

SIXTH CAVALRY COMES BACK

Ten Troops Return to Des Moines
From Fort Harrison.

FOR CURRENCY REFORM LAWS.

Arthur Reynolds of Des Moines National Bank Expresses Himself Following the Meeting of the Bankers' Association—Board of Curators Requests Larger Appropriation.

Des Moines, Oct. 15.—After more than a month's absence, ten troops of the Sixth United States cavalry, consisting of nearly 800 men, arrived at Fort Des Moines from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. Commanded by Colonel Alexander Rogers, the troops left Des Moines on Aug. 27 to take part in the maneuvers held at Fort Benjamin Harrison. Two of the troops were left at Fort Des Moines in command of Captain Bryan.

That conditions are now ripe for the enactment of some kind of currency reform legislation by congress is the belief of Arthur Reynolds, president of the Des Moines National bank, who returned from Los Angeles, where he was elected treasurer of the American Bankers' association. Questions concerning currency reform were discussed at length by bankers attending the convention. The federal legislative committee of the association, of which he is a member, was continued and given the power to secure the enactment by congress of currency reforms advocated by the association.

Think "Countess" is Located.

Des Moines police believe that they have succeeded in locating "Countess" Vilgo Lerona von Holstein Rathlow and her husband, who separated a number of gullible Des Moines women out of several thousand dollars by a massage parlor partnership graft during a three weeks' stay in Des Moines. It is likely that their arrest will be effected shortly.

A sixth victim of the massage parlor game reported to Colonel Johnson. He believes that there are a large number of victims in the city who are silent about the matter, because of fear of ridicule. The names of witnesses will be turned over to the grand jury next week and the operations of the parlor will be investigated. They are said to have worked similar games in a score of cities in the United States.

Criticism of Barney.

Secretary G. H. Sumner of the state board of health sharply criticizes W. B. Barney, state food and dairy commissioner, for the stand the latter has taken against the claim of physicians that the milk of all cows that respond to the tuberculin test should not be used. Dr. Sumner asserts that this stand is contrary, not only to all the findings of scientific investigations carried on for years by the government, but it is also a mistake for Commissioner Barney to utter such statements as a state official, thereby trifling another state department that is exerting every power to check the disease in the state.

Historical Society Wants Funds.

The report of the board of curators of the Historical Society of Iowa, which has been placed in the hands of Governor Carroll, contains a recommendation to the legislature that $5,000 be added to the annual support of the society. This increase is asked on account of the growth of the organization and the extensive scientific historical research carried on under the direction of the society.
