Last Friday the Eagle school house had another narrow escape from destruction by fire. This is the third time during the school year that this has occurred. It was caused by the furnace not being properly installed. A furnace man from Lincoln was called and Monday made the necessary changes and it is hoped that there will be no more fire alarms.

Mrs. Sarah P. Crosler passed away Saturday, February 10th, after an illness of several weeks. Sometime ago she fell and fractured her thigh and has been very weak since and when pneumonia set in was unable to withstand it. Her home was in Michigan, but she has been making long visits with her sister, Mrs. J. D. Sumner. Soon after the accident, her son, Bert Crosler, of Jackson, Michigan, was sent for and remained with her until the end. He started Sunday with the remains for her old home. Mrs. Sumner also returned with him.

BRIDGE CONTRACT LET TO GLENN E. SMITH FOR 1911

The Nebraska Construction Company, of Lincoln, was awarded the contract for the construction of bridges in Cass county today when the bids for the work was canvassed. The Western Contract and Supply Company, of Omaha, was the next lowest bid, but when all incidentals were figured the Nebraska Construction company was $140 lower on each bridge than any of the other bidders. A notable difference was seen on steel piling, the bid of the Western Contract and Supply company per foot on steel piling per foot for 7-inch piles was $1.85 per foot, and on 8-inch piles, $2.40 per foot; while on the same items the bid of the Nebraska Construction company was 95 cents per foot on 7-inch piles and $1.25 per foot on 8-inch piles. The difference being nearly one-half lower for the Lincoln company. The representative of the Lincoln company remarked that the price of steel this year was cut very much from what it was last year, and he had made his bid accordingly.

WEEPING WATER EDITOR IN CITY

Brother Olive Visits County Seat and Tells What He Saw Here

(Weeping Water Republican.)

It is said that if you want the news you should go visiting. Last Tuesday the writer went to Plattsmouth, and while there heard that a transfer was being made of the old Reed quarry and that it was going to be opened up again. Also the Commercial Land Co. would clean up this season down below and then everything would be moved to the Sperry place west of town, where there is a vast amount of rock awaiting the dynamite to jar it loose. We inspected the court house and concluded that there was a pretty fine lot of boys therein.

The man who is to conduct the gasoline engine factory came in Tuesday with two carloads of machinery, and Plattsmouth people expect this new industry to add materially to the city's welfare.

The new postoffice building is under way and Postmaster Schneider showed us plans of the new building. It is going to be very fine with every convenience, and makes a third class postmaster feel like he was small potatoes. It even includes a bath tub and shower bath.

Sheriff Quinton said he had four prisoners in the county jail, but he did not have one commendable word to say for the old structure. He don't mind being sheriff but he would rather have a better jail to keep his prisoners in.

Thos. Pollock said he was glad to see us, which may or may not be true, we hope it is. He said they had their telephone meeting Monday night, but on account of the injunction suit not being settled the meeting was postponed six weeks in hopes that he court would render a decision. We rather think that the holders of a big majority of stock would much prefer that the sale was sanctioned, and a few stockholders are mighty sore, but some times a man has to take his medicine.

County Commissioner Friedrich was on hand for a meeting of the board, but reported Commissioners Switzer and Jordan on the sick list, the former in an Omaha hospital.

GEO. W. SNYDER LOSES A VERY VALUABLE HORSE

George Snyder, who resides two miles west of Mynard, lost a valuable horse which died this morning. The animal had been sick since last Saturday, when it was attacked by a mysterious ailment while hitched with another horse to a buggy. Mr. Snyder and Wash Beverage were driving the team to Plattsmouth at the time and had gone but a few miles when the horse took sick and lay down in the harness. Dr. Greeder, the Plattsmouth veterinarian, was summoned and pronounced the disease "Azoturia," which affects the back or kidneys of the animal. The horse was treated by the veterinary and taken out of the harness and back to the barn, where it lingered until this morning and died. The animal was a valuable roadster, and there seems to be no apparent cause for the disease from which it died. The trouble is of recent origin, at least it has not been frequent until the last five years.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY NEXT TUESDAY

In Honor of St. Valentine Who Was Beheaded by the Romans on That Date.

Valentine's Day, February 14th, in olden time was celebrated by a peculiar fashion, and many people perhaps do not understand the real origin of the day, other than for simply selecting some enemy or person whom jealousy might attract and find great delight in sending them one of those really vulgar valentines. According to an old belief prevalent many, many years ago, it was the mating season of the little birds, called St. Valentine's Day in honor of Valentine, who was beheaded by the Romans on that date, February 14th. From this grew the peculiar custom of maids and bachelors assembling together on the eve of St. Valentine, and inscribe upon little billets the names of an equal number of maids and bachelors of their acquaintance, throw the whole in a receptacle of some sort, and then draw them as you would an ordinary lottery, care being taken of course that each should draw one of the opposite sex. The person thus drawn became one's valentine. Out of this grew the one still in vogue, but for many years was greatly abused by the numerous degraded and vulgar so-called comic valentines, but for the past few years has taken a great change. Today St. Valentine's Day is being observed in an entirely different manner. The day is being returned to the olden custom of sending through the mails or otherwise presenting tokens of love and friendship on St. Valentine's Day. It has truly grown in vast proportions from the vulgar comic valentine to one of great beauty, inscribing thereon a letter or some expressive token containing sentiments of admiration and affection. They are not simply purchased and mailed anonymously to persons of the opposite sex, as many seem to believe, but the more handsome ones are purchased by the young man for his sweetheart and he takes great delight in presenting the same to her in person. It carries with it a certain amount of sentiment and affection in which the young man places his fair valentine. A sweetheart chosen on St. Valentine's Day should be placed in the same high regard as the one chosen on Christmas day, she should be just as dear to you six weeks later, and if you follow in the custom of olden times as you have done with Christmas times, you will present her with a valentine that will be just as dear to her as the handsome present you bought for her on Christmas and presented with the same amount of affection and admiration. The little folks buy them for their playmates, and the parents buy them for the children. May it continue upon this elevated plane and never retrograde to the vulgar customs of the past many decades.
