DEATH OF AN OLD CITIZEN

Homer K. Dunbar Passes Away After Months of Lingerin Illness.

Died—Dunbar, Homer K., at Plattsmouth Neb., October 21, 1909, aged 70 years, 6 months and 13 days, of kidney trouble. Funeral Thursday, October 21, 1909, at 2 o'clock p. m. from the Hotel Riley, Rev. J. T. Baird officiating. Interment at Ashland, Neb., on Thursday evening, October 21, 1909.

A worthy and good man passed to his final reward early this morning when death claimed Homer K. Dunbar. The culmination of months of lingering illness, death was not unexpected and for days it had been known that nothing could avert the final summons. With his passing goes a man who was well known throughout the Missouri valley as one of nature's noblemen. A long life spent in constant association with his fellow men, has closed without a single stain upon it. To few men is it given to meet so many of their fellows and be able to say to them all that they were friends as this fine gentleman could say. Boy and man Mr. Dunbar had followed the hotel business for more than forty years—a business peculiarly one in which many people are met, and a business which afforded opportunities for much misunderstanding, yet in his lifetime Mr. Dunbar had virtually none of these. It was in July of this year that his illness had so advanced that he was compelled to relinquish the management of the Eno House at Fremont, and he came to this city to spend his last days with his son Frank H. at the Hotel Riley. Several weeks ago he was taken to a hospital at Omaha and an operation performed upon him in the hopes of prolonging his life but the disease had too firmly fastened itself upon him and he was brought back to await the end.

Mr. Dunbar was born at Breckville, Ohio on April 8, 1839, his father being John Dunbar of that place.

Here he spent his early boyhood and when the dark cloud of civil war loomed large upon the country's horizon, the young man Dunbar went to the front for his country's defense enrolling in Battery A, first Ohio volunteer light artillery. When his term of service in this battery expired he re-enlisted in Capt. Pelton's Eighth Independent battery of the Ohio national guards light artillery. His record in the war was that of a brave and fearless soldier, one ever ready to face the enemy and to bear his portion of the fierce attacks of desperate foes. At the time of his death he was carried upon the pension rolls of the United States for injuries received in his army service.

When peace had been declared and the war cloud had rolled back from over the country, Mr. Dunbar came to the then promising Missouri valley, where he embarked upon the hotel business, a business which was destined to follow until death touched down his eyelids. He first opened a hotel in St. Joe, Mo., and later he was at Atchison, Kas., both then and now flourishing cities. His advent into Nebraska followed and he became connected with hotels in Weeping Water and Ashland and later was again located at St. Joe, from which point he came to this city and took charge of the Hotel Riley which he successfully managed for several years, finally turning it over to his son Frank H. and himself going to Fremont, where he took charge of the Eno House which he managed until last July when he returned here.

It was during this term of service in the army that Mr. Dunbar was united in marriage to Miss Louise Oakes at Breckville, O., on January 28, 1863 and of this happy union three children were born. They in addition to the widow survive him, their names being Frank H. of this city, Mrs. Hugo Wiggenhorn of Ashland and Mrs. Kessler of Oakland, Cal. Both the son Frank and daughter, Mrs. Wiggenhorn were present at their father's bedside when the end came. Owing to the time required to make the journey from Oakland, Cal., Mrs. Kessler could not make the trip to this city in time for the services.

The funeral was held this afternoon from the Hotel Riley, services being conducted by Rev. John T. Baird, a long time friend. A large number of friends were present to pay a last tribute of respect to an old and esteemed friend. Following the services at the hotel, the remains were conveyed to the Burlington train and were taken to Ashland at 3:20 p. m. for interment.

THE MARKET REPORT

Daily market letter from the M. L. Williams Commission company, Coates block, Plattsmouth, Neb.:

Wheat—The market today was very bearish and declines started from the opening of the market. December and the future months were all lower at the start and during the earlier hours. The foreign cables were all lower and a realization that there was a tremendous wheat crop in sight the world over largely aided in the bearish tendencies. Russian and Argentine crops were offered freely, as was the case yesterday. The advance in the English bank note rate also figured as a factor tending to lower prices.

