RED MEN MEET IN GREAT COUNCIL AT THE PARMELE THEATER

Class of 400 Adopted at Session Last Night—Banquet to be Given Tonight at Perkins House, Followed by Grand Ball.

The annual convention of the Great Council of Nebraska of the Improved Order of Red Men started out under auspicious circumstances last evening, and the class adoption at the Parmele last evening was a notable gathering, representatives from all of the principal cities of the state were present and participated in the event. The special train from Omaha over the Burlington, which arrived at the station about 8:30, brought in something like three hundred enthusiastic members of the order. The trains arriving through the day had brought in hundreds of others.

The South Omaha lodge brought with them their cornet band, which led the procession up Main street to the opera house, the procession, with men four abreast, extended for three blocks up the street, and as they marched through the brilliantly lighted streets to the strains of stirring music from the band, the scene was an inspiring one. After the band at the head of the procession were the grand officers, Great Sachem J. H. Grosvenor, of Aurora; Great Chief S. J. Dennis, of Lincoln, and Great Keeper of Wampum D. W. McLane, of South Omaha. After these the drill teams from Omaha, South Omaha and Aurora, followed by a large number of palefaces, candidates for adoption, and after these the warriors, chiefs and braves in large numbers. A more imposing procession has never been witnessed on the streets of this city.

The unusual ceremonies connected with the class of adoption were held in the Parmele theatre last evening, and fully 400 candidates were present to receive admittance into this noble order, and there were fully 400 delegates to the State Council and visiting brothers in attendance. The whole number aggregating fully 800, including those seated in the theatre and the three degree teams and the visitors upon the stage. Mayor Sattler was introduced by Brother John Cory, and in a short address Mr. Sattler turned the city over to the Red Men. He stated that upon such an occasion as this the keys to the city had been virtually thrown away, and the city was with them during their visit with us. He further stated that they would find Plattsmouth well filled with kind, good-hearted and generous people, and if the visitors would not take his word for this fact, they were at liberty to seek further information along this line from the 150 "Owls" that were at present hovering within our limits. The mayor extended them a most hearty welcome and trusted that their visit in Plattsmouth might prove a pleasant one to the delegates and a harmonious meeting of the grand lodge today.

At this time the curtain was raised and the South Omaha degree team were ready for the first, or adoption degree, with the candidate in the person of Roy Flanagan, of Union, in readiness and eager to learn the mysteries of true Red Menship. The South Omaha team have been in Plattsmouth before, in fact they were active and their team put on the work at the time the Plattsmouth tribe was organized. Last night they were even better than ever, and the work was certainly handled in a very creditable manner.

At the close of the adoption degree, Past Great Icohonee Bird, of the Great Council of the United States, was introduced, and he delivered a brief but very impressive talk on the work of the order, the object of its organization and the valuable service it was rendering throughout the land, as well as the great work in store for it in the future. Mr. Bird is indeed a fine orator, and the only regret expressed by the many brothers was that he did not say more. He is a power in the order, and the meeting was greatly honored by his attendance. In his remarks he was very complimentary toward the class, as being one of the largest he had ever had the pleasure of addressing.

The stage was now in readiness for the second degree, and the Aurora team were present in all their glory to perform the work, with Ed. Leach, of Union, as the candidate. The Warriors' degree is a very impressive one, and the Aurora team were up to the average in the handling of the work. Immediately following the Warriors came the Chief's degree, put on by the Omaha Tribe No. 2, and Louie Leiner of Plattsmouth, was the candidate. This gave the class the whole work by three of the best working teams in the state of Nebraska, and each one handled their portion in fine style.

This morning at 10:30 the Grand Council was in session and was addressed by Past Great Icohonee Bird, of Topeka, Kansas, who represented the Great Icohonee, who could not be present.

Mr. Bird is an eloquent talker, his remarks this morning were commendatory of last night's work as well as in criticism of it. He made an extended talk on the good of the order, and dwelt on the orphans' fund and the importance of increasing the same for the benefit of those who should later be entitled to its generous provisions. Committees were appointed at the session this morning, and the election of officers takes place this afternoon. The list of officers and committees we hope to be able to give later.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the great banquet will be given at the Perkins house, and the grand ball will take place at the Coates hall after the banquet.

PERFECT CONFIDENCE

Plattsmouth People Have Good Reason For Complete Reliance.

