Sandy Andrews handed in his resignation as baggage man at the Burlington station last night, with a request for transportation to Omaha. The notice was rather short, but as Sandy had been a pretty good hand, the boys will probably try to get him an annual. Outting just at this time when the spring business is beginning to pick up, will be quite a jolt for the company, but, nevertheless, it is a safe bet that it will at least try to continue business at the old stand.

Copper Clad Malleable Range!

This range has a perfected and patented rust proof copper lining. This is beyond question the greatest advance step made in range building. The body and flues are not subjected to contact with rust producing dany asbestos, as is the case with all other ranges, as our one piece copper lining is placed between the asbestos and outside body and a dry air space is formed between the copper and body by a series of bosses 3/8 inch in height, preserving the body in a perfectly dry state.

Here are the desirable and distinctive features of the Copper Clad Malleable Range:

A very beautiful design and finish hidden hinges and catches.

Back flue made entirely of malleable iron.

Large perfect pouch feed.

All nickle plated parts are of a plain oval design, absolutely devoid of rivets, bolts background or scroll.

Square ornamental closet pipe. Weighted oven door, requiring no unsightly catches.

A perfect contract reservoir adjustment.

Combining the above valuable improvements with material and workmanship of the highest quality, we offer the Copper Clad Malleable Range as the highest grade range ever produced.
