Election Tuesday, November 7—one week from next Tuesday. Don't forget the date.

The road between town and the Platte river bridge should have received attention many weeks since.

Doc Wiley favors woman suffrage. He no doubt believes that the hand that makes the fire should guide the state.

The rebel cause in China is believed to be waning. A judicious distribution of clerkships among the leaders will restore order.

Trade with your home merchants. By so doing you will feel happier, sleep sounder and feel better generally by having done right.

Senator Work of California favors La Follette, but if Taft is nominated, he says the progressives should support Governor Wilson.

From the tales of woe given by some of our captains of industry, the time is ripe to organize a Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Millionaires.

Now that a New York woman has lost $4,000 out of her stocking, one's faith in the most standard methods of safe deposit are severely shaken.

Women teachers in New York now get equal pay with men. This is a long step toward the happy day when women shall provide the bread and butter for the family.

In view of all the testimony that has been brought out at the Lorimer investigation even the senator himself must begin to wonder if his election was really on the square.

Mr. Hines, the Chicago millionaire lumberman, explains that he took "only a friendly interest" in the election of Senator Stephenson in Wisconsin. And, of course, "What's the constitution between friends?"

Mr. Taft has decided to extend his trip for two weeks additional. It looks very doubtful if he will ever again be satisfied to settle down and live the simple life in the White house.

Canada is grieving because they have 900,000 less people than they expected. It is evident that they do not know the elementary principles of the art of census-taking up there.

More than half the Yale football team are disabled, but if the college authorities do not arbitrarily suggest that the boys should do a little studying, they may yet be able to line up against Harvard.

Talk in Washington of "intervention" to stop the revolution in China indicates that some American dollars in the Orient are endangered, and that the right or wrong of the Chinese progressive movement is inconsequential.

C. M. Seybert, candidate for county commissioner, is a gentleman of vast experience in such matters as a member of the county board is called upon to transact. He is known by most of the voters of the county, and is a man who can be depended upon to do his duty regardless of person or locality. Cam is a person well adapted for the position and should be elected.

Even the Wall street Journal gives up the claim that there is a shortage in sugar. Its excuse for the sugar trust is rather amusing. It says: "As a matter of fact, all the great staples—and this, of course, includes sugar—are largely manipulated in Europe, where there are 600,000,000 people to pay the bill."

Miss Mary Foster has the credit with the state school officials of being one among the best county superintendents in Nebraska. She knows her duties and she performs them to the very letter. The directors, the teachers, the parents and the pupils all like her manner of conducting the affairs of her office.

Don C. Rhoden is making hosts of friends in his campaign for sheriff. In him the voters see at a glance that he bears the appearance of a man who is not only able to perform the duties of sheriff, but also a man who will prove willing to do his duty without fear or favor. The night will never get too dark or the weather too bad for Don Rhoden to go where duty calls. That's the kind of a sheriff he will make.

The county clerk's office has been conducted in such a manner as to meet the approbation of everyone having business with that office. There is no cleverer or more efficient servant of the people than Clev Morgan, and he is ever alert to the interests of the county in every conceivable manner. He has done his duty faithfully and in a business-like manner, and should be rewarded with his second term, and no doubt will.

W. K. Fox should be elected to the office of treasurer because his qualifications are so superior to many others for such a responsible position. The voters are not inclined to put a man in that office who knows nothing about the business, and they are not going to take any risks. Kelly Fox is competent and reliable and the taxpayers, those who are directly interested, know that he is qualified in every way to fill the office of treasurer as it should be filled.

Turn on the lights earlier in the morning. We need them in our business. Do this until we can get the all-night service.

The Chinese rebels seize all the cash in the banks as they go along. The American insurgents seem to have overlooked this.

Although $100,000 is paid without a murmur to get into the United States senate, some cross-grained people kick at 25 cents a dozen for eggs.

Let us hope that the Lorimer case is settled before the Illinois statesman has been in the senate as long as Mr. Harlan was on the supreme bench.

The women are getting so set up over their victory in California that pretty soon they'll be demanding the right to leave the house without permission.

Two Oklahoma men who went to Niles, Michigan, to identify him, declare positively that "Kimmel is White." For that matter, Kimmel never professed to be a nigger.

