Remember the primary election, Tuesday, August 15, and come out and vote.

Congressman Underwood is no slouch. He has fully demonstrated that he is equal to the emergency.

A good and true democrat is one who will use his utmost endeavors to heal old sores instead of causing fresh ones.

President Taft is supposed to censure Dr. Wiley, but the lemon will probably be a very little one deftly concealed in the middle of the fruit basket.

Every county which builds good roads will induce immigration of the best homeseeking variety—and will have a permanent investment in prosperity as well.

Taft is opposed to Norris for senator, and Secretary Wilson is coming to Nebraska to speak for Brown. This being the case, Norris had better hold to what he has.

Rear Admiral Bowles says a hostile fleet could destroy New York City in an hour, but they dasen't do it if they saw the National Guard lined up on Manhattan beach.

A distinguished writer declares the average American citizen is governed by about 16,000 separate and distinct statutes, and that each one of us is presumed to know them all.

Rains have been very frequent over the county, but some farmers say they came too late to do any good to late corn. But we can tell about this more intelligently in a month or six weeks.

The primary ballots have been printed and packed ready for delivery, which will be done by County Clerk Morgan. All the voting precincts will receive their supplies in plenty of time.

Few people are found now who will say a word for the Payne-Aldrich tariff, and yet some persons want to suffer under it for another year without relief from its monopolistic provisions.

Only one more week till the primary election—Tuesday, August 15. Democrats should remember to write the name of James T. Reynolds on their ballots for clerk of the district court.

So far the primary campaign has been conducted very quietly and the candidates have no harsh words to say against one another. We are glad to see the campaign conducted so good-humoredly.

The G. A. R. reunion at Ashland last week was largely attended, and a big success in every particular. The only thing to mar the pleasure of the occasion in any way was a speech from Governor Aldrich.

The Georgia "Ad men" treated the convention at Boston on watermelon, and from the appearance of the delegates it was seen that they are very clever at filling space in more ways than one.

According to the Cuban consul in Kansas City the "uprising" in Cuba is not serious and nothing will come of it. Doubtless he is correct. Nevertheless, that's what they used to say about Mexico.

The president of Hayti has fled from the capital, with his rifle on his shoulder. Until it is learned whether he carried the treasury in his pocket it will not be known whether the revolution was successful.

It is just as essential for voters to turn out and vote at the primary as it is to vote at the general election. You have a choice as between candidates for the various positions and it is your duty to come out and vote for men you desire to nominate.

Remember the M. W. A. log rolling at Nehawka Saturday, August 19. The Nebraska City band will furnish the music, and there will be sports of different varieties to amuse both old and young. Make your arrangements to attend and take the entire family.

The summer edition of the Lincoln Star is certainly a "whooper." It consists of more than eighty pages and is a great boomer for Lincoln. The Star certainly is in the hands of hustlers, to get out such a mammoth edition, which is certainly a great credit to the capital city of Nebraska.

When some people learn that the success of the democratic party does not entirely depend upon their action they will evidently fare better in the estimation of former friends. They should learn that other people have opinions as well as themselves, and have the same right that they have to express them.

Every county in the state of California is authorized to levy a tax of 2 mills on the dollar of assessed valuation, the fund to be used to encourage immigration. That is fine, and Nebraska might follow the example. But it is getting at the same results indirectly through the good roads enterprise, which is the best advertising the state could do.

The Nebraska delegation to the national convention of the Commercial League at Boston certainly let the people along the roads over which they traveled know that Nebraska is still on the map. And Plattsmouth's representative, E. H. Wescott, was right to the front in letting people know that Plattsmouth was one of the principal points in the state.

The charge was made by the Journal—and so far not denied—that a resolution was presented to the proper committee of the republican party at the Lincoln convention endorsing pension legislation favorable to old soldiers, which has been pending some time, but that through some slight-of-hand the resolution was laid on the shelf, yet a similar resolution was presented and adopted by the democrats in their state convention in Fremont. Can it be possible our republican brethren were so engrossed in their efforts to endorse Taft that they just simply overlooked the old heroes, or have the old soldiers become only a minor consideration with members of the republican party in Nebraska? What do the old veterans think of it?

The south central portion of Nebraska has been having more than their share of rain, and as a result floods followed. Damage was done to crops, and several towns flooded and buildings damaged. Two thousand feet of track was washed out on the Burlington road west of Oxford, at which place nine inches of rain fell. Some stock was drowned.

