Mrs. Countryman has so far advanced for the better that her friends now hope and feel justified in predicting that she will recover. Mrs. Countryman has been an incessant sufferer for many weeks, and her ultimate recovery will be hailed with much joy.

Death of Oliver Dinwiddie.

In the death of Oliver Dinwiddie the community loses one of its best citizens. He was a hard-working man, and had the confidence and respect of all who knew him. The deceased has resided in this vicinity for many years, and his character was one of which anyone would be proud of. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and was a steadfast believer in teachings of the bible. He was a constant attendant at Sunday school and services generally, and the people of the community looked upon him as a true christian gentleman, and with that honesty which truly characterizes the nobleness of man. Those who knew him best, were his truest friends. The citizens of Murray and vicinity were pained to learn of his death, although his demise was no surprise, as he had been very ill for several days.

Handsomely Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gopen entertained the Reading Class and their friends at a "Star" party Saturday evening. One might call it a review on the "Friendly Stars," a book studied in class during the winter. Much interest was manifested in locating the constellation and the first magnitude stars. The location of Mr. and Mrs. Gopen's home is so high that the view is beautiful. Mrs. Gopen assisted by her daughter Villa and Miss Isabella Young, served a delicious supper during the evening. Those who were so pleasantly entertained were: Mr. and Mrs. James Loughridge, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Gopen, Misses Margie Walker, Pauline and Fay Oldham, Isabella Young, Messrs. Albert Young and Harve Gregg.

Narrow Escape.

Nicholas Klaurens came very nearly having a serious accident Wednesday afternoon, when his team became frightened at Dr. Walker's automobile and threw him from a big load of empty boxes to the ground. He held on to the lines like grim death, and was dragged across the street before he had them under control. The boxes were strewn all along the route and while on the ground one of the wheels of the wagon ran over one of his legs. When seen by our reporter Mr. Klaurens claimed he was not injured to any extent.

Arm Broken.

While assisting in threshing for James Hill on the Frank Davis farm last Monday, Arthur Tucker had the misfortune to break his right arm between the wrist and elbow. He was working around the belting, when the sleeve of his jacket caught and pulled his arm up and around the pulley in such a manner as to cause the accident. While the fracture is very painful, Mr. Tucker is getting along as well as could be expected. Earn Young's machine was doing the threshing.

Dr. Newell, Dentist.

Lumbago.

This painful form of rheumatism affecting the muscles of the back is, by many prominent physicians, attributed to poor hygiene, especially to improper food and drink. This may be the cause of every rheumatism. Those suffering from this disease occasionally, should keep their digestive organs in full working power, should eat nutritious food and should give prompt attention to the slightest irregularity in their bodily functions. They can always rely on Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine, because it quickly cleans the whole digestive system of waste matter, because it strengthens the nerves and purifies the blood. It should be used in diseases of the stomach, the intestines, the blood and the nerves. Use it as soon as you will notice a decline in your appetite or in your bodily strength. At drug stores. Jos. Triner, 1333-1339 So. Ashland ave., Chicago, Ill.

Oliver E. Dinwiddie Dead.

From Wednesday's Daily.

This morning about 7 o'clock Oliver E. Dinwiddie who has been sick at the Perkins House for some days died. It was two weeks ago that on the advice of his physician, Dr. Brendel, the sick man was brought to Plattsmouth from the Charles Spangler farm which he was tending this season, so that he could have better attention and care.

Mr. Dinwiddie was a bachelor between forty and forty-five years of age and at first had an attack of intermittent fever and because of the fact that he lived alone the doctor advised him to go to a hospital or anywhere he could have care and nursing. He came to Plattsmouth and to the Perkins House because he was well acquainted with the proprietor, John Cory.

The man was not thought to be very sick and having a nurse to wait on him it was thought that he would soon pull through. But later it was found that he was seriously ill, and yesterday a second nurse was called from Omaha, but the skill of the physicians and the careful nursing was unavailing against the inroads of disease.

The deceased has lived in the vicinity of Plattsmouth for the past twenty years. He went to the front with the Third Nebraska in 1898, going to Cuba with his regiment. While in the south he had an attack of malarial fever, since which he has never been as strong as formerly. The deceased leaves a father and sister at Nman, Ia., and a brother at Clarinda, Iowa. His father is a very old and feeble, and it was the wish of the deceased that his father be not apprized of his sickness, as it would be impossible for his sister to come as the care of his father was great.

