this proposition was not laid before the union officials nor the men individually, and for that reason no action was taken by the striking employes.

President Wattles said that he would have no dealings with the union and would deal with the men only as individuals. He declined to make any proposition to the union and the leaders of that body say there is nothing before them to consider. It was stated by Mr. Wattles that seventy-five old employes had reported for duty since Friday and that others had asked for reinstatement.

A mass meeting of the car men was held at Labor temple this afternoon, where 300 of the men assembled. The proposition of the company was read and rejected by a unanimous vote, after which it was decided to continue the strike.

All of the old men returning to work this morning were given much better runs than they had before the strike. Some previously held what are designated as "swing" runs, while many others worked on relief. All of them are now given regular runs, by which they are enabled to get in ten hours and an increased wage of 1 cent an hour. The service today has been nearly normal, cars leaving and arriving at the terminal points on schedule time.

The men have until Tuesday noon to return. After that, if they come back, they come as new men and will have to take their chances on securing regular runs.

Ben Commons, the organizer, who is charged with being instrumental in bringing on the strike, and who has been conducting it since its inception, stated this afternoon that the men will never accept the terms offered by the company and approved by the committees to the conference. He declares that if better terms are not offered, several new cards will be played. He intimates that the electrical workers, the machinists, the barn men, the track men and all other employes will be called out, and a complete tie-up of the system will result. He says these men are in sympathy with the strike and only require the word to walk out. On the other hand, the street railway company officials say that the men are loyal and will remain so. The men themselves are not talking.

As a result of the strike, retail business is beginning to suffer. People from the country will not come to town and those from the residence district do not care to take chances on riding on cars, fearing that they will be injured by mobs.

The Ax-Sar-Ben festivities are coming on the last of this week, and unless the strike is settled before that time, which now seems impossible, they will be a failure. The parades can be pulled off, but there will be few to witness them.

Met Highwaymen.

Saturday night as Victor Sherwood was wending his way homeward he met two lone highwaymen who demanded "your money or your life." Vic had reached the curve in the road ascending Wintersteen hill, and the opportunity to make a getaway was too good to be lightly thought of. Vic took a hike and completely outclassed the robber. If a shot was fired it was so far in the rear that Vic did not hear it, although when he first was accosted the villain had his hand behind him as if to draw a revolver. All this occurred about 9 o'clock.

Rev. Randall Departs.

Yesterday afternoon Rev. A. A. Randall and his estimable wife, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Lucille, departed for their new home at Osceola, Neb. A number of his friends and members of the church were at the train to see them off. Plattsmouth loses one of its best families, and while his friends and congregation are lothe to give them up, yet our loss is Osceola's gain. Rev. Randall goes to a larger church than he leaves, with increased salary and we know he will make his influence felt on the community to which he goes.

Fifty-two cars in the Kansas City cup race crossed the Louisville bridge Thursday morning. The route is from Kansas City to Omaha and return.

Arthur Palmer returned to Lincoln this week and will enter the law department of the state university. Arthur is one of Louisville's brightest young men and the Courier predicts a bright future for him.

Parmelee & Barker have purchased a lot on Main and Third streets, just south of the livery barn, and will build an automobile garage. The building will be of Louisville sand stone and large enough to accommodate a dozen cars at one time.

Fred Koch and family have moved here from Newark, N. J. They are stopping at the home of John Koop until they can find a desirable residence. Years ago Mr. Koch and Mr. Koop were shipmates before the mast and sailed many stormy seas together. Mr. Koch was formerly employed at Newark by one of the trans-Atlantic freight lines, but was compelled to move west on account of his health.

Lester Tennant had a little experience with a broncho Tuesday that he will not soon forget. He was attempting to harness the critter, using a swinging pole as a protector. It failed to answer the purpose, for after landing on his leg the frisky beast got him cornered, and with the pole proceeded to squeeze him in such a manner as to cave in a couple of his short ribs. Dr. Worthman reports no internal injuries except as above stated, and that the unfortunate man is getting along as well as could be expected.

Mayor Indicted.

J. E. Luby and his brother, S. Z. Luby of Mattoon, Ill., who have been the guests of Mrs. Crabill for a few days, visited friends at Glenwood yesterday, returning to Plattsmouth this morning. The first named gentleman is a member of the Mattoon city council, and he just noticed in yesterday's papers that during his absence the mayor of his city has been indicted by the grand jury for malfeasance in office.

Goods Stolen.

Peter Goos, proprietor of the Plattsmouth hotel bar received a shipment of Pathfinder whiskey this morning composed of five cases. Upon opening them up to his surprise he discovered that three of the cases had been opened enroute from St. Louis and some of the flasks entirely empty. It is likely that tramps broke into the car and finding the whiskey, slaked their thirst at the expense of some one else.

In the party were Balz Volk and wife, George Frederick and wife and George Weyrich, all of Pierce county, Neb.
