OMAHA STRIKE STILL UNSETTLED

Wattles' Domineering Spirit the Cause of Continuance.

The most serious accident since the street car company began filling the places of its striking employes with men of little experience occurred Tuesday night at Thirtieth and Harney streets, when a Benson car struck a Harney street car amidships, hurling it several feet and seriously injuring three passengers, George Marley, L. W. Brittain and Fred Halverson, all residents of Omaha. Marley is injured internally and may die. Both cars were badly smashed.

John Miller was run down by a Dodge street car at Dodge and Twelfth streets and suffered concussion of the brain. Conductor Emmanuel Harris and Motorman A. Thompson, both imported strike breakers, were arrested and will be held pending the result of Miller's injuries.

A proposition for re-employment of the striking street car men, received from President G. W. Wattles by a committee from the Central Labor union, was rejected at a meeting of the strikers at Labor temple Wednesday afternoon.

The offer made by Mr. Wattles as reported by the committee proposed the employment at once of 125 of the men out, at their old wage, taking seniority in the order of application.

The offer included a statement to the effect that the remaining strikers would be employed from time to time as they could be placed. This proposition, typewritten, but unsigned by Mr. Wattles, was presented at the meeting.

The statement purports to have been issued at 4:30 o'clock to the labor committee as an amendment to a verbal statement made in the morning. It is emphatically declared that the company does not in any way recede from the proposition made by the company and signed by the five mayors. It is asserted that at the morning meeting, Mr. Wattles had said that the company was no longer requiring men to sign pledges to keep out of the union, but this is retracted in the final written statement.

The street car company is responsible for every accident that happens. Through the domineering spirit of President Wattles of the car company, the strike is still on and bids fair to remain so, and people who have the courage to board the cars are running a great risk of losing their lives or being crippled for the balance of their days.

RESIDENCE IS BURNED

No One at Home When Fire Was Discovered and Cause Unknown.

About 10 o'clock this morning the fire alarm was turned on, the cause being a fire at the home of J. Matsen, who lives in the Fifth ward. Mr. Matsen had left the house only a short time before and came down town, and when informed that his house was burning could hardly credit the truth. Mrs. Matsen is in the hospital at Omaha, so that no one was in the house at the time the fire started. There was some delay in getting the alarm turned on, but the house was so far out that there was not sufficient hose in town to take the water to it. The fire company made an effort to get to the fire with the hose cart, but when it was found that the fire was so far out, the hose carts were abandoned, and Chief Kobeck and the men hurried to the place, thinking they might render some aid. Water was brought from a nearby well until the rope broke. The cellar was all that could be saved. The house was a total loss as well as the furniture. The house was owned by L. Hisey, who resides in Missouri, and it is not known whether it was insured or not.

Mr. Matsen had about $600 worth of furniture and $300 insurance. It is not known how the fire started. It was first seen by Mrs. Thomas, who immediately tried to get the shops, but failing called Mr. Kobeck, who understood that it was Hraskey's house on Wintersteen hill, and there the hose carts tried to go. When they had climbed the hill the fire could be seen still further out. The hose carts were then left at the school house and with Walter Scott's team hurried to the scene of the fire. The mistake probably made two or three minutes difference in the time of arrival, but nothing could have been done to save the house, as it was too far gone when the alarm was turned in.

Plenty at Shops.

The track force on repair of freight cars, under the foremanship of C. M. Parker, assisted by E. C. Akerman, are working full time with about 175 men. With this force there can be turned out from fifteen to twenty-five cars daily, depending on the amount of repair needed on the car. Other departments are just as busy as the track force, and one sees a busy lot of men in all departments when going through the shop.

Wilhite-Tuckerman Meetings.

Notwithstanding that many Plattsmouth people went to Omaha last night, the tent was filled with an attentive audience, which was deeply impressed with Mr. Wilhite's eloquent sermon on "Christ the King." "Why Christ Refused an Earthly Crown" was the leading question of the sermon. It is evident that these meetings are just reaching their best work. Ten souls were added to the church yesterday, which brings the grand total up to ninety-three additions in less than three weeks. Many others are almost persuaded to yield to Christ and the closing days of the meeting will doubtless be the best. In some way the word has been passed out that these meetings will close on Saturday night of this week. This is a mistake. The meetings will close Sunday evening. They should continue another week, but this will be impossible. Next Tuesday evening a public reception for all the new members will be held at the tent. More definite announcements will be made later. Five were immersed at the close of the services last night. Tonight the evangelist will speak on the subject, "The Christian Life of the Man in This World."

A Close Call.

John Hansel and family had a close call from being instantly killed at a crossing near Union by a Missouri Pacific passenger train one day this week. The train was upon the crossing when the train came on them suddenly from around a curve. The train was whirled from the track, turning the vehicle over, but clear of the track. All of the occupants of the vehicle were injured by the fall and the daughter quite severely.

He is on his way to Georgia to spend the winter, as the cold winds of the north are too much to endure. Mr. Barr likes the Nebraska weather in the fall, and thinks the weather great now.

PREACHER BAD MAN

Deserts Wife and Children for a More Fascinating and Younger Lady.

For three weeks the people of Ashland have been talking of the almost simultaneous disappearance of Rev. Howard R. Van Auker, pastor of the Congregational church here, and Miss Bertha Bowman, a professional nurse from Lincoln. Their departure followed the interception of a note written to Miss Bowman by the preacher which was written with the evident purpose of appointing a time and place for a meeting. Before leaving the city, Van Auker placed his resignation in the hands of the church board at its request. He left his wife and three children, the oldest of whom is 8 years of age and the youngest an infant, who have since gone to live at Middleville, Mich., with Mrs. Van Auker's father, who came to Ashland for them.

The deposed and departed minister is about 35 years of age, a man of good appearance and physical vigor. He is a fine pulpit orator and was popular with his congregation. He had been here about two years, coming from Indiana.

Just before Miss Bowman left Ashland she wrote a note to her sister at Fairbury, stating that she was going to Colorado and would stop at Fairbury on the way. She did not stop, however, and her sister has neither seen nor heard anything from her since that time.

Waste and Repair.

The human body is a picture of the world's work. A constant struggle, with gain on one side and loss on the other, waste and repair. The minute cells, of which the body consists, die and their loss is replaced by new-born cells. As long as the body is capable to repair the whole loss it is in the state of health. If the waste is larger than the repair, some organs of the body become weak and diseased. You should then use Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine, a perfectly reliable tonic which will stimulate all organs to work and thus make a hasty repair. Use it in all diseases connected with loss of appetite and bodily strength. At drug stores. Jos. Triner, 1333-39 South Ashland avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Miss Daisy Thomas, who has been spending a month with her parents, James Thomas and wife, returned to Clarinda, Ia., on No. 6 this morning.
