Good Roads Meeting.

The road meeting Saturday night was very successful. A large gathering of farmers and business men met at the Loughridge hall where a general discussion of good roads was entered into. There is a united feeling for road improvements. There is unquestionably a need of better roads. Uncle Ben Beckman, our road overseer, was present and gave an outline of what he considered the best means of getting the roads up in shape. Dr. Walker gave a resume of the Nehawka Commercial club organization and its support of good roads. What will the county commissioners do to aid the citizens of these two precincts? This question was thoroughly discussed, and a committee appointed to interview these officials, and make arrangements to have them present at the next meeting, when the date of the next meeting has been determined. Notice of which will appear in the Journal.

An Easy Prey.

As soon as any organ of our body becomes weak, it is an easy prey of various diseases, especially those caused by micro-organisms. The only way to prevent such a disease or to check its progress is to force the weakened organ to accept and thoroughly digest the necessary amount of food. The body will then become strong enough to uphold its health. The best remedy for creating and keeping a healthy and vigorous appetite and for perfect digestion is Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine. It is a palatable stimulant, stomachic, tonic and invigorating. Even the most delicate stomach, which rejects everything, will accept this remedy and get strong again. It is advisable to use it in all stomach troubles, in flatulence, constipation, nervousness, attacks of rheumatism, frequent headache, anemia and in diseases of the blood. At drug stores. Jos. Triner, 1333-1339 So Ashland ave., Chicago, Ill.

A FRACAS NEAR THE RILEY HOTEL

Officers Stand By and See the Fight Proceed Without Interference

John Jones last night became involved in a difficulty near the Hotel Riley with a young man named Harvey who is employed by one of the telephone companies in the city with the result that John landed upon Harvey it force and vigor of a manly fist. The exact origin of the trouble is unknown but it is said to have been regarding some young women who had been looking at the pictures at the Majestic with Harvey. Jones also parted loose from some strong, vigorous profanity and uproarious language during the said process of altering Harvey's features all of which tended to perturb and irritate the guests of Mine Host Dunbar of the Riley. During the melee Officer Trout and Watchman Young are claimed to have been spectators and to have declined to interfere with the festive Jones and his pugilistic activities. Later they informed Chief Rainey of what had taken place and he went over to one of the livery barns where Jones is employed, and where he had retired after the battl and got him. According to th chief he informed Jones that there was one man on the force who was not afraid of his pugilistic tendencies and he so demonstrated. Jones spent the remainder of the night in jail and this morning faced his honor, Judge M. Archer.

Judge Archer inquired into the circumstances of the skirmish and Jones frankly admitted that he was responsible for the blow which landed upon Harvey, whereup the court judicially decided that such conduct was malefactorism in its most dread form and deserves to be severely punished. He therefore administered some of his celebrated brand of justice, and mulcted Jones to the tune of five bones and four bones costs or a total of nine bones or six suns in the bastile. All of which is some punishment.

Effects of a Rusty Nail.

Michael Hild, the furniture man, is going about with his right hand tied up today, merely as a precaution against poisoning it. He ran a rusty nail into it last Saturday, the point of the nail, however, just breaking the skin. He paid no attention to the matter and a day or so ago started to do some work about his lawn. In doing this some dirt or foreign substance penetrated the wound and it commenced to swell up from the infection. He took time by the forelock and used something on the injury to draw out the inflammation with the result that the hand is nearly well today. He does not expect any further trouble with it in the future.
