

WATCH FARM DEVELOPMENT IN WYOMING

The Board of Army Engineers appointed to apportion the Reclamation Fund to the various projects, has set aside $2,000,000 from the special fund, and $2,185,000 from the regular fund for use in the North Platte Valley project in Wyoming and Nebraska, and $2,000,000 from the regular fund to complete the Shoshone project in the Big Horn Basin, Wyoming, making a total of more than $6,000,000 that will be spent by the Government upon these two projects, in making desirable homes in Wyoming for our citizens.

CAREY ACT PROJECTS

SEVERAL MILLION DOLLARS will be spent by private companies in Wyoming, and many of the projects will be pushed rapidly to completion.

Just think what the expenditure of SEVERAL MILLION DOLLARS for irrigation is going to mean to the State of Wyoming. It means work at good wages for many people, many new opportunities to get valuable farm homes, more new growing towns and business locations.

EFFECTS BURLINGTON EMPLOYEES IN NEBRASKA

According to a special from Washington, printed elsewhere in this issue of the Journal, the constitutionality of the law of Iowa, passed in 1898, enabling an employe of the operating departments of a railroad to sue a railroad for injuries, notwithstanding the fact that he had received injury benefits from a relief department has been upheld by the supreme court of the United States.

The rights of a large number of trainmen, Burlington employes in Nebraska, are affected by the decision of the United States supreme court in the McGuire case from Iowa, in which it is declared that a railroad company cannot set up in bar to recover by an employe for personal injuries the fact that he has received benefits for such injury from the railroad relief association. It has been claimed by the Burlington in suits in court that an acceptance of relief by a member is a release and satisfaction of all claims against the railroad company. The terms of membership signed by each member of the relief organization require the relinquishment of the right to sue the company in case of acceptance of the relief money, or in case of suit the right to the relief insurance is denied him.

The decision of the United States supreme court which sustained the ruling of the supreme court of Iowa is that such a contract entered into by a railroad employe is void and that the employe has a right to double recovery. The court claims that it is a violation of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution, which declares that no state shall deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law. It states as a second violation that no state shall deny to any person the equal protection of the law.

This decision not only involved the validity of the statute of Iowa, prohibiting the right of a corporation to make such a contract, but affects the Nebraska statute as well. The statute of Nebraska has not been tested, but a prominent attorney, commenting on the decision, said that it was not nearly so strong as the Iowa statute.

Notice to Farmers.

County Treasurer F. E. Schlater has received a communication from T. V. Powderly, chief of the division of commerce and labor at Washington, stating that "if there is a scarcity of such labor (farm laborers) in your locality that you supply this office with a list of those whom you think may need such help, upon receipt of such list blank applications will be mailed them in order that they may set forth their wants and give this division an opportunity of supplying them. This is one of the purposes for which this division was established by congress." All farmers needing a hand, or two or three, will kindly inform Mr. Schlater, who will see that your name is forwarded to the department, so that it can supply the farmer with a blank application.

Mrs. Novak Quite Sick.

Mrs. John Rotter received a message from Havelock yesterday notifying her of the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. James Novak. Mrs. Novak formerly resided in the city, but about fourteen years ago with her husband removed to Havelock. The lady has many friends in Plattsmouth, who are sorry to learn of her serious illness.

DOINGS AROUND STATE CAPITAL

A Few Items of Interest From a Legislative Standpoint.

The legislature is now on the last half of the session. Bills may be introduced for seven more days, but after that there will be no further "first readings," and the time of the senate and house will be devoted entirely to passing on pending measures. Thus far there have been ten bills that have passed both houses and gone to the governor for his approval. Thirty-four senate files have been sent to the house, but none have been returned, the bills that have gone to the governor having originated in the house. The senate has indefinitely postponed seventeen of its own bills.

Senator Reagan of Omaha has introduced a bill which has for its object the suspension of the 8 o'clock closing law by a vote of the people in towns having over 5,000 population. In the house Representative Galt of Clay county has introduced a bill for a proposed constitutional amendment for state-wide prohibition. It is hardly probable that either measure will pass, while it is quite possible that both may be indefinitely postponed. Governor Aldrich would be pretty apt to veto the former, even if it should pass.

Legal executions will continue in Nebraska, the house having defeated a bill by an overwhelming majority to abolish capital punishment. Almost an entire day was devoted to a discussion of the measure, however.

Representative Quackenbush's tax-ferrit bill has had hard sledding. It was first reported for indefinite postponement. Later there was a resurrection and it again saw the light of day, but there is a great deal of opposition to the measure. Should the bill become a law, however, there would be more cash listed for taxation in one year as a result of its provisions than in ten years under the system now in vogue.

The joint committee of the house and senate appointed to investigate the alleged Omaha election frauds, returned to Lincoln Friday. Senator Albert, chairman of the senate end of the committee, was called to Iowa because of the serious illness of his mother, however, so that it is hardly probable a report will be submitted before the latter part of the week.

The senate committee on public lands and buildings made what will probably be its last junket the past week, the members having gone to Nebraska City and Peru to investigate the state institutions located at those places.

It is hard to forecast just what will be the outcome on the initiative and referendum bill, although there is no doubt but what it will go through in some form. Senator Skiles' bill, senate file No. 1, passed the senate last week by a vote of 26 to 0, seven members being absent at the time the vote was taken. The measure is now in the house, but a hard fight is being made on sections of it and it may be returned to the senate in quite a different form from what it was when it went to the house.

Representative S. C. Bassett of Buffalo county, who voted against capital removal, is having a hard time of it. Kearney, the county seat of his county, is a prospective candidate for the future capital, and since he voted against what is regarded as the interests of his own community, the people out there have been flooding him with protesting petitions. On the other hand, the house has expressed its approval of the member from Buffalo through a vote of confidence in his integrity.

