Duke of Wellington.

The Duke of Wellington carefully inspected the food given to his soldiers during the war. He knew that plenty of food makes healthy, strong men and that no underfed army can face such men. This teaches us a good lesson, to give great care to the quality and quantity of our food. If our body refuses to accept or digest enough food, we should at once use Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine. It will give proper strength to the digestive organs and it is a great remedy in diseases of the stomach, the liver and the intestines. It quickly relieves constipation and all troubles connected with, or resulting from the same, headache, rheumatic and neuralgic pains, eruptions, heart burn, nausea, morning vomiting and many female ailments. It strengthens the whole body, so it can do more work without fatigue. At drug stores. Jos. Triner, 1333-1339 So. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill.

THE HIGH SCHOOL CONVOCATION

Hon. R. B. Windham Addresses the Pupils of High School on "Patriotism."

Hon. R. B. Windham spoke for forty-five minutes at the High school convocation this morning on the topic, "Patriotism." Mr. Windham has traveled over the United States a great deal and has visited the places of national interest and the places made famous by history during the struggles of our people, both in the revolutionary and civil war periods. Bunker Hill, Mount Vernon, Yorktown, Washington, D. C., and the battlefields of the civil war have been visited by Mr. Windham.

He impressed on the minds of the students the personal responsibility of every citizen residing under the protection of the flag to cultivate a love of country. He dwelt at length on the growth and development of the United States as a country, and its proud position in the family of nations of the earth, to which it has made its way in so short a space of time.

Mr. Windham spoke without notes, and his address was listened to with the closest attention. Twice when he assayed to cease speaking the students would not allow him to do so, but insisted on him going on. He was allotted twenty minutes, but occupied about three-quarters of an hour. At the close of his address he was warmly applauded.

Before thirty days have gone by the building will be ready for occupancy and Mr. Manspeaker, fitted out with new building and new stock, will be ready for business at the old stand.

A New Boy.

Have you seen Lou Russel today? Well, did you notice that happy smile over his face and did you notice that it was just about twice as broad as usual? Just step around and see him this evening and we venture the assertion that you will be able to tell the cause almost immediately. It is an eight-pound boy and it arrived at his home about noon today. Both mother and little one are getting along nicely. May the little stranger live to be a source of as much happiness to Mr. and Mrs. Russel in their old old age as he was today.

THE MEANING OF THE PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

And Which Will Be Submitted to the Voters of the State at the Primary and Also at the General Election, and is Source of Some Discussion—Calls for Board of Control.

The meaning of the proposed constitutional amendment calling for a state board of control, which is to be submitted to the voters of the state this year, both at the primary election and the general election, is the source of some discussion.

In addition to this amendment the people will vote amendments to the constitution providing for the initiative and referendum, biennial elections, an increase in the pay of legislators and an amendment permitting cities of 5,000 inhabitants to make their own charters. If the amendments receive a majority of the votes of any political party at the primary election they become party measures and at the general election will carry with them all straight party votes, or votes that are not cast directly against them. A majority of the votes cast at the general election is necessary to make an amendment a part of the constitution.

The board of control amendment, if adopted, will create a board to have control of state institutions. This board is not elective, but is to be appointed by the governor. Three persons, not more than two of whom shall be members of one political party, are to be appointed by the governor and to have control of all state institutions which are not educational. The schools for the deaf and the blind are included in the list to be under control of the board.

The amendment provides: "The powers possessed by the governor and board of public lands and buildings with reference to the management and control of the institutions herein named, shall, on July 1, 1913, cease to exist in the governor and board of public lands and buildings and shall become vested in a board of commissioners of state institutions, and the said board is on July, 1913, and without further process of law, authorized and directed to assume and exercise all the powers heretofore vested in or exercised by the governor, board of public lands and buildings with reference to the institutions of the state named herein, but nothing herein contained shall limit the general supervisory or examining powers vested in the governor by the laws or constitutions of the state, or such as are vested by him in any committee appointed by him."

Whether or not the amendment deprives the governor of the right to appoint heads of state institutions, now vested in him by statute, is not made clear. As the commissioners who will form the board of control will be appointed by the governor, it is not likely that they will dispute with the appointive power on any material point. The amendment states that the commissioners shall "comply with all regulations that shall be established by law." This is construed to mean that their duties can be more clearly defined by laws enacted by the legislature. The amendment also states that the commissioners shall have "full power to manage, control and govern" state institutions, subject only to such limitations as shall be established by law.

In describing what powers shall descend to the board of control the amendment mentions the powers possessed by the governor and board of public lands and buildings, but fails to mention the board of purchase and supplies which now awards all contracts for supplies for state institutions.

Many a Plattsmouth Read Will Be Interested.

When people read about the cures made by a medicine endorsed from far away, is it surprising that they wonder of the statements are true? But when they read of cases right here at home, positive proof is within their reach, for close investigation is an easy matter. Read Plattsmouth endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills.

J. S. Hall, So. Sixth St., Plattsmouth, Neb., says: "In 1898 I strained my back and soon after that I began to suffer from kidney trouble. I had severe pains across the small of my back and on this account it was difficult for me to stoop or arise from a chair. I tried several remedies, but to no avail, and finally, when I had the good fortune to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at Rynott & Co.'s Drug Store.

Within forty-eight hours after I took the first dose I felt better. Since then I have always kept a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills in the house, finding that they bring the best of results." (Statement given June 6, 1906.)

Two and a Half Years Later.

On December 30, 1908, Mr. Hall said: "I cheerfully renew my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. I know that this remedy is a reliable one for kidney complaint."