E. H. Wescott will be home some time this week, and then we will know all about it.

Vote for James T. Reynolds. See that his name is written on your ballot for clerk of the district court.

There is one day which every democrat should set aside for the benefit of his party—Tuesday, August 15.

The street carnival occurs at Louisville on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week—August 17, 18 and 19.

New concrete walks are still going down. Soon the pedestrian can walk on any street in the city without stepping in mud.

If the advertising men had met in Boston before, this far-reaching ignorance about baked beans would never have existed.

Congressman Underwood has reason to feel proud of his party's congressional work, and the party feels proud of its congressman.

As New Jersey has a law against wearing the feathers of song birds, no woman can safely wear a rooster's feather while in that state.

Do we have these naval war games to save the summer hotels from hiring ball nines, or to keep the jackies from flirting with the summer girls?

A woman has been appointed examiner of the government mint, and now the Goddess of Liberty on our coins will have her hair properly curled.

There is a revolt in Cuba owing to government graft. Up here we hang around the city hall instead of taking to the tall timber when the jackpot passes around.

The crews of the submarines boast of theoretically destroying the battleships in the war game, but somehow they are not satisfied with being fed on hypothetical bacon.

Standard Oil is split into 33 companies, and how the consumer will feel if he has to pay for multiplying the book-keeping expense by 33.

The picnic season in Cass county will close next week, and then the Commercial club should begin to hustle for some kind of a fall entertainment for Plattsmouth.

The final adjournment of congress is promised for some date this month. All but two of the important bills passed by the house are expected to be out of the way by August 15.

When the steel trust investigating committee quizzes Mr. Roosevelt they may find themselves in the witness stand while he does the cross-examining.

The democrats of Cass county should all vote for Sim Upton for railway commissioner. He is a home man and has resided in the county for many years. Give him a boost from his own county.

Patent No. 1,000,000 was issued in Washington Saturday, and the distinction goes to the invention of a "punctureless" tire. If it is really punctureless motorists will regard the other 999,999 patents as trivial and unimportant.

For regent of the university be sure and vote for Otto Kafouc of Humboldt. He is a young man of most excellent qualities, a graduate of the state university and a man whose character is above reproach. He has served two terms in the legislature and his ability is first-class.

The agony will soon be over, and then we will know who are to make the race for the various offices. Next Tuesday is the date of the primary election—August 15. Remember the day and be sure and come out and vote for the candidates you desire to see nominated.

A kindly critic explains that Secretary Wilson is so honest himself that he makes the mistake of thinking everyone else is honest. Anyone as guileless and unsuspecting as this is manifestly not the right man upon whom to rely for the enforcement of the pure food and drugs act.

George W. Berge's friends throughout the state, it seems, are determined to bring him to the front for governor next year. Well, we don't know of very many men in the state that could fill the office with any more or better satisfaction to the people of Nebraska than George W. Berge.

The Journal don't particularly object to other papers copying articles from this paper and giving credit to any other live paper, but we do object to the Fremont Herald copying our articles on what we said about Fremont and giving credit to the Plattsmouth Evening News, which has not been in existence for nearly three months.

State Auditor Barton don't believe in being pushed out unless he knows right where he is going to light, consequently he is bidding for the republican nomination for congress in the Fifth district. Barton's ability is not so great as his scheming in the ranks of the different orders he belongs to. There's where he gets his pull. And without that he wouldn't be in it with any opponent he might have.

In a moment of irritation Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania exclaimed: "The republican party is no longer in control of the United States senate." The republican party is still in a majority, and that it is not in control, if it is not, is due entirely to its failure to represent public sentiment. The recent election appears to have taken some of the starch out of republican bluff and bluster.

Voters who find no candidates on their primary ballots or who do not find candidates to their liking may write in the name of the person they favor, according to an opinion written by Attorney General Martin. The law of 1907 forbade this practice. The legislature of 1909 amended the primary law to specifically provide for writing in names. As the primary law was again amended last winter this section was simply dropped. The latest law does not say that names may or may not be written in and the attorney general is following the last definite enactment on this subject—the law of 1909.