A joint committee of the senate and house is at work drafting new road laws.

County officials who have entertained aspirations for increased salaries through favorable changes in the present laws are apt to be disappointed. Already measures to increase the pay of county attorneys and county assessors have been defeated in the house, and bills affecting the salaries of other officers are apt to meet the same fate. The sheriffs of the state had a measure in to suspend the anti-pass law so far as they are concerned, but one vote was all that could be mustered in its favor.

Bills have been introduced in the house and senate providing for changes in the bank guarantee law passed by the last legislature. The law was only recently sustained by the United States supreme court, and any changes that might now be made would probably have the effect of again tying it up for an indefinite period.

There are three apportionment bills pending in the senate, Senator Hoagland having introduced the first one and the others being by Senators Albert and Placek. The indications are there will be a hard fight over this question before it is disposed of.

HUNTING DUCKS IN THE DARK ALONG MISSOURI RIVER

Three of Plattsmouth's most ambitious young nimrods, possibly after seeing a flock of handsome ducks or geese pass over their heads toward the waters of the muddy Missouri, hid themselves away for their trusty shotguns last Friday afternoon, and in the course of a few moments were lying in wait along the cold and gloomy banks of the old river for the arrival of the feathered beauties. The party was composed of Evans Noble, Carl Reese and Willie Stahlman, and here they remained until night came on, never thinking but what their way home was perfectly clear to them, but in passing to the main channel of the river they were compelled to cross a stream of back water with but one place to cross. In their wanderings they had lost sight of this spot and when the darkness came on they were unable to find it. Becoming tired and worn out they gave up to the inevitable and launched themselves for the night, luckily possessing a few matches, kindled a fire and there they remained until about 6 o'clock Saturday morning, arriving home in time for an early breakfast. However, their good mothers, possibly after worrying about them all night, were not compelled to pick and prepare any of their game for breakfast. They returned with their guns and very cold feet and nothing more. We are informed that a certain young lady not a thousand miles from Plattsmouth was very much disappointed over the unfortunate detention of the young men.

GROVER ELLIDGE INJURED NEAR SCHUYLER MONDAY

Grover Ellidge, who has been with Olson's bridge gang near Schuyler for some time, met with an accident yesterday, while at work, which was so serious that he was taken to an Omaha hospital this morning. None of the details of the accident, nor how it occurred, were given in the message to his mother, Mrs. James Higley, last evening.

Mrs. Higley and her son, Hayward Ellidge, departed for Omaha this morning to meet Grover at the hospital. Mrs. Higley was not informed what hospital her son would be taken to, but she expected to be at the station when the train arrives from Schuyler and will go with her son from the station.

Evangelistic Meetings.

The Methodist people of Plattsmouth are planning to begin a series of evangelistic meetings one week from next Sunday, being March 5, and will be conducted by "Farmer Lewis," one of the leading evangelists of this country. Rev. Lewis will be assisted by Mr. Loya Sutherland, a noted soloist and choir leader.

Preparatory prayer meetings are being held each evening of this week at the church.

Ships Car of Stock.

From Monday's Daily.
John Warga of Rock Bluffs brought in 35 head of fine fat porkers today and shipped them to the South Omaha market. There were four head of cattle, which he put in with the hogs. The market being above $6.25 per 100 weight. Mr. Warga brought his shipment in in wagons, his neighbors kindly assisting with teams and gangs.

Special Notice.

There will be a special meeting of the Cass County Farmers' Protective Association at Louisville on Saturday, March 4th, at 1:30 p. m. All persons interested in the association are requested to be present.

J. G. Meisinger, Secretary.

Fred Olenhausen of near Cedar Creek arrived on No. 4 this morning, having been called here on business.

HERE TO GET HIS SALES-MAN OUT OF TROUBLE

From Monday's Daily.
Mr. George Karr of Parsons, Kansas, one of the stockholders of the shirt company for which Mr. R. A. Magerell was soliciting orders when he ran against Chief Rainy and was informed he would have to pay an occupation tax and later thrown in for being drunk, was in the city this morning in consultation with the city attorney. Mr. Karr stated that he was here to get his salesman out of the middle, as the company wanted him to get busy on the road. If he could not sell shirts in Plattsmouth, then he could go elsewhere and find a market for their output. Mr. Karr did not talk in a belligerent or threatening tone at all, but seemed willing to get the matter settled up the best way possible.

After conferring with City Attorney Ramsey, Mr. Karr decided to pay an occupation tax for the two days Mr. Magerell solicited sales in the city, at the rate of $10 per day, and paid the costs of the arrest, $1.95, and the suit against Magerell for violating the occupation ordinance was dismissed.

Mrs. Ash drove up from her home, ten miles south of this city, this morning to look after some business matters, and while here gave the Journal a business call. Mrs. Ash says it is pretty cold driving, and reports the roads very rough since the freeze.

Mr. Theodore Miller and wife of Ord, who have been visiting H. Steinhilber and family for a few days, departed for their home this morning.

LOUISVILLE
Courier.
Chris Roth of Monroe, Wisconsin, visited at the home of his brother-in-law, John Schoeman, over Sunday.

Little Misses Fern and Violet Grassman came up from Plattsmouth and spent Sunday with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wheeler, returning home Monday morning on the Schuyler train.

There need be no further anxiety on the part of the stockholders or patrons of the Platte river wagon bridge, as the river is practically free from ice, the river having broken up so gradually that no gorges were formed.

Alex Brown of Council Bluffs has purchased the Marshall pool hall on lower Main street. Mr. Brown is an ex-railway mail clerk, is a jovial fellow and made friends with all callers at his place of business. He has an advertisement in this issue of the Courier.
