CONSTITUTION FOR MONACO.

Monte Carlo Citizens No Longer Live In Absolute Monarchy.

The principality of Monaco, for centuries under the rule of an absolute monarch, now has a constitution. Heretofore the Prince of Monaco has been supreme so far as his little strip of territory is concerned. His principality, which is only two and a quarter miles long and varying in width from 165 to 1,100 yards, is principally noted because Monte Carlo is its capital.

Every one knows about Monte Carlo and the gambling that goes on there. The Prince of Monaco is the proprietor of the gambling house, and he derives his income from the tourists who try, usually vainly, to "break the bank." There are less than 10,000 inhabitants of Monaco, though the visitors at Monte Carlo are so numerous that there are usually 20,000 persons there.

The Prince of Monaco succeeded to the title in 1889. He is devoted to scientific pursuits and has given much study to oceanography. Last March the demand was made for a constitution, and the prince granted the demand. The constitution as promulgated did not suit the people, and there was a threat of a revolution. Prince Albert Honore Charles again yielded, and a constitution was promulgated that was satisfactory.

QUEEN HAS YOUTH SECRET.

Carmen Sylva Recently Posed as Venus in Living Pictures.

The queen of Rumania, though approaching her seventieth year, is still youthful in looks and spirit. She recently posed as "Venus" in a living picture performance at her palace in Bucharest, and this has led her loving subjects to declare that she has in some way learned the secret of perpetual youth or has discovered the elixir of life.

CARMEN SYLVA.

The queen is indeed a remarkable woman. Under the pen name of Carmen Sylva she has written books, plays and poems and has made a reputation that would have brought her fame had she been of other than noble birth. While on a recent visit to a girls' school one of the pupils asked, "Your majesty, why are you called Carmen Sylva?"

"When I was a little girl like you I loved to stroll in the woods," answered the queen. "My great desire then was to be able to sing to the birds. Later on I thought much of these solitary walks, and as Sylva means forest and Carmen song, I took the name of Carmen Sylva as a memory of my youth and because it is such a pretty name."

day buried a green stick, believing that its disinterment would mark the advent of God's kingdom.

Tolstoy did not die at home, but at Astapova. When his body was taken back to his home for burial the train was met at each station by throngs of people anxious to do honor to the dead scholar.

TO LOOK INTO FRAUD CHARGES

House Committee Appointed to Investigate Omaha Allegations.

SENATE DISCUSSES MATTER.

Effort to Pass Bartos' Resolution Fails—Auditor Barton Turns Down Action of Senate to Raise Pay of Employees.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 28.—An effort to force the governor to substantiate his assertions in regard to the alleged frauds in Omaha elections was made by Senator Bartos of Saline county, but his resolution was lost by a vote of 8 to 12. Senator Brown spoke against hasty action of any kind and counseled moderation. The other business transacted was the introduction of a number of new bills, among which were four originating from the insurance department of the state designed to give the state auditor power to control the formation of new companies and to give that official greater powers of inspection.

The generosity of Senator Bartos to all employees of the senate was sadly dampened when a message was received from State Auditor Barton stating that he could not constitutionally accept a senate resolution as a basis for raising salaries. Bartos moved to refer the matter to a special committee and was appointed chairman. Albert and Cox of Hamilton were appointed to help him confer with the auditor.

House Committee Appointed.

The speaker of the house appointed as a committee to investigate the governor's charges on behalf of the house; Harrington, Sagl, Matrau, Prince and Cronin. The last two are Republicans.

A motion by Evans of Adams to authorize the committee to proceed immediately with a full and complete examination of all the facts in the case passed without dissent.

JOHNSON COUNTY GETS MONEY

Bondsman for Defunct Bank Makes Payment on Account.

Tecumseh, Neb., Jan. 28.—Franklin A. Taylor of this county has just made the first payment to the county of Johnson upon the judgment secured against him in the matter of the county's loss in the failed Chamberlain banking house of this city. When the bank failed the county had a deposit there amounting to $6,708.80. Proceedings were brought against the bondsman to the county, and it developed that Mr. Taylor was the only one worth the amount. A judgment was secured in the district court, and later in the supreme court. In some way the county got a settlement with Mr. Taylor by taking a mortgage upon his 120 acre farm. Mr. Taylor now comes into the office of the county treasurer and pays the first $1,000 on the amount, which, including interest and costs, is about $8,000.

Miss Hyatt is an employee of a local dry goods store.

The purchasers in the market at present are Oklahoma interests.

Frank Kuncl, who has been with J. V. Kaspar since the latter has conducted the new bakery in this place, has resigned his position, and will shortly depart for Scribner, where he will be associated with his brother, V. T. Kuncl, who formerly conducted the business and who has recently embarked in business at Scribner. Frank has many friends in Plattsmouth who will wish him the best of fortune in his new home, but would much rather see him remain in the city.

As yet no one has been selected for the position which Mr. Kuncl has occupied, though a young man has been tendered the place temporarily.

Buys Useful Farm Implement.

Luke Wiles, the Plattsmouth precinct enterprising cattle breeder and agriculturalist, yesterday afternoon prevailed on August Gorder to sell him one of those patent manure spreaders, an implement every well regulated farm can ill afford to be without. The device saves a lot of hard work for the farmer, as well as the wages of a man or two to do the work the machine will do.

High School Notes.

Superintendent N. C. Abbott went to Glenwood last evening to act as judge in the high school declamatory contest at that place.

All the pupils of the grades received their cards for the second quarter this week, and for the first semester, the second semester commencing last Monday. The grades for the second quarter are generally satisfactory.

The superintendent has visited every school room once a week and some of them twice, except the small school near the cemetery, which gives Superintendent Abbott plenty of exercise, as well as an opportunity to see how the pupils are advancing.

Superintendent Abbott spent Saturday in Omaha, going direct from Glenwood to the metropolis.

Must Come To Time.

Judge Travis has disposed of a number of cases and shaped things around so there is a possibility of greatly shortening this term of court. The judge a few days since very emphatically informed the attorneys they must get busy and not delay litigation in his court or something was liable to happen to a number of their cases. This seemed to awaken the attorneys to the fact they were loafing on the court and trying to procrastinate. The result is that the petit jury instead of being called next Monday has been excused until February 6th and then they may not have a large amount of labor when they do get together.—Nebraska City News.

Changes in Fish Laws.

Hon. C. E. Metzger, of Cass, has been made chairman of the fish and game committee. The Courier believes that Mr. Metzger will favor some changes for the better in the fish laws. The law should be so amended as to permit taking fish from the Platte river with net or sein for family consumption, but not for market. The Courier is pleased to learn that Mr. Metzger has been made chairman of this committee and believes him to be the right man in the right place.—Louisville Courier.

Mrs. C. E. Dasher and daughter Eva, of Oread, were in the city today doing the week-end shopping.
