

INSPECTING THE WORK ON SEWER

A. F. Hedengren, Master Carpenter of the Burlington, Satisfied With Progress.

A. F. Hedengren, master carpenter of the Burlington for the Omaha division, spent last night and a portion of this morning in the city, inspecting the work on the new sewer. Mr. Hedengren is well satisfied with the progress of the work which is being excellently done. At present progress is slow owing to the conditions under which the work is done. The excavation is being completed under the main line and this work must all be done by hand owing to the number of tracks in that vicinity. As soon as the tracks have been crossed and teams can be used the work will be pushed forward much quicker. It is the intention to build the sewer in sections, the section under the main line being the first to be completed and as soon as that is done the second section under the shop leads will be started, the dirt from the latter being wasted on top of the first section as a covering. The connection of the two sewers lies some where close to the east side of the freight depot platform so it can be seen there remains a vast amount of work to be done. An additional force will be put on the work by Mr. Hedengren just as soon as space can be obtained for the men to work on. There are new developments yet in the matter of the storm water sewer on Lincoln avenue, Mr. Hedengren stated. He says, however, that some arrangements must be made by spring to handle the rains and either an open ditch be dug or a sewer built. The company desires the city to vacate a portion of Lincoln avenue for this purpose and this will doubtless be done as the city is anxious to do its share toward protecting the shops and company's property.

Is Going to Leave Plattsmouth.

It was with regret yesterday that the Journal printed a half page advertisement of the fact that M. Fanger, who has been prominently identified with the business interests of this city for so many years, had decided to close his store in this city and leave. This action is taken, Mr. Fanger says, because of his health, which has been bad for several years and which has been constantly growing worse.

He contemplates going to California, where he believes his health will speedily recover. In order to leave here at the earliest possible moment Mr. Fanger is going to sell his entire stock and fixtures. Everything in the store goes and absolutely nothing will be reserved. His store is closed today and tomorrow in order to mark prices down to the very lowest figures and Friday morning the doors will be thrown open at eight o'clock and everything will be placed on sale at prices ridiculous to contemplate. He states that he will not consider cost price at all but is going to put such a figure on the goods that they will move and move quickly. This sale will be a rare opportunity for the men and women of Plattsmouth to get real bargains and they will doubtless take advantage of the opportunity. The sale covers the several lines in his dry goods store, including the celebrated Wooltex garments and millinery, and also covers the lines of men's wearing apparel, hats, caps, boots and shoes in his clothing department. Mr. Fanger has long been one of the city's best business men and had built up a splendid trade, helping Plattsmouth as well as himself and it is a serious loss to the city to have him move away. However, since he has so determined the people of the city will be benefited to some extent as they will receive the benefit of bargains which are of real value to them. During his residence here Mr. Fanger had made himself highly esteemed by Plattsmouth people, who hope his change of location will be of lasting benefit to him.

Short Visit.
William Krecklow for many years a resident of this city and now located in Louisville, came in last evening from Omaha, where he had been attending to business to make an overnight visit with relatives before returning to his home. Mr. Krecklow or "Billy," as he is popularly known, is one of Louisville's best citizens and during the time he was in business in this city he was one of the most popular of men. His many old time friends were glad to meet him and shake his hand once more.

LITTLE FRACUS LAST EVENING

John Barleycorn on One of His Regular Tantrums Again.

Old John Barleycorn last night put one on his regular stunts, starting a near-riot at the Parmele, where he had stowed himself or had been stowed away inside the human man framework of a lusty individual. This party went to sleep in the theatre, as nearly as can be found out, and was blocking the gangway inasmuch that a lady who wanted out found herself bottled up, as the poet would say. She called the handsome young usher, who tapped the sleeper ever so gently upon the shoulder and said "Rise up, Willum Riley, and come along with me," or something that way, only he didn't call him Willum Riley for that isn't the party's name. Whereat the sleeper woke, and waxed exceedingly wrathful, using language which was unbecoming to a gentleman and a scholar and which was the cause of his hurried departure from the theatre by the strong arm route, he speedily landing in the street with a bang which jarred his rear teeth. Then he was mad and a large crowd had assembled took sides and soon a lively melee ensued. The crowd went round and around and a portion of it carried the war into the passage way to the rotunda of the Hotel Riley. Many blows were struck and much bad language spilled, but aside from this, no serious damage was done and no arrests were made. As was remarked previously, Old John Barleycorn was at the bottom of the trouble, and he laughed heartily to see the sons of men mix it up and witness reason fled to brutish beasts. Well, well, such things lend a fitting air of jocularity to the serious business of living on this mundane sphere and furnishes a momentary diversion for the mortals who struggle onward and upward toward a higher and better life.