"Sunny" Jim is the way the Weeping Water Republican puts it. Who wouldn't be "sunny" after holding office for sixteen years and wants a lease of four more years?

The only way our manufacturers can continue to grow is by getting more foreign trade. We can never sell goods as long as we refuse to buy under a high protective tariff.

Many people are so well satisfied that Don C. Rhoden will prove such a great improvement over the present incumbent in the sheriff's office that they are going to vote for him on this account. They will make no mistake in supporting Don C. Rhoden.

Sometimes a merchant says that he does not need to advertise because he has been in business in his present location ten, twenty or thirty years. In some cases the goods on his shelves have also been in business that long, but it's no particular honor to the store.

Keep your bicycles off the sidewalk, as well as coasting carts, or you may hereafter have to pay a fine. Mayor Sattler means just what he says—he wants bicycles and coasters kept off and you had better do it, as he has instructed the police to arrest all who do not heed this warning.

A man by the name of Clarence Stanley is to walk from Boston to San Francisco to illustrate the principles of the Boy Scout movement. But we have several hundred thousand man scouts in this country who have learned that freight car transportation is much easier.

The taxpayers of Cass county are pretty well satisfied that Kelly Fox is the safest man for the responsible position of treasurer. He knows well the run of the office, is one of the most competent and reliable men in the county and the people don't believe in taking any chances on getting as good a man for the place as Kelly.

The public schools of Cass county are in a more prosperous condition than they ever were before in the history of the county. Great credit is due to Miss Mary Foster for the able manner in which she has conducted the school affairs which has brought about this result. No county can boast of a more competent county superintendent, and school patrons and teachers all know it.

Our present water plant placed in first-class condition and an all-night lighting system Plattsmouth would be up-to-date with other cities of Plattsmouth's size in Nebraska. If the council is afraid to do their duty in these matters let them get the sentiment of the people by a direct vote. They will soon find out that a big majority of our people are in favor of both.

When you vote for C. M. Seybert for county commissioner you will be voting for a grand, good man, who will make one of the most competent members that ever performed the duties of county commissioner. After the death of D. K. Barr, who was city clerk of Louisville, the village board selected Mr. Seybert to fill the vacancy on account of his well known business qualities.

In voting for James T. Reynolds for clerk of the district court you are supporting a gentleman and a scholar, who has never held an office, but is capable of doing so as much as the best of them. He has resided on a farm in Cass county all his life and for several years taught the district school between seasons. If you want to know the kind of man Jim Reynolds is ask his neighbors and they will tell you that a better or more competent man for any office never breathed the breath of life. He is just the kind of man for clerk of the district court.

The people are becoming more independent in their voting for men and measures every year. They are reading more than ever before, and becoming more informed on matters of interest. They are not voting nearly as much as they once did for candidates simply because they are a democrat or a republican, but are supporting candidates because they are honest, competent and genuine good citizens. Such is the make-up of the ticket that the Journal is supporting. We believe that never before was there a better ticket placed before the voters of Cass county for their suffrages.

The Journal has had a great deal to say in referring to James T. Reynolds, candidate for clerk of the district court. But we couldn't praise such a citizen as Mr. Reynolds too highly. He couldn't be praised too highly. He is simply a grand, good man and one who is naturally fitted for the position to which he aspires, and is just the kind of a man who will give everyone having business in the district clerk's office a fair shake every day in the week. He should be elected because he is the kind of a man who deserves the support of the people on the 7th day of November.

Willis D. Oldham, candidate for judge of the supreme court, is one of the strongest characters and most illuminary legal lights in the state, and should be elected to the important position for which his friends have offered him, saying nothing of the debt owed to this estimable gentleman by the democratic party of Nebraska. Judge Oldham is very popular in Cass county and will be supported, not only by democrats, but will receive many republican votes, who know he is possessed of a most uncommon legal mind, and his many years of service at the bar has even sharpened his talents in this line.

FRIGHTENED CORPORATIONS. It is said that the public service corporations in California are all in a state of trepidation since the election and are expecting the people to act as harshly as the corporations have toward the people. That is because they know that they deserve it, but the people nowhere, after getting power to regulate the public service corporations, have ever been unjust to them. The traction, gas, electric light and power companies in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and New Hampshire, where such power has been exercised by the people through commissions, have always been treated with justice and often with great generosity. That is what the people of California will do when they come to exercise the power over these corporations recently made possible by the new amendments to the constitution.

