KING GEORGE IS CROWNED

Service is Like All Previous Events for Twelve Hundred Years—Crown Is Placed Upon King's Head by Archbishop of Canterbury.

London, June 23.—King George V., eighth of the house of Hanover, was consecrated to the service of the British empire and in turn received the public homage of his world-wide subjects.

With his consort, Queen Mary, his majesty was crowned in the abbey of Westminster with all the wealth and religious rites and royal ceremonial prescribed by historic custom.

The picture within the gray walled abbey was one of medieval splendor. The coronation services, solemn and imposing, were those handed down from the earlier centuries and the actors in the principal and secondary roles of the great function were garbed in reproductions of the multi-colored, gold embroidered trappings worn by their ancestors. The latter made a wonderfully effective setting around the central figures.

Multitude Sees Pageant.

Outside the usually dull streets had been transformed into a mass of color. The king and queen's progress to the abbey and the return to Buckingham palace was one unbroken ovation. The route was hedged with a vast polyglot host with a background of decorated viewing stands and windows and roofs, all of which were crammed to their capacity.

Hundreds of thousands of spectators shouted themselves hoarse at central points like the Mall and the entrance to the admiralty, where the government stands held a score of thousands. Trafalgar square was so densely packed with humanity that it would not have been difficult to traverse the square walking on the heads of the people. Parliament square and Constitution hill held their countless thousands.

The tumult of thunderous welcome was almost deafening as the king and queen passed on the outward and home journeys, preceded in the first instance and followed on the return by a stately, superb cavalcade of eminent persons, many themselves heirs to thrones, statesmen, diplomats, courtiers, soldiers, sailors and men of all hues, races and creeds from the four quarters of the globe.

Coronation Oath.

The Archbishop of Canterbury administered the coronation oath, saying: "Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the people of this United Kingdom and the dominions thereof according to the statutes in parliament agreed on and the respective laws and customs of the same?"

The king: "I solemnly promise so to do."

The crown placed on King George's head was of solid gold studded with precious stones of inestimable value, including 3,000 diamonds, 300 pearls and hundreds of rubies, emeralds and sapphires. The queen's crown contained the famous Koh-i-Noor diamond, with its legend of bringing good luck.

Over forty members of royal families, 250 rulers of foreign states, 1,450 ears, dukes, lords and ladies, 300 ambassadors and ministers; 1,500 representatives of the army, navy, judiciary, clergy, etc., formed part of the 7,000 guests at Westminster abbey.

America was represented at the coronation by the American ambassador, Whitelaw Reid; the American special envoy, John Hays Hammond; many American wives of English peers, members of the American diplomatic corps and many unofficial Americans, including Charles P. Taft, brother of President Taft.

FIFTEEN MILLION IN SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Secretary Lawrence Makes Report to Convention.

San Francisco, June 23.—There are now 14,946,504 Sunday school pupils in this country, according to the report of General Secretary Marlen Lawrence, read in the International Sunday School convention here. This, said the secretary, means a gain of 1,431,006 pupils since the last convention three years ago. Since the last meeting at Louisville conversions have been made at the rate of over 1,000 a day. Secretary Lawrence thinks the schools are now ready for a "systematic ingathering" and recommends energies toward increasing the enrollment.

Lincoln, June 23.—State Treasurer W. A. George announced that he had appointed O. A. Danielson of Center, Knox county, as deputy state treasurer to succeed E. S. Mickey, who resigned some time ago. Mr. Danielson will assume the duties of the office on July 1.

G. W. HINMAN IS FIRST WITNESS

Chicago Publisher Testifies in Lorimer Investigation.

CLOSE FRIEND OF DEFENDANT.

Proprietor of Inter-Ocean Says There Has Been a "Jackpot" at Every Session of Illinois Legislature for Years. Ex-Governor Yates Testifies.

Washington, June 23.—George W. Hinman, editor and publisher of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, was the first witness at the regular session of the senate committee to investigate the election of Senator Lorimer.

To Attorney Marble's questions Mr. Hinman said he was a close friend of Senator Lorimer, but had received no money to be used in his election.

The witness was questioned at length in regard to the "jackpot" funds of the Illinois legislature. Mr. Hinman said he had never talked with anyone who said he contributed to a "jackpot," operated one or received money from one.

"But I believe there has been a 'jackpot' in every legislature of Illinois since I went there, twelve years ago," he added.

The attorney read editorials from the Inter-Ocean, in which the suggestion was made that prominent persons in Chicago and in Peoria "might be shaken by an investigation into Illinois legislature jackpots."

"To whom did you refer?" Mr. Marble asked.

"The liquor interest."

"Did common report connect any other interests with a jackpot?"

Money interests Against.

"Not that I recall," the witness said, adding that the money interests of Chicago had taken sides against Senator Lorimer.

"Do you mean to say that prominent persons of Chicago, who looked upon themselves as better than Senator Lorimer, did the very things he is criticized for doing?" asked Kern.

"That puts it better than I could express it."

The editor was asked if the packing house interests were opposed to Lorimer.

"I would not say that they were particularly friendly," was the reply.

The witness declined at first to answer if he had borrowed money from either Hines, Tilden or Lorimer, because it was a question concerning his private business.

"Oh, well, I will answer under protest," he said, after thinking it over. "On one occasion I borrowed $4,000 from Mr. Hines."

"When?"

"Within the last eight or ten weeks."

After declaring again that he had never paid or received money to aid in Lorimer's election, Mr. Hinman was excused.

Yates Is Second Witness.

Richard Yates, governor of Illinois from 1901 to 1905, was the next witness.

"Did you ever hear of a jackpot when you were governor?" asked Mr. Healy.

"No, sir."

He then told the story of the passage of the "Mueller bill providing for municipal ownership of street railways."

He related how, when governor, Speaker Mueller came to him with an account of two men attempting to bribe him to aid in the passage of the bill and how the bill was passed.

"Mr. Mueller died shortly afterward, because the house, instead of investigating him, his friends told me," said Mr. Yates.

Mr. Yates said he believed men had approached Mueller. He also said John L. Lane, a Chicago Inter-Ocean reporter, told him in 1901 that a corruption fund existed in the legislature, but Lane could produce no witnesses, and the subject was not made a matter of formal investigation.

These were the only rumors of corruption, he said, that he was able to tell about.