Corn—As was the case with wheat the market was very bearish. On profit-taking the market ruled lower throughout the day. A cessation of wet weather in the corn belt was also a factor for lower prices. Reports are current of an unexpectedly good yield in several states where a poor crop had been anticipated, and where husking is in progress better yields are reported than anticipated.

Oats—Market dull and listless and slightly lower, largely in sympathy with wheat and corn. Not much prospect of a wide change and fluctuations confined to a narrow sphere.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says: Wheat—Sentiment among the wheat traders after the close last night was a little more friendly to the bulls. It was said that the long interest among local professionals had been increased at the expense of a decrease in the shortage of the pit element. Commission men who were very bearish based their ideas largely on the limited outside trade and advised selling on all bulges like that of Wednesday. Conservatives among the professionals were in a number of instances disposed to take a friendly view of the wheat situation, and one of them said: "It is necessary to consider conditions all over the world in forming an opinion on wheat. The reason why prices do not decline in the face of the bearish news is due in a measure to the increased production of gold and its enhanced purchasing power and to the limited surplus reserves the world over, which will have to be replaced before very low prices can be looked for. There will be breaks from time to time." A four-day break from the high point here, making a loss of 4c, induced a number of the local shorts to take profits at the opening, and some of them went long. It was the impression at the close that one of the largest houses had been openly bearish.

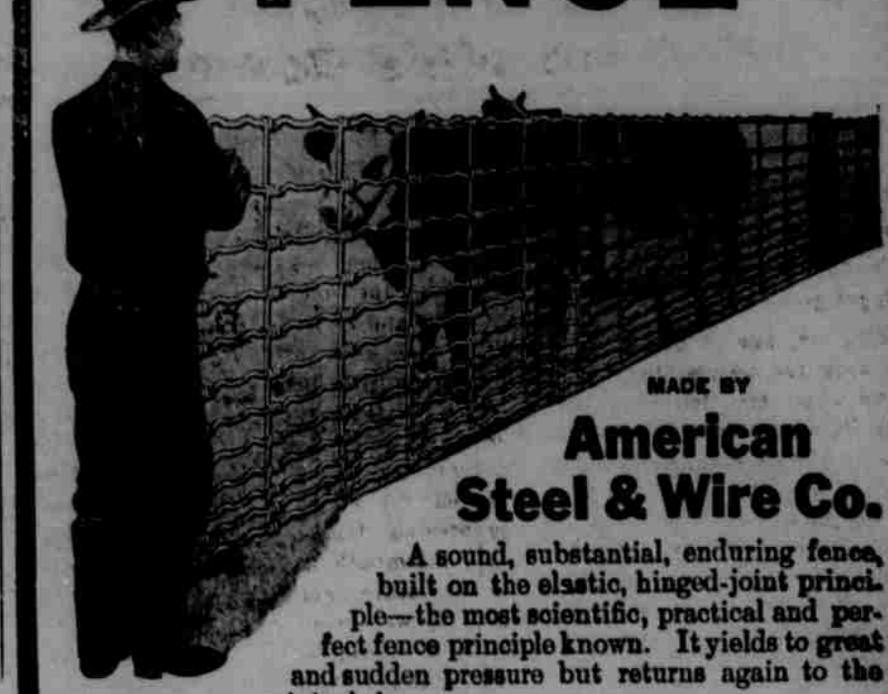

Broomhall cables: Wheat—At the start the market was quiet and values 1/4 to 1/2 lower than yesterday, and during the morning a further decline of 1/4 @ 1/2, with offerings larger. The late strength in American yesterday was off on favorable weather conditions and Argentine and Russian offerings. The English bank rate has been further advanced and is now 5 per cent, and this induced profit-taking. Toward midday there was a slight recovery, at which time the market showed some strength. At this time values were 1/4 to 1/2 lower than yesterday. Corn—Quiet during the morning, with an advance of 1/4 in December. The market was extremely dull, with the undertone steady, due to the strength in American yesterday.

John Lowther and W. J. Partridge, his nephew, two of the initiates into the Red Men at Omaha last night, were unlucky enough to miss their train and were compelled to spend the night in the metropolis. They returned this morning on No. 6, being the last of the band of noble braves from this city to get in. They had a rousing time and greatly enjoyed their trip.

HERE IS A CORKER.

