

JUDGE BASIL S. RAMSEY POSSESSES COPY OF THE FIRST "NEW YORK SUN"

Paper is Dated September 3, 1833 and is Quite a Curiosity Compared With the Modern Metropolitan Newspapers—the Judge Greatly Prizes the Little Newspaper.

Judge B. S. Ramsey is the possessor of a copy of issue No. 1 of the Sun of New York City, which sent out its first issue Tuesday, September 3, 1833, which is a valuable relic and highly prized by Mr. Ramsey. The paper is a three-column quarto, 9x12 inches. At the top of the first column, on the front page, in black-faced type, are these words, "Published Daily at 222 William St. Benj. H. Day, Printer." Then follows the purpose of the publication thus: "The object of this paper is to lay before the public, at a price within the means of everyone, all of the news of the day, etc. The sheet will be enlarged as soon as the increase of advertisements requires it, the price remaining the same." At the top of the right-hand margin is the "Price—One Penny." The advertising rate was quoted: "Yearly advertisers (without the paper), thirty dollars per annum. Casual advertisers, at the usual prices charged by the city papers. Some very unique advertisements and quaint news items appear in the paper. The last column of the sheet is headed "New York Bank Note Table, Tuesday, Sept. 3." Then follows a list of banks taken from twenty-two states, giving the names of banks and after them their condition, thus, "broken," "uncertain," "1/2," "3/4." In the state of Maine five banks are named as broken, "Bath bank 10, all other banks 12." In Vermont, "all banks 1/2." There is no explanation to the ratings, but the presumption is that the bank notes of the banks stated were taken at the New York banks at the prices stated; for instance, the Vermont banks at 50 cents on the dollar. Those were the days of the wildcat bank, which our fathers used to talk about. Concerning the business conditions in the city, an item headed "Business of New York.—Considerable business was transacted during the past month; more than any month of August for several years. The city is nearly full of strangers from all parts of this country and Europe. Many hotels are filled with strangers and in one no less than 1,795 entries of boarders were made on its register during the past month, making 54 per day."

AUGUST LEHNOFF PASSES AWAY

An Old Resident Dies at the Poor Farm From a Complication of Diseases.

August Lehnoff, who has been a resident of Cass county for the past forty years, died at the county farm early this morning at the age of 74 years. He was born near Oconomowoc, in Waukesha county, Wisconsin, and came to Cass county with his brother, Fred Lehnoff, about 1872.

The deceased had made his home near Louisville all of the years, working as a farm hand for different farmers in that locality. He never married, and having no one depending on him, never acquired habits of thrift, but expended his earnings as fast as the money came into his hands. The last number of years he made his home at the residence of John Ossenkop, and was brought to the poor farm last fall.

The deceased leaves three half sisters surviving him, namely, Mrs. August Tartsch, Plattsmouth; Mrs. S. D. Snasse, Rapid City, S. D., and Mrs. Minnie Buskirk, North Prairie, Wis. The funeral arrangements will be announced as soon as John Ossenkop of Louisville can arrive. The funeral will occur tomorrow at 1 o'clock, from the poor farm.

Ella Spahle Is Dead.

The above sad news was reported on the street about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning and was a great shock to the entire community, as it was not generally known that the little lady was ailing. On Sunday evening she first complained of not feeling well, but her condition was not considered dangerous, but she gradually grew worse, and in spite of all that medical skill could do, she passed peacefully away Wednesday morning, death being caused by infantile paralysis. Little Ella was born in Eagle on July 5, 1902, and at the time of her death was 9 years, 8 months and 1 day old. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Spahle. Funeral services were held at the home at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, conducted by Rev. J. W. Davis of Elmwood, and interment was made in the Eagle cemetery. —Eagle Beacon.

John Campbell and Jim Miller are in a controversy over how to divide the reward for capturing the man, Gray, who robbed the depot. John feels as though he ought to have the big end of it because of the fact that he shucked corn with the fellow two years ago, and Jim thinks he is entitled to some of it because he later worked with John.

Beaden Hall, who has been employed in the bank for the last six months, has resigned his position therein and left Monday morning for Seattle, where he expects to secure employment. Beaden will be missed from the social life of this community, as he is one of the salt of the earth, the kind that are all too seldom found in any place. The News wishes him the best of success in his new home.

Somebody forced the lock on the back door at Ben Hoback's about 1 o'clock Tuesday morning and stole several cans of fruit. Mrs. Hoback heard a noise and aroused Uncle Ben, who got out in time to see the fellow make a hasty exit by way of the front door. On account of the poor light Mr. Hoback did not get a good look at him and is unable to describe him. There is more petty thieving in this community than there ought to be, and someone will find themselves, some day, marked exhibit "A" at a coroner's inquest.

Notwithstanding the huge snowdrifts a number from the vicinity of the Hoback home were there, and a crowd from town managed to "bob-sled" the trip. The evening was spent in having a jolly good time at games and music, and the guests were treated to a nice luncheon.

"OLD DUTCH CLEAN-SER" IN PANCAKES

Never Know the Difference Until After the Breakfast Was Entirely Over.

One of Plattsmouth's esteemed retired German farmers was called on to keep bachelor's hall recently while his wife visited in the country. The good lady left the pancake recipe where it could be easily found, which read: "A few eggs beaten with the yolks and whites separate, and to a pint of sour milk stir in flour until it was middlin' thick and add a teaspoonful of soda or enough to make the mixture sweet."

Our bachelor friend followed the directions as near as a new hand can, but instead of getting the package of soda, he got the wrong paper and added a spoonful of "Dutch cleanser," and never discovered the difference until some time after breakfast. He is a good deal better now, as the doctor knew what to give him. His wife was sent for and with proper nursing the neighbors believe he will pull through.

Moral—Bachelors should read carefully every label of ingredients of their pancakes, else something may happen and the doctor will have to be called in.
