

MANY WENT ON STATE FAIR SPECIAL DESPITE THE THREATENING CLOUDS

Number Would Probably Have Been Three Times as Great Had the Day Been Fair—Fair Is Breaking All Attendance Records Sixty Thousand People On the Grounds Yesterday

Black, threatening skies, with a very light shower now and then, probably caused many people to decide not to take the excursion train to Lincoln this morning for the state fair, but in spite of the weather two full coaches of people were at the Burlington depot bound for the big show. With clear skies the number would probably have been doubled, as many at the depot this morning remarked to the Journal reporter that many of the folks at home, especially the women, were frightened by the dark skies and decided not to go. Of the number that went a large proportion were from the country, and most of these were men.

The fair is breaking all records. According to the official reports the attendance yesterday was 60,000.

WAGNER'S PRELIMINARY THIS MORNING

C. L. Herger Will Aid His Former Employer, Who Is Up Against Serious Charge.

Although there is no question of the guilt of Henry Wagner, the baker formerly employed by C. L. Herger, in giving a forged check for $20 to the Riley bar, it is improbable that a jury will sentence him to the state prison.

Wagner's preliminary hearing was held this morning at 10 o'clock before Judge Archer, and he was bound over to await the action of the district court. He had no attorney and made no defense other than that he does not remember a thing about the happenings of the night he gave the check.

Mr. Herger believes that the man would never have given the check had he been in his right mind, and that it is true that he does not remember any of the happenings of that night. Herger will try to get him out on bond, and will give him back his job. Wagner is a young man, clean-cut fellow, neatly dressed and of all-round good appearance.

Mr. Herger is trying to have the amount of the bond reduced and said that he was anxious to give the man another chance. "I don't believe this man knew what he was doing when he gave that check," said Herger, "and I am willing to do all I can to let him make amends and make good. He is the best man I have ever had; absolutely steady and a gentleman. For two months he did not touch a drop of liquor. He pledges me that he will make everything good and will prove that he is not the kind of a man that would forge a check when in his right mind."

Dave Antick was the first witness at the hearing. It was Antick who took the check. He is a bartender at the Riley bar. Antick said that Wagner came in about 7:45 o'clock last Thursday night and handed him a check for $20 to cash. Antick glanced at the amount and at the signature, handed Wagner a pencil for his signature and gave him $20. He said that Wagner appeared to be under the influence of liquor. The next morning J. L. Russel, proprietor of the saloon, said to Antick that he should watch out for Wagner, as it was reported he had a bad check in his possession. Antick told Russel that he had already taken a check from him.

Herger was put on the stand, and when shown the check said it was not his signature. He had heard Thursday night that Wagner had tried to cash a check for $20 at Tony Trilley's barber shop, and knowing that Wagner was drunk he immediately went out to try to find him, hoping that he could get him before he cashed the check. He went to the 9:45 train, but could not find Wagner.

The defendant had nothing to say except that he does not know that he ever gave the check. "I would not have sent a telegram back to Herger from St. Joseph asking for my job if I had known anything about giving a bad check," he said. It was after he had sent this telegram that Sheriff Quinton telegraphed the St. Joseph authorities to arrest Wagner. Wagner said that the handwriting on the check looked like his own. The bond was fixed at $1,000, Judge Archer refusing Herger's request that it be reduced.

The penalty for forgery is from one to seven years in the state penitentiary.

Delegate Sattler Home.

Mayor J. P. Sattler returned from an Francisco Saturday, where he went as the delegate from the Plattsmouth lodge of Eagles. Mayor Sattler reports a great convention and a mighty fine time on the side. He said that Frank E. Hering of South Bend, Ind., had been re-elected grand worthy president, but only after the "insurgents" had gained the reforms for which they were fighting. It was one of the best conventions since the Eagles were organized and the future of the organization never looked brighter. Mr. Sattler returned by way of Los Angeles.

Injured by Automobile.

Will Kruger, from near Greenwood, is in the city today, coming down for a few days' visit with county seat friends and relatives. He is compelled to get around by the aid of crutches owing to being injured in an automobile accident a few days ago. One week ago yesterday evening he was driving home from Greenwood, closely followed by Joseph Halmes in his automobile, and while Joe was not driving very fast, he was not seen by Mr. Kruger in time to prevent a collision. The automobile struck the buggy with such force as to throw Mr. Kruger from his seat to the ground, injuring his back and hip and otherwise bruising him up considerably. The team did not run away, even though the buggy was pretty badly torn up.

Make Trip to Omaha.

Paul Wolfarth, Fred Jess and Fred Lindeman made a trip to Omaha Saturday in Paul's launch "Viking," returning Monday evening. They report a fine trip except for the occasional unpleasantness of getting the boat off sandbars. Fred Jess not proving a good pilot. The rest of the boys aver that this was due to the fact that land looked better than water to him after he took an attack of sea-sickness on the way up. They say he "fed the fishes" generously.

A FINE PICNIC IN THE COUNTRY YESTERDAY

An Occasion Long to Be Remembered by All Those Who Participated.

The Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church held their annual picnic at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. George Kaffenberger, seven miles west of this city, yesterday, and it was an occasion which was so delightful in every particular that it will be long remembered by all those in attendance.

About the hour of 9 o'clock in the morning about twenty-five of the ladies assembled at the church, where the carryalls awaited them, and when all the ladies had reached the church, were driven to the Kaffenberger home. Upon their arrival there they were most heartily welcomed by Mrs. Kaffenberger and family, who soon made their guests feel very much at home, they having left nothing undone toward insuring them a fine time.

The ladies had brought baskets filled with many good things to eat, but in the meantime Mrs. Kaffenberger had prepared a portion of the dinner, such as fried chicken, mashed potatoes and various other viands, such as a farmer wife's larder would afford. Two large tables were placed in the large and roomy dining room of the Kaffenberger home, which were loaded with everything which would appeal to one's appetite and which one could think of in the eatable line. At the noon hour the entire company was seated and all joined in this elegant feast of good things.

The afternoon hours were most enjoyably spent in social conversation and other amusements. Some delightful numbers in the shape of instrumental and vocal selections were furnished and added to the pleasures of the day. Delicious watermelon was served throughout the afternoon hours. Before leaving the entire company was served with supper, and we have it very confidentially from one of the ladies in attendance that for downright enjoyment this occasion was one of the very best it has been her good fortune to participate in, and it may be said to the credit of Mrs. Kaffenberger and family that the entertainment offered on this occasion was all that hospitable minds and expert culinary ability could devise.

"I have a world of confidence in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for I have used it with perfect success," writes Mrs. M. I. Basford, Poolesville, Md. For sale by F. G. Fricke & Co.

Accidents will happen, but the best-regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

A Baby Girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Smith are rejoicing this week over the arrival of a new baby girl at their home. The little stranger arrived last Saturday and both mother and the little one are doing nicely, and "Bill" is still able to turn the crank for the motion pictures at the Majestic and even the pictures present a more happy and good-natured appearance.