In District Court.

Judge Travis this morning in district court granted a decree of divorce to Alvin Henry Murray from Esther Alden Murray, the defendant making no appearance but letting the case go by default. On hearing the testimony in the case the decree granting a divorce for desertion was allowed. He also entered a decree quieting the title to certain property near Avoca in John C. Knabe, he having filed a petition asking for the decree against Minerva Jones et al. The remainder of the morning and afternoon was taken up in the trial of the divorce suit of Elizabeth Cummings vs. Isaac N. Cummings. This case has been on trial since yesterday morning. The divorce case of Alvina Augusta Albin vs. William Albin is set for hearing immediately following the Cummings case.

Considerable Complaint.

Considerable complaint was made this morning by water consumers in the residence section of the city owing to the water being turned off. The cause was stated in a notice which the company inserted in the Journal several days ago, to the effect that the water supply would be limited for several days owing to changing boilers at the pump house. The work is being pushed by Manager F. C. Weber with all possible speed and he hopes to soon have the new boiler in place and fires going when a full supply will be on again. Until that is done the supply in the residence part of the town will be very limited. He advises strongly against wasting water as there is danger if fire breaks out of needing it on hand.

Miss the Morning Train.

A party of Avoca gentlemen this morning drove into town on business, having missed the early morning train for this city. The party comprised Messrs McAndrews, St. John and Roscoe Harshman, who had some legal matters to look after. They are a fine set of gentlemen, all good friends of the Journal, and were welcome callers in the city. They drove back home this afternoon. Conklin pens at Gering's.

FUNERAL OF VICTOR ANDERSON

The Last Sad Rites Attended by a Large Circle of Friends.

The funeral of the late Victor Anderson took place yesterday afternoon at Havelock, Nebraska, where a large number of sorrowing friends of this splendid young man gathered to pay last tribute of respect to one whom they had known to love in his lifetime. There was a great out-pouring of Havelock citizens and many friends from other points were present, including a number from this city. The Burlington shops were closed for the occasion and the fellow workmen of the deceased, were present almost to a man from the superintendent down.

The members of the Knights of Pythias and the Eagles were also present in large numbers. The floral offerings from friends far and near were profuse in number and very handsome in design, the Aerie of Eagles of this city and the brass foundry employes manifesting their sorrow at the loss of their brother and friend in handsome floral tokens.

There was a long cortege of friends in carriages following the remains to their final resting place in the cemetery at that place.

Throughout this section wherever Victor Anderson was known, there is the deepest sympathy with the bereaved brothers and sister to whom he was all that a true and noble brother could be.

Card of Thanks.
For the many kindnesses shown our beloved brother, Victor Anderson during his illness and death, we desire to express our sincere thanks. Particularly do we wish to thank the members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and the fellow workmen of deceased in the Burlington brass foundry in Plattsmouth, Neb., as well as the many good friends he had in that city, for their generous assistance and their beautiful floral remembrances and to assure them of our sincere appreciation of their condolences.

A Birthday Party.

Miss Edna Morrison entertained a few of her most intimate friends at her home on West Main street last evening in honor of her birthday anniversary.

The principal amusement was derived from various games and amusements which occasioned considerable merriment.

"Big Liz" Takes a Tumble.

"Big Liz," the big switcher which does night service in the Burlington yards and on the hill, this morning was run up to the shops after the night's work was over and run upon the old fashioned turntable at the back shops. The engine was too heavy for the table which is mounted on a pivot tapering to the ends of the table and when the weight of the engine was upon them the ends gave way. The engine, No. 3001, is one of the heaviest in the company service and was not built for the lighter tables. A force of men with tools was busy this morning getting "Liz" off her perilous perch.

Painful Injury.

E. O. Hedwall, one of the men employed in the work on the Platte river bridge, yesterday afternoon had the misfortune to catch the first finger of his left hand in a pump he was operating, very badly squeezing it. He was brought to this city where the services of a surgeon was had and an examination made of the injured member. It was found to be badly bruised but no bones were broken and the injured member was dressed. It will lay the gentleman off his work for several days, however, as it was quite a painful injury.

Dropped Dead.

A special from Weeping Water says that early yesterday (Monday) morning Silas Girard dropped dead. The deceased had been ill but a few days and was not thought to be in a dangerous condition. Mr. Girard was about fifty-five years of age, and leaves a wife and three children, one son and two daughters.

A Little Excitement.
A chimney burning out in the Waterman block this morning caused considerable excitement owing to the immense volume of smoke which poured out of it, the smoke settling to the ground in Main street and obscuring vision for several minutes. For a little while it looked as if a conflagration was about to break out but eventually the fire burned out and no damage resulted.