Chairman Underwood of the house ways and means committee says that if the new cotton tariff bill became a law it would save the consumers $209,000,000 a year. Prorated among 90,000,000 people this would mean a saving to each of them of a trifle over $2 or $8 to $10 per family. Well, every little bit helps.

Governor Aldrich is willing to be sacrificed on the altar of the United States senatorship. Evidently the republicans of Nebraska are anxious to retire the governor from active life by killing him off as a candidate for Senator Brown's shoes.

J. W. Crabtree, state superintendent of schools, has accepted the presidency of the normal school at River Falls, Wisconsin, and expects to resign in a short time. There are about a dozen applicants already for the place. But it will be hard to get one as available as Prof. Crabtree.

President Taft toasted the emperor of Japan Saturday night as "a great ruler who has given all of his time and energy and intellect to the progress of his country and the interests of the people." The president, it appears, has great admiration for progressives—in Japan.

Recent statistics show that last year the farmers received about $8,000,000,000 for their crops and that the consumers of those crops paid $15,000,000,000 for them. Here is a field for careful study. To whom did that $7,000,000,000 go? Can anybody tell? One thing is certain. A good many of these millions went to the banks for financing the transportation and sale of these crops.

La Follette is still the choice of a great many republicans of Nebraska, notwithstanding the endorsement of Taft by the postmasters and federal office-holders, who controlled the last Lincoln convention. The masses of the party do the voting, and when it comes to selecting delegates to the national convention a different tale may be told.

Just as an example of what can be done in road making in a short time, two years ago Plattsmouth practically had but few concrete sidewalks only on the main streets. Everybody seems to have gotten busy and as a result you can travel in most any part of the city on these durable walks. Property owners seem to have come to the conclusion that they are a good investment. The same thing applies to good roads—get one permanent road started and the others will come regardless of cost.

The death of Edward M. Shepard, a leader of the New York democracy, removes a man who seemed born for the best in public life, and deserved it for his character and capacity, and yet was always cheated of his political deserts by some malign influence or untoward combination of circumstances. But the man who smashed Boss McKane of Coney Island was not a real failure in public life, though unsuccessful in winning positions of power and politics in New York are less dirty today because Shepard worked to purify them. He was a fine specimen of the good citizen.

Cuts and bruises may be healed in about one-third the time required by the usual treatment by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. It is an antiseptic and causes such injuries to heal without maturation. This liniment also relieves soreness of the muscles and rheumatic pains. For sale by F. G. Fricke & Co.

To Go to Louisville. The Plattsmouth band will go to Louisville next Thursday for concerts at the street fair there Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The weekly concert will be given in Plattsmouth on Wednesday instead of Thursday night.

An ordinary case of diarrhoea can, as a rule, be cured by a single dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. This remedy has no superior for bowel complaints. For sale by F. G. Fricke & Co.

Robert Lysie went to Omaha on business today.

Hogaboon's Funeral.

From Wednesday's Daily. The funeral of William Hogaboon of La Platte, better known in Plattsmouth by the name of Hucklebone, who died Sunday in the hospital at South Omaha, was held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at La Platte. He was a familiar figure on the streets here, and was often referred to as the "Mayor of La Platte." He was 70 years old. He came to this country as a refugee in 1863 or 1864, and stayed at Orapolis the first winter, then took up a claim across the Platte river in Sarpy county. He was a member of the Second Nebraska cavalry and was a member of the company recruited in Plattsmouth.

Petition for Naturalization.

The following have filed petitions for naturalization with the clerk of the district court: Frank Roueka, Plattsmouth, blacksmith, born December 17, 1857, in Neistatt, Austria. Peter Roueka, Plattsmouth, laborer, born June 29, 1888, at Neistatt, Austria. Joseph Roueka, Plattsmouth, blacksmith, born July 5, 1881, in Frysova, Austria. Frank Slatinsky, Plattsmouth, laborer, born September 19, 1883, in Hachevica, Austria.

A 6 O'Clock Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Steimker very pleasantly entertained Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Gade, Mrs. J. N. Wise and Mrs. Hiatt, a sister of Mrs. Gade, who is a guest at the Gade home, at an elaborately appointed 6 o'clock dinner last evening. Following the serving of the dinner the guests remained for a time and participated in social conversation and other amusements, all of which made a most enjoyable evening.

M. E. Manspeaker went to Omaha today to attend the sheriff's conventions there.