As to the recall of judges it is inconceivable that it would ever be resorted to in any case where there were only two parties to a lawsuit who would be affected by a decision. That was the service that courts were instituted to perform, but of late years courts have been in the habit of handing down decisions that affect, not only the parties to the suit, but the whole people, or in other words making law. That is what has caused the dissatisfaction with the courts. The people think that when law is to be made, they ought to have something to say about what sort of law it shall be, but with this judge-made law they have no part in its enactment, and in California they have determined to control those who do make it. In regard to that the people will act with as much generosity and justice as they have with public service corporations where they have taken control over them.

The corporations of California need not be frightened. The people will administer justice tempered with mercy.—World-Herald.

FOR FAIR REPRESENTATION.

There are good reasons why progressive republicans should vote the democratic ticket in Nebraska next month aside from the principal reason that such a vote will be a vote of effective protest against standpat control of their party and standpat faithlessness to the party pledges.

A democratic vote on state candidates will be a vote for government that is truly representative of all Nebraska. It will be a vote for good government.

We have a supreme court of seven judges, and every one of the seven is a republican.

We have a board of university regents of six members, and every one of the six is a republican.

We have a state railway commission of three members, and each of the three will be a republican if the republican nominee is elected this fall.

If every democratic candidate for supreme judge, regent and railway commissioner is elected the republican party will still retain control of each of these three important bodies. There will be no loss of party advantage. But the democratic and populist citizens of this state will be given a minority representation in these departments of government.

It is important not only that all parties be represented, but that all sections of the state be represented.

The supreme court as now constituted is made up entirely of citizens of eastern Nebraska. The democratic and populist nominees are from central and western Nebraska—Judge Stark from Hamilton county, Judge Dean from Custer and Judge Oldham from Buffalo county. Their election would give the central and western portions of the state the representation on the supreme bench to which their population and importance entitle them.

If the democratic candidate for railway commissioner is elected the board will consist of an Omaha man, a Lincoln man and a Holdrege man. If the republican candidate is elected it will consist of two Lincoln men and one Omaha man, and the entire state outside the two principal cities will be without representation.

So far as the board of regents is concerned the primaries unfortunately resulted in two eastern Nebraska candidates on both tickets. The World-Herald feels strongly that western Nebraska should have a voice in the university management, and regrets that there is no opportunity presented to bring this about in the coming election. But we suggest this fact for consideration: The election of the republican candidates will give Douglas county three of the six regents, while the election of the democratic candidates will give Lancaster county three of the six. Neither county is entitled to that many. But if either county is to have half the regents that county should be Lancaster, in which the university is located.—World-Herald.

Miss Mary Foster, Cass county's efficient superintendent of schools, has been engaged in visiting the rural district schools this week. No county superintendent was ever more faithful in the performance of the duties of the office, and voters will hand her a reward of merit on the 7th day of November for the faithful discharge of her duties.

If Don C. Rhoden is not elected to the office of sheriff, we shall always believe that the voters of Cass county have made a great mistake, being satisfied, as we are, that he truly possesses all the essentials to make a sheriff of which to be proud. Don C. Rhoden is a man, every inch of him, and he has the courage and manhood to go where duty calls.

James T. Reynolds is a hutsler and will come about as near seeing all the voters in the county as the next man. He receives a warm reception wherever he goes, and impresses the voters most favorably, because at a glance they see a gentleman and scholar and a man who is abundantly qualified to fill the position of clerk of the district court in a manner most acceptable to the people. He should be elected because he is a good man and worthy of the position.

The taxpayers do not intend to make any mistake in the election of county treasurer. They haven't done so in the past eight years in the election of both W. D. Wheeler and F. E. Schlatter, and W. K. Fox is just as capable of looking after the affairs of the treasurer's office as either of these gentlemen, and they will vouch for his ability to do so. The voters of the county, most of them, at least, are acquainted with Kelly Fox, and they are going to vote for him because they know him to be strictly honest and reliable.
