THOUGHTS FOR THE CHRISTMAS SHOPPER

Don't Wait Till the Last Minute to Buy What You Want for Presents.

Although more and more is being said every year about doing Christmas shopping early, a large share of the public does not commonly decide what it wants until about December 24. Such persons are hardly likely to do much preliminary buying. There are a good many people who do not care to make such perfunctory gifts. They are sick of presents that are so ill-suited to the needs of the recipient that they find their ways into closet shelves and waste baskets as soon as they can be safely put out of sight.

Such people have Christmas buying in mind all through the year. If you have your eyes open in that way the things you like turn up in unexpected quarters. If you wait until just before Christmas scrimmage you almost never find what you want from the tumbled assortment of pawed-over goods. The next two weeks are a golden time to buy Christmas gifts. The store will have additional stocks which are fresher today than they ever will be subsequently. Think of that, if the tough plight of the poor clerk under the strain of the pre-Christmas week does not move your heart.

Will Occupy Soon.

The furnishing of the interior of the new postoffice building is nearing completion. The boxes, the last bit of furniture needed, were shipped from the factory two days ago, and will arrive in a short time. The heating apparatus has been put in running shape, the pipes tested and in readiness. Postmaster Schneider and his force of helpers are looking forward with pleasant anticipation to the day, not far away, when they will occupy modern quarters for the handling of the United States mail.

Lights the Moment You Want Them

THE Pilot Acetylene Gas Machine is entirely automatic in operation and requires no attention whatever. Every light is started with an electric spark, which does away with the use of matches, and also makes it impossible to open a gas jet without the gas being ignited at the tip.

This machine makes gas just as it is needed and positively no more. This in alone is a great saving over other machines that have a different style of mixing, which leaves a quantity of gas in the reservoir, which loses its burning qualities the longer it stands.

Gas from this machine can be run to any of our out buildings. This is absolutely the only machine that is giving perfect satisfaction at all times and under all conditions without any extra expense after installation. This machine can be seen any time at our store.

MRS. JAS. M. HOOVER DIES OF PARALYSIS

After Long Illness Mrs. James M. Hoover Passes to the Great Beyond.

Mrs. James M. Hoover passed away very suddenly as a result of paralysis Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, aged 56 years, 4 months and 8 days.

Miss Augusta Pankonin was born in the Province of Prussia, Germany, July 20, 1855, and came to America in 1874 at the time of the great Chicago fire, which she witnessed. She was married to James M. Hoover March 11, 1878. To them were born five children, four girls and one boy, Mrs. Rose Masters, Ella, Laura, Helen and William.

Mrs. Hoover was a member of the German Lutheran church, a dutiful wife, a kind, thoughtful mother and a good neighbor.

Her whole life was wrapped up in her husband and children and she was seldom seen away from home.

Several months ago she received a stroke of paralysis and for a long time she was a helpless invalid in mind as well as in body. As suddenly as it had appeared she was again restored, but remembered nothing that had occurred in the months intervening. She was able to go about the house and yard and was out assisting in catching some chickens for the Thanksgiving dinner when she received the second stroke. Her daughter caught her to prevent her from falling and she was carried to the house and lived but a short time, when she passed away, apparently without pain. Besides her husband and children she leaves to mourn her, two brothers, H. E. and William Pankonin.

The funeral occurred from the Christian church at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Gould of the M. E. church. Interment was at River View cemetery. The family have the sympathy of many friends in this, their hour of sorrow.—Louisville Courier.

Injured Thanksgiving Day.

From Saturday's Daily. Avord Erickson, 1 year of age, of Rock Creek, near Greenwood, while out hunting yesterday morning, was dangerously wounded by being shot. He was taken to Waverly for surgical aid. His condition was thought to be very serious.

The 10-year-old son of Mike Kelly, residing north of Greenwood, was badly bruised up by being thrown from a horse yesterday morning, sustaining a broken arm and other severe bruises.

Leonard Meisinger of this city and Will Stoehr of Oklahoma were Omaha passengers yesterday, where they looked over a stock of autos, expecting to purchase one each when they can be suited on the machine.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE FOR MEDICAL FREEDOM MOVE IN RIGHT DIRECTION

Opposition to a "Medical Trust" Which Should Meet With the Commendation of Every Sensible Person Who Does Not Believe in Compulsory Treatment of the Sick.

Editor Plattsmouth Journal: In a recent article entitled "Health Bureaus and Medical Freedom," your paper touches on a question of increasing importance to the world, and I would like to state briefly the conditions making necessary the organization of the National League for Medical Freedom, which is opposing the establishment of a national bureau of health.

The American Medical association was originated for the purpose of encouraging its members to a higher and more dignified plane of thought and action, and to make more easily available for the public the results of scientific research through the free exchange of conclusions resulting therefrom. The association is composed almost entirely of allopathic or "regular" physicians and their original purpose was truly laudable, but this first thought has been lost sight of in the manipulation of the association for selfish ends by the political doctor who are in the minority. In their work we have seen many attempts in various states to isolate and disqualify the sincere practitioners of other schools of healing, giving no consideration of the good those persons may have accomplished and believing investigation along other lines to be only an encroachment on their privileges instead of something which the people were entitled to. How well these plans succeeded may be seen in the fact that the United States government employs only "regular" doctors for the simple reason that no others are able to pass the examinations provided, and this now applies to some 7,000 positions. Encouraged by some successes in these efforts and spurred on by the growing popularity of the homeopaths, osteopaths, eclectics, Christian Scientists and chiropractors, these clever politicians conceived the idea of centralizing, in a national bureau of health, which they hoped to control, the power to eventually dictate the methods to be employed in the treatment of disease. These conclusions are verified in statements made by officers of the association and its various advocates. The attempts to secure a national bureau of health have extended over a period of more than a score of years, the latest being embodied in what is known as the "Owen bill," being the first one filed in the senate during the recent special session of congress. Its sponsor is Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, and he has said he presented the bill, as well as previous ones of a like nature, because the American Medical association wanted such a law.

The National League for Medical Freedom is not composed of cranks and quacks, but of intelligent citizens, who make no criticism of the treatment accorded the sick by the practitioners of any school, but they are opposed to anything in the shape of a "medical trust," and many allopathic doctors, members of the American Medical association, are in sympathy with the movement, hoping to rid the profession of the stigma of cheap politics. The medical freedom advocates wish to give to the "regular" doctors any credit to which they are justly entitled, at the same time believing that the unfortunate should have the full benefit of discoveries by any scientist, there being no man able to frame a law distinguishing who shall and who shall not do some good thing for humanity. The league members believe that quackery and jealousy will be successfully eliminated only by elevating the ethics of the science of healing disease above those degrading thoughts, and according to the unfortunate the best possible service, with the full knowledge that results will accurately determine which method shall endure. The league offers no legislation, is not opposed to quarantine or sanitary regulations, has no criticism to make of any person's preference or beliefs, is thankful for just and effective pure food laws and is allied with no political party. Its work is to oppose a "medical trust" and consequent compulsory treatment—to preserve for all the privileges of the services of the practitioner of individual preference, just as we cherish the right to worship God according to the dictates of our consciences.

L. B. McCoun,
Chairman Nebraska Branch Committee of the National League for Medical Freedom.

Ready for Holiday Trade.

B. A. McElwain's jewelry store has taken on holiday attire and he turns on the 50 or more electric incandescent lights tonight. The shelves are bordered with holly and mistletoe, and here and there a bright blossom lends variety to the decoration of green. The 50 additional electric lights suspended from the rear through the center of the store room to the front, are bedecked with the Xmas foliage, all blending in one scene of beauty and splendor.
