A Complete Surprise.

After the chicken pie supper last Saturday night, the band accompanied by about twenty-five others, repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Friedrich, a mile southeast of town, and gave them a complete surprise. Mr. and Mrs. Friedrich were soft in the "Land of Morpheus," when the band opened up, and soon there was a stir in the house. When everything was in readiness for the reception of the midnight marauders, the doors were flung open and all were invited inside. It was a most complete surprise and after spending a short time very socially, the band and party returned to town. Mr. and Mrs. Friedrich were somewhat embarrassed because they were not prepared for the reception of the party as they would like to have been, and on taking leave they were extended a very cordial invitation to come again when they would be better prepared for their reception.

They are the parents of Mr. Harmond Beck, living west of Murray, who is a great friend of the Journal, and who always likes to remind the old people of their anniversaries with a suitable present in honor of the event. This time Harmond presents his father and mother with that great household necessity, the Plattsmouth Journal to the extent of one year's subscription, believing that they will appreciate this present as fully as would anything he could give them. The Journal hopes Mr. and Mrs. Beck will live to celebrate many more anniversaries.

FOREST FIRES NEAR MURRAY

Several Residences and Other Property Saved by Heroic Efforts of Neighbors.

Visitors in the city from down in the neighborhood of Murray and Union report that several disastrous fires broke out yesterday while the high winds were blowing and threatened to destroy a great amount of property before they were gotten under control. The extent of the fires can be judged when it is stated that many farmers for miles around were summoned to help fight the flames which, fanned by a high wind threatened to sweep a vast stretch of country. One fire, which is supposed to have been started by sparks from an engine on the M. P. spread out over a small strip of country south of Murray but was gotten under control without a great deal of damage.

Another fire was started near the Midkiff place and swept over quite a section of land before the flames were gotten under control. This fire threatened to spread into some woods in that vicinity and develop into a regular forest fire but by dint of hard work on the part of the farmers from adjoining property it was put out and the adjacent property saved.

The most serious fire was that which started early yesterday morning some five to six miles southeast of Murray. According to Frank Little who came up this morning from his home near that neighborhood a tract somewhere between one hundred and two hundred and sixty acres of land on the old Woolsey place was burned over and Frank Valley who lives on the place suffered quite a loss in burned timber and fence posts, the fire sweeping his fences before it. The general supposition seems to be that this fire was ignited from some sparks left smoldering from a brush fire which Mr. Houston had been burning the night before. G. W. Shrader noticed the fire in the early morning and was worried over the smoke and the size of it but it was not until the flames had gotten into the woods on the Woolsey place that the seriousness of the situation dawned on the neighboring farmers. Many were at the Kandall sale and these hurried to fight the fire while many others came down from the north and east and assisted in the fight. At the time the men showed up the flames were within a few feet of Mr. Valley's houses and his barns and but for this timely assistance of the neighbors, his property would have been lost. By back-firing, the flames were confined to a narrow space. As it was the loss in burned over forest and destroyed fences will be quite heavy. Mr. Valley was deeply grateful to his good neighbors for their timely assistance.

Reports from various points in the state tell of great fires at different places and much loss of property, the trouble being that the high wind fanned the flames and carried the fire over much country.

Commenced Action.

In district court Earl R. Blish has commenced an action against the C. B. & Q. Ry. and the Relief Department of that road for $2,000 damages for the loss of his foot which was taken off in the collision here last July and for which he recently recovered a judgment against the company of $10,000. The petition alleges this amount due him under the terms of his membership in the relief department.

In county court today two matters were set for hearing. In the matter of the estate of Frank G. Brown, deceased, the accounts of the administrator, H. N. Meeker of Greenwood, were examined and allowed and he and his bondsmen released from the liability on his bond. In the matter of the estate of B. J. Hudson the hearing on the appointment of an administrator was postponed.

Loss of Weight.

A constant loss of weight is always a symptom of a serious sickness. The loss of weight is always followed by loss of strength and many other difficulties. The only way to regain your health, is to excite a vigorous appetite and a perfect digestion of food. In this respect we can heartily recommend you Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine as a remedy you can depend upon. It will not only force the organs of digestion to resume their normal work, but will also give them enough strength to do so without exertion. Begin with the treatment soon in order to prevent the sickness to reach a point where it will resist all treatment. When your complexion becomes pale or yellowish, when your weight and strength decline, your appetite is poor, the digestion is imperfect and you get easily tired, then there is time to use Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine. At drug stores. Jos. Triner, 1333-1339 So. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.
