DIVORCE CASE FROM MURRAY IS FINISHED

Case Closed and Judge Travis Reserved Full Decision for a Time.

From Saturday's Daily.

The divorce suit brought by Mrs. Lucile Young against her husband, William Rex Young, was on trial yesterday and was devoid of sensational testimony. The petition is based on the ground of non-support and the plaintiff supported the allegations of her petition by her own testimony, as well as that of her father and mother, with one or two other witnesses. The substance of the plaintiff's evidence was to the effect that the defendant had not contributed to her support since June of 1911, and since that time he had resided with his parents near Murray, and she had gone to her former home with her parents.

The plaintiff had introduced all of her evidence before 2 o'clock, when the defendant began to introduce testimony on his cross-petition, which prays a divorce on the ground of cruelty. The defendant testified in his own behalf, and his mother, Mrs. D. Young, his sisters, Lena and Clara Young, Miss Esther Smith, Miss Moore, Postmaster Baker of Murray and others testified for the defendant. The acts of cruelty testified to by all of the witnesses, except Mr. Baker, who was put on the stand to show the mental condition of defendant, consisted of sullen conduct on the part of the plaintiff toward defendant, and many scenes where defendant was "jawed" extensively. On one occasion the date alleged in the cross-petition that defendant was driven from home, the plaintiff is said to have remarked that she "had a shotgun in the room and that she was going to use it, too." The testimony was to the effect that plaintiff started to get the gun, but it was taken from her before the defendant's life blood was spilled. At a time previous to this defendant had announced his intention of going over to the Missouri river, when his wife cruelly refused to allow him to go, and he did not go. It was also in the evidence that the plaintiff on one occasion called the defendant "a liar," or words to that effect.

Miss Moore was present on one occasion when plaintiff would not speak to her husband when he returned from town with oysters, and although there were guests in the house plaintiff refused to make the oyster soup. The witness was prevailed upon by defendant to fry the oysters, when the defendant made no protest to eating a part of them. There were other acts of cruelty detailed in the testimony, but nothing more sensational than already referred to.

The court adjourned at 5 o'clock to meet at 10 this morning, when the plaintiff expected to produce some rebuttal testimony.

The arguments of attorneys took up most of the forenoon today and the case was submitted to the court, who took the matter under advisement and a decision may be handed down Monday.

Quarry Man Hit by Train.

Thursday evening about 6 o'clock a work train in charge of Conductor Terry brought a man by the name of George Brown to town, alleging they had found him beside the track a mile west of here. The fellow, who is an employee of the west quarry, had a bad gash in the back of his head and was unconscious. He was at first supposed to have fallen against a tie and injured himself, and as he had three quarts of whisky along it was thought he was mostly drunk, but later developments show that the train that brought him in had evidently hit him, as he did not regain his faculties for several days.—Nebraska News.

Thirty Years Ago.

The following item occurred in the "Thirty Years Ago" column of the Omaha Bee: "The wonders of the telephone were illustrated by a long distance connection that enabled people in Omaha to talk to Plattsmouth." J. W. Cutright, then city editor of the Plattsmouth Journal, was the man rung up.

Mr. Frank Cole, who is attending the state university at Lincoln, was in attendance at the marriage of his brother, A. G. Cole, and was a guest of the Travis home.

J. W. GRASSMAN IS LAID AT REST

Laid to Rest Wednesday Afternoon in the Presence of Many Friends and Relatives.

The funeral of J. W. Grassman occurred Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from his late residence on South Tenth street, and was largely attended by old-time associates, neighbors and friends, who came to show their respect for one whom they had long known and highly esteemed. The service was conducted by Rev. L. W. Gade and Rev. W. L. Austin and was very impressive. The music was furnished by a quartet from the Presbyterian church, composed of Miss Mathilda Valley, Miss Frances Weidman, G. L. Farley and J. E. Douglass, the hymns being favorites of the deceased, and were, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," "Abide With Me" and "Nearer My God to Thee."

Rev. Austin read from the scripture and offered prayer, Rev. Gade spoke from a passage of the scripture found in Job and spoke words of comfort to the bereaved family and relatives of the deceased. He dwelt upon the virtues of the man, Rev. Gade having called upon him recently, during his sickness, when Mr. Grassman expressed himself as being prepared to die. The minister drew lessons from the experiences of all mortals and their environment, all subjects to the same law of change, and he offered words of cheer in the thought that the future home would be so much better and more beautiful than this earthly home; that to reach the blest abode and to have the attributes of mind and soul to fit men for the future life is what we most need now.