It seems that a question of law has arisen about just when the sheriff shall turn over to the county treasurer the fees earned by him. To our mind, it is very plain what the intention of the law is as expressed by the word then in the section of the law covering the sheriff's reports and fees and it must also have been very plain in the mind of the present sheriff before the investigation which is now being made was commenced.

For on the 20th day of May, 1909, he turned over to the county treasurer $203.80; and again on the 27th day of November, 1908, he paid over to this same officer $103.95, and still again on the 1st of May, 1909, he made another payment to this same officer of $43.45. Evidently Mr. Quinton's opinion of the law has changed. He is openly quoted as saying that he can hold his fees, or the people's money until the end of the current year. Why, then did Mr. Quinton either misconstrue the law on the above given dates or does he misconstrue the law now?

LOUISVILLE.
(Courier.)

T. E. Parmele, president of the Bank of Commerce, was in town this week looking after business interests.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jochim entertained a dancing party at their home Friday evening. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

G. P. Melsinger, Democratic nominee for commissioner from the first district, was in town Tuesday calling on the voters in the interest of his candidacy.

The Platte river toll bridge made a nice bit of money from the government Thursday. There were 437 soldiers, 540 horses and mules and 32 vehicles crossed the bridge for which they paid a toll of $78.80.

T. H. Pollock, general manager of the Plattsmouth Independent Telephone company, was in town this week looking after the erection of the new telephone exchange building which will soon be completed and of which the Courier will speak later.

The delinquent tax list for Cass county is the smallest list printed in Cass county perhaps in the history of the county. This shows the prosperity of the people in a way that cannot be disputed. The Elmwood Leader is printing the list on its patent side.

County Treasurer F. E. Schlater was in town a short time Wednesday evening. He had a little repairing to do in his political fences out near Elmwood and was making the trip to fix things up so they will be in good shape at the big round-up November 2nd.

County Treasurer Schlater is wooing the festive voter today in the county, going out this morning. Frank seems to be making a splendid race and is assured of election, as he well deserves, having served the county faithfully and well for only one term.

Prof Austin's New Venture.

That portion of the Plattsmouth public who love the moving picture show, will hail with joy the announcement of the re-opening of the Majestic theater under the direction and management of Prof. H. S. Austin. This event is scheduled to take place tomorrow (Friday) evening, Prof. Austin being in Omaha today to complete arrangements for opening up. During the several seasons the Majestic was open it furnished a pleasant and attractive resort for Plattsmouth people to attend and pass an evening and the closing of the house was received with regret.

The new management needs no introduction to the Plattsmouth public. Prof. Austin has been connected with public life in the city for a number of years past and is well known and deservedly popular. He has had a wide experience in theatrical life, having been a member of many prominent musical companies. He is himself one of the finest singers ever heard in the city, a finished teacher of vocal music and a man with an appreciation of all that is best in theatrical life. His wife is equally well and favorably known here and is a young woman of marked talent and ability. Without exception the public is pleased to have these estimable people venture into business for themselves and it is believed their venture will be a success in every particular. The opening program will be announced in the Journal.

Sold Some Fine Hogs.

Ell M. Smith, the well known hog raiser of this village, had an auction sale of some of his Poland China stock Monday, and although the weather was very disagreeable there was a very good attendance of buyers, a number coming from Plattsmouth, Murray, Nehawka and Avoca. The hogs sold at very fair prices to men who know a hog bargain when they see it. Mr. Smith contemplates holding another sale on a much larger scale in the near future, when he will offer a great many of the finest hogs in the county. Robert Wilkinson, the famous "auction orator," officiated at Monday's sale—Union Ledger.

Has Finger Injured.

George Hall, who has been employed for some time past in the blacksmith shop of the Burlington, this morning suffered the misfortune of accidentally catching the middle finger of his left hand in such a manner as to grind off the end of the member. Surgical attention was had at once and the injured member dressed. George will be kept upon the relief for some little time, as this injury is a very painful and severe one.

The Bed-Rock of Success lies in a keen, clear brain, backed by indomitable will and resistless energy. Such power comes from the splendid health that Dr. King's New Life Pills impart. They vitalize every organ and build up brain and body. J. A. Harmon, Lizemore, W. Va., writes: "They are the best pills I ever used." 25c. at F. G. Fricke & Co.
