Old Folks Enjoy Visits.

Our old friend, Conrad Schlater, was a visitor this morning at the Masonic home, where he has so many old friends, and while there he regaled them with many pieces of music, which they much appreciated. They stated to him that they dearly loved to have their friends call, and especially those of a musical tendency, as it greatly aided them in passing the lonesome hours. When their visitors were few and far between it seemed that they were forgotten, and they were lonely. They hoped that their many good friends would appreciate their state and favor them with calls as frequently as they might spare the time. Mr. Schlater attends the home as regularly as his health will permit and greatly enjoys his visits to these good people.