ADDITIONAL PARTICULARS

Dr. Rickard's Funeral Will Occur Wednesday Afternoon.

The last advices from Weeping Water, where Dr. E. T. Rickard was killed yesterday morning in an automobile accident, fail to throw any additional light on the disaster. As was stated in the Journal, there was no one with the unfortunate man when the accident happened and all that could be gleaned in regard to it was that the ground in the vicinity showed. According to the evidence as shown by the ground, Dr. Rickard had been running his machine at a fair rate of speed and one wheel had gotten into a rut in the road. Apparently, he had tried to turn the machine out but was unable to do so, until a stone was struck which caused the machine to turn over. It rolled over one and a half times, pinning the doctor underneath. He was almost instantly killed it is believed, as there was no evidence of a struggle.

The funeral will be held tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon at 2:30 from the Methodist church in Weeping Water, and doubtless a number of friends and acquaintances from this city will be in attendance.

The deceased was a member of the Modern Woodmen, Woodmen of the World, Royal Arcanum, Knights of Pythias, Masons, Odd Fellows, the American Brotherhood and the Yeomen.

Thirty Ties in County.

The board of canvassers consisting of Clerk Rosencrans, Commissioner Switzer and James H. Donnelly is in session today drawing lots and deciding the many ties which exist throughout the county for road overseers, justices and constables, as the law requires. There were some thirty ties of this character in the county and the canvassers have quite a job before them. They were in hopes that all the interested parties would be present but in this they were disappointed as many failed to appear.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS THE LAW

The Eight O'clock Closing Law Must Be Enforced.

The daylight saloon law is upheld by the supreme court in an opinion filed in the case of Frank Dinuzzo of Omaha vs. State. Judge W. B. Rose wrote the opinion of the court. It overrules the objections of the plaintiff in error that the daylight saloon law violates the constitutional provision that no bill shall contain more than one subject, that the act failed to amend city charters relating to the control of the liquor traffic and that it is unconstitutional because it imposes a fine of $100 and a forfeiture for violation.

Dinuzzo, an Omaha saloon keeper, was convicted of selling intoxicants after 8 p. m. and his license was revoked by the Omaha fire and police commission. The syllabus is as follows:

1. Chapter 82 of the session laws of 1909, an act declaring by its title a purpose to amend section 14, chapter 50, compiled statutes of 1907, and making it unlawful to sell or give away intoxicating liquors after 8 o'clock p. m., and before 7 o'clock a. m., is germane to the amended statute which prohibited the sale of intoxicating liquor on days of election and on Sundays, and the amendment did not violate the constitutional provision that "no bill shall contain more than one subject and the same shall be clearly expressed in its title."

2. In enacting chapter 82 of the session laws of 1909, an act amending section 14, chapter 50, compiled statutes of 1907, by inserting therein a provision making it unlawful to sell or give away intoxicating liquors on days of election and on Sundays, the legislature did not amend other laws delegating to municipalities the power to regulate the traffic in intoxicating liquors, within the meaning of the constitutional provision that "no law shall be amended unless the new act contains the section or sections so amended and the section or sections so amended shall be repealed."

3. Section 14, chapter 50, compiled statutes, making it unlawful for a licensed saloonkeeper to sell or give away intoxicating liquors after 8 o'clock p. m., and before 7 o'clock a. m. is not invalidated by reason of a provision therein which authorizes a fine of $100 and a forfeiture of the license upon conviction of the licensee for violating the law.

The court holds that the power to license, regulate or prohibit traffic in intoxicating liquors, as delegated to cities by section 25, chapter 50, compiled statutes, and by other enactments, is subject to the limitations and restrictions imposed by general law. That this was the intention of the legislature appears on the face of the statute containing the grant.

H. D. TRAVIS, Judge.

In District Court.

Judge Travis has been keeping the equity side of the court busy during the few days it has been in session and in addition to the business transacted heretofore, he yesterday decided the Cummings divorce case in favor of the plaintiff, Elizabeth Cummings, awarding her a decree of divorce but with no alimony. In this case he ruled that each side should pay one-half the costs and that each side pay its own witness fees and mileage.

In the divorce case of Albin vs. Albin, Judge Travis granted the plaintiff, Alvina Augusta Albin a decree of divorce from William Albin, the defendant, but with no alimony and ruled that each pay their own costs. An entry was also made by which the defendant is to pay D. O. Dwyer guardian ad litem, $35 as fees.

The ladies employed in the county court house will be entertained this evening at the home of Miss Mia Gering by Miss Gering, Miss Foster and Miss Beeson, they having been fortunate enough to be in the offices which were re-elected at the last election and desiring to show their good feeling over it in that manner. The affair promises to be a delightful one.
