BERT TAYLOR MUST PAY DEATH PENALTY

Minden Murderer Denied New Trial by Supreme Court.

Lincoln, Oct. 8.—Bert M. Taylor, the Minden murderer, must hang at the state penitentiary on the afternoon of Oct. 28, unless Governor Shallenberger interposes clemency. The supreme court disposed of Taylor's case. It overruled his motion for a rehearing. Nothing except executive clemency can save the prisoner from the gallows. It is said Governor Shallenberger will refuse to interfere with the death sentence unless some good cause can be shown.

Taylor killed Pearl Taylor, a young woman who was the sister of his dead wife. Ica Taylor, a sister of Pearl, who was only thirteen years of age, escaped from the burning building, where the crime was committed, and gave the alarm. Taylor committed a criminal assault and then set fire to the house. He was living in the same house with the girls, both of whom were attending school. After months of wandering Taylor gave himself up to officers in California and was tried and convicted in Minden, June 3, 1909. The supreme court affirmed the death sentence and then Taylor moved for a rehearing. This is now denied.

With her in the room when the tragedy occurred was Homer Wooster, a special police officer of Albia. The girl left a letter to her mother setting forth her intention to kill herself. She said she was in love with another man, with whom she had lived as his wife six months, until he was taken away by another woman. "I could die easier," she wrote, "than see him live with Maude." Wooster had been seen in company with the girl frequently, coming from Albia, where he has a wife and child. Both families are well connected. Wooster has been prominent in politics in Monroe county. He is now under arrest, being held pending an investigation by County Attorney Patterson. Wooster and the girl registered at the hotel as Harry Fisher and wife of Hocking.

MAKE WAR ON PICNIC DANCE

Row Threatens to Break Up Big Annual Event at Jewell.

Webster City, Ia., Oct. 8.—The town of Jewell is in the throes of a dance controversy which bids fair to successfully rival the famous dance row at Ellsworth last winter. In the latter town the trouble arose between the dance hall proprietors and the churches. In Jewell the trouble has sprung up over the manner in which the annual farmers' picnic is conducted. It has been customary in years gone by to close the picnic with a dance. This custom was followed this year and has been the means of raising a pretty row.

Jewell church people have risen in arms. They threaten to withdraw their support from the picnic another year if the dance is not stopped. The situation between the picnic promoters and the church people has become so tense that it bids fair to break up next year's picnic unless it is satisfactorily adjusted. The matter is now at the height of discussion.
