THE DRUGGISTS

THE NEW DISEASE

Baffling Physicians at Lincoln and Havelock

A strange disease is attacking the children in some parts of the state and the doctors are having a hard time in fixing a name for it. It is somewhat like spinal meningitis, and almost invariably fatal. The Lincoln Star, in speaking of the two cases in Lincoln and Havelock, says: "A second case of poliomyelitis in the vicinity of Lincoln has been discovered in the illness of Mildred Newell of Havelock. She has been ill for about two weeks and local doctors have made a diagnosis of Poliomyelitis, discarding the first belief that the disease was spinal meningitis. In all respects the case seems to be similar to the numerous cases that perplexed physicians in and near York and Stromsburg and which resulted in a number of deaths. The Newell home has been quarantined and every precaution is being taken of which the doctors know to prevent a spread of the disease.

"The two diseases are much alike in many respects. The examinations made to determine the real nature of the malady have been confusing. "From a victim of the disease, who died near York, a small quantity of fluid was taken from the spinal cavity and this revealed the presence of diplocoeci, an organism peculiar to meningitis. In another case a section of the spinal cord of a victim was analyzed and the result was negative. Spinal meningitis attacks the meninges or membranes about the cord. Poliomyelitis attacks the spinal cord itself and it is not impossible that there would be a sympathetic inflammation or disorder of the surrounding membranes. In a general way the symptoms of the diseases are about the same. The most remarkable feature of the entire epidemic, considering the large number of cases that have appeared in the state, is the mildness of the attack and the comparatively negligible results. Severe attacks of either disease sometimes leave permanent paralysis of a part of the body. The first case noted in Lincoln resulted fatally about three weeks ago."

Looking for Help.

The following from Major Flemke of the Gospel Army, addressed to Judge Douglas, will explain itself: Creston, Ia., Oct. 7, 1909.—Dear Sir: As I told you yesterday, that I would go to Glenwood looking up a church to hold meetings, but I changed my mind, and I am on my way to Des Moines, Ia., to see if I can get a good captain and wife to take charge of our mission work, as I myself can do nothing. Yours Respectfully,
W. R. FLEMKE.

Railway Suits.

From time to time mention has been made in these columns of suits brought against the Burlington in the vicinity of Pacific Junction and to the north on the Missouri river bottom. Farmers have claimed damages for large amounts caused by railway grades and insufficient bridging and drainage, thus causing back overflows. W. S. Dickerson was the fourth farmer to bring suit. He sued for $1,600. After nearly a week of hard fighting by both sides the jury brought in a verdict for Dickerson for $1,200.—Glenwood Opinion.