Do you know how—
To find quick relief from backache,
To correct distressing urinary ills;
To surely cure sick kidneys?
Just one way—your neighbors know—
Have used Doan's Kidney Pills;
Have proved their worth in many tests.

Here's Plattsmouth testimony.
E. M. Buttery, Sixth & Walnut streets, Plattsmouth, Nebraska, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills proved to be a remedy of merit in my case. I often had pains in my hips, so severe that I could hardly work and there was also a lameness across my loins. I had reason to believe that these troubles were caused by disordered kidneys and hearing Doan's Kidney Pills highly spoken of, I made up my mind to try them. I procured a box at Gering & Co's Drug Store and they brought me prompt and effective relief." (Statement given June 19, 1906.)

On December 29, 1908, Mr. Buttery said: "I still have a good word to say for Doan's Kidney Pills. I willingly confirm the statement I gave for publication over two years ago in their favor."

JURY BRINGS IN A VERDICT

Finds Lawrence Stull Guilty of Assault and Battery.

The case of the State against C. Lawrence Stull, charged with assault to do great bodily harm, was on trial yesterday, and good progress was made in the introduction of evidence, the state having completed its case in chief and the defense having all of its case in chief before the jury when the hour of adjournment for the day arrived.

The complaining witness, Mrs. O. P. Monroe, who is a sister of the defendant, gave the state's version of the affair between her and her brother, and in substance stated that she was in the store on Sixth street on the day charged in the information, when her brother came in ostensibly to buy a lantern and started a quarrel by accusing the witness with having stolen a spade from his premises when she was last out to the farm. That defendant cursed her and struck her with his fist, knocking her down, and then kicked her twice or three times, bruising her side, and then left her lying on the floor of the store.

The witness was corroborated in part, by Linda Alford and Lina Murphy, who were on the opposite side of the street, and hearing the row, looked over and saw Stull kick the prostrate woman. Dr. Cook was called for the state and gave the facts about being called to attend Mrs. Monroe at her home, and treated the bruises on her face, but made no examination of her body. In all, ten witnesses were called by the state, most of them being asked but a few questions.

Lawrence was put on the stand in his own behalf and denied flatly that he had struck his sister but one blow, and that, after she had assaulted him, or attempted to, and had scratched his face, cursed him and called him vile names, then he struck her once with his open hand across the mouth and nose. That he only seized his sister in the first place to prevent her from getting a revolver from the show case, which defendant thought she was making a move to do. He stated that he did not kick Mrs. Monroe, and that she stumbled over some curtain poles which were lying in the way, and fell to the floor, and he assisted her to her feet.

Two witnesses were to be called for the defense this morning, being Mrs. Lindsey and Dr. Cook, after which both sides gave their rebuttal testimony.

As the Journal goes to press we learn that the jury has returned a verdict into court finding the defendant guilty of assault and battery, the penalty of which is a jail sentence, or fine, or both.

sick and was unable to go to Washington when congress next convened. Hayward states that he refused to go to Washington while his father was ill, and that a consultation was held regarding the advisability of sending someone to Washington to look after the Hayward interests, the expectation being that M. L. Hayward would recover from the stroke of apoplexy that eventually ended in his death.

Hayward acknowledges his appointment and says that when he got the warrant he cashed it and kept the money. This statement from Hayward is chiefly of interest because of the impression that many people got from his first statement that he intended to say he never held an appointive position. The warrant was for about $1,000.

George Snyder and Joe Tubs, both of near Mynard, drove up from Murray this morning and were looking for some one to take their applications for membership to the "Owls," as they desired to be charter members, regardless of the cost, as they understood this was the last day for getting in. Both gentlemen went to South Omaha to attend the Shallenberger short horn sale, which occurs there today.

Frank Gobelman was called to Omaha this morning on business.

HAYWARD EXPLAINS ABOUT THAT OFFICE

A special from Lincoln under date of October, says that in making an appeal to the voters of the First district before the primaries Will Hayward gave out the impression that he never held an appointive office.

Today he stated that he meant to make plain the statement that he had never held an appointive office "in Washington."

He stated that he was appointed private secretary to his father, the late M. L. Hayward, about the middle of March, the year of Hayward's election to the senate, and that when he received a warrant for his services it covered the period up to the following fifth of December. Hayward said that he has worked as private secretary in Nebraska City only, never having gone to Washington. He asserted that his father made only a short visit to Washington immediately after his election, and that on his return, or shortly after, he was taken