The deceased was a member of the Masadonia, Ia. Order of I. O. O. F., and was well respected by all who knew him. No arrangements for the funeral had been made at the time of going to press.

A Class Picnic.

The members of Mrs. C. C. Parmele's Sunday school of the Presbyterian church chartered a couple of automobiles today and about 1:45 this afternoon started for Riverview park which is located near Rock Bluffs. Upon their arrival upon the grounds, the boys expect to spend a most enjoyable afternoon boating, swimming and other such amusements which may be had at an outing of this kind. One of the automobiles was driven by Pollock Parmele and the other was the auto express wagon owned by John Bauer and which was in charge of Frank Bestor. The boys were well armed with baskets filled with many good things to eat and which will materially aid in the good time. They were chaperoned by Mrs. Parmele.

Takes Body to Newburn, Ia.

George Dinwiddie of Clarinda, Ia., arrived this morning and accompanied the remains of his brother Oliver E., to Newburn, Ia., where funeral services are to be held and interment made there by the side of the mother of deceased. Mr. Dinwiddie left on No. 4 with the casket containing the remains of his brother. Newburn is the old home of the deceased where he has an aged father still surviving, also one sister residing there.

Remember the Dance.

Don't forget the dance at Jenkins' hall in Murray Saturday night, August 6, to be given by the Murray Dancing club. Music by Jacob's orchestra of Omaha.

E. G. Lewis, a prominent farmer of near Murray, was a Plattsmouth visitor today, making the Journal force a pleasant call. Mr. Lewis left the wherewithal to gladden the heart of the editor, and in return for which the paper will visit his residence twice a week.

DEATH OF WELL KNOWN CITIZEN

Ben Hart Dies Very Suddenly at the Home of Dr. Gilmore in Murray.

Ben Hart, well known to the people of eastern Cass county, dropped dead at the home of Dr. Gilmore in Murray on Tuesday last, of heart failure. He had a few hours before arrived on the train from the north, for a short visit with his old friends in Murray and vicinity. "Old Ben," as he was familiarly known, while the adversities of life were many along his pathway, his friends were numerous, due to the fact that he was a man of his word.

The deceased was born in Abo, Finland, in 1836. When quite young he was left an orphan, and to escape severe hardships always in store for him, being left to the mercy of the world, he took to the sea, and for five years followed the life of a sailor. While in the West Indies he went through a scourge of yellow fever unharmed, while his mates died in large numbers. During the 60's, while the Union Pacific railroad was in the process of construction, he gave up the life on the sea and enlisted in the regular army of the United States, and was assigned to duty at Laramie, Wyo. Here he encountered some very interesting experiences with the Indians, who were very numerous and hostile in those days. One day, becoming very tired of the monotony of soldier's life, "left" without the permission of his superiors. In taking his departure he became lost in the mountains and for days wandered amid the dangers of Indians and wild animals, and starvation stared him in the face. He secreted himself from raving bands of Indians came close to him in his hiding place, and again, in a clump of bushes, with myriads of shaggy buffalo grazing about, were interesting adventures of the deceased.

The deceased came to Nebraska thirty years ago, and has made his home in Cass county since that time. Those who know him have nothing but the kindest words for him. His funeral occurred Wednesday afternoon at Plattsmouth, and all that remained of poor old Ben Hart was consigned to the grave in Oak Hill cemetery. Peace to his ashes.

Injured at Shops.

William Cross, an employe of the Burlington working in the boiler shop, received an injury in his left eye a day or two ago which was quite painful and is causing him to lay off a few days. He was corking stay bolts when a piece of steel flew off and struck his eye. Mr. Cross immediately attempted to remove the steel himself, but failed to get all of it out, and the company surgeon completed the operation. Mr. Cross says he has frequently had the same thing happen to him and has drawn the steel with a magnet. The operation is very painful but is over very quickly.

Mrs. Farmer.

Watch for the ice cream auto. Every day. Pint 20c, quart 35c, and fruits and cigars. Delivered at your door. J. E. Mason.

H. R. Smith of Murdock came in on No. 4 this morning and called on the boys in the court house. Mr. Smith admitted that at certain seasons of the year he looks like a Democrat.

Telephone Trade

Most business houses solicit telephone trade. They realize its importance. It is the consumer's most convenient way of reaching the shop or the store; it is the storekeepers way of making his purchases from the farm and factory.

The Local and Long Distance Bell Telephone reaches the sources of supply and demand and brings together widely separated merchants and customers.

Our extension residence and office telephone saves time, temper and shoe leather.

By the way, have you a Bell Telephone?