The pall-bearers were selected from the M. W. A. camp, of which Mr. Grassman was a member, and were: John Jess, George Lushinsky, Mont Robb, Jr., William Rothman, Harry Kruger and Henry Goos. The order had charge of the service at the grave. Interment was made at Oak Hill cemetery.

Blackberry Crop Saved.

From Saturday's Daily.

Although the local strawberry crop may not amount to much on account of the protracted drought, it is a foregone conclusion that the copious showers of last night will be the making of your Uncle Jim Thomas' blackberry crop. The Burlington gauge showed one and three-quarters inches of rainfall, and the rain must have been general over eastern Nebraska. Charles Richey, who spent the night with his brother, telephoned to Louisville this morning and got the information that the rain had wet the ground to a depth of six inches. E. M. Godwin was in front of his farm, several miles out, and from appearances the rain was harder two or three miles west of town than here. The wheat and oats will be materially benefited, as well as pastures and corn fields.

He Didn't Advertise.

Below is printed an item that has been going the rounds of the press for some time past—an item that contains a truth that is only too true. Read it:

A hardware merchant went home to supper one night and a new silver percolator was on the table. He asked his wife where she got it and she said: "Why, dear, I selected it out of Smith's catalogue, and it only cost me $4.25 and the express." Of course the husband was mad in a moment and said: "Why in the deuce didn't you tell me you wanted the thing? I have lots of them in my store and they only cost me $3." Then his wife handed him one like this: "Well, John, if you would advertise once in a while so the people would know you were still in business maybe the people wouldn't send away for so much stuff."

CONGRESS SHINE IN SUSPENDERS

Must Be Getting Very Warm in Washington When Congressmen Pull Their Coats.

The thermometer is accomplishing more than public sentiment ever can in bringing to a close the sessions of congress. The report is finding its way into the newspapers that congressmen are removing their coats, legislating in their shirt sleeves, even with suspenders displayed to the shocked eyes of the newly-wed bride in the gallery.

One may sympathize with the sufferings of legislators who reach the climax of their work in a hot city. One may deplore the tendency to over formality, by which our Smart Sets impose uncomfortable restrictions. Yet if the visible suspender habit is permissible in congress, why not in the pulpit? Shall the man of God remove the funeral Jim swagger coat which custom has placed upon his back, and permit the congregation to be distracted by the lack of harmony between his red and green suspenders and his blue negligee shirt?

It may be remarked that if the congressmen had pushed the law-making machine as you would run a factory, a session's work would have already been ground out, so that they could go home. Furthermore, how long will it be, in these days of unrest, before our congressmen will be satisfied with any such comparatively standpat position as removing only their coats and waistcoats?

Mrs. McHugh and Mrs. O'Rourke went to South Bend yesterday and spent the night with Jerry McHugh and family, returning this morning. Mrs. Jerry McHugh and son accompanied the ladies to Plattsburgh for a short visit.

Ruffner Wins Three Firsts.

At the annual opening of the Omaha Rod and Gun club's sporting events on Carter lake Memorial day, Horace Ruffner, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Ruffner of this city, distinguished himself by winning three first prizes. In two of the events he was accompanied by Barrowman, namely "men's canoe doubles" and "canoe tilting contest." In the "hurdy-gurdy race" Horace was alone. The last is the most difficult of any of the feats performed by the oarsmen. In this event the contestants start several feet back from the shore and with their sixteen-foot canoes and oars in their hands run for the water, leaping into their canoe, row a distance, dive into the lake, coming up on the opposite side of the canoe, climb into the boat and row away. This is the second season Mr. Ruffner has won in this difficult contest.

Warning to Wife-Beaters.

There are a few men in Plattsburgh who do not, evidently, understand the severity of the law in reference to wife-beating. We have heard of complaints coming from several neighbors of wife-beating, not only once or twice, but it is of frequent occurrence. No names will be mentioned now, but they are liable to become public property when they get on the court records, which is very apt to occur if such disgraceful things happen again. We are requested to give fair warning, as the neighbors do not propose to put up with it any longer.

DeLong Goes to Havelock.

George DeLong, who has been foreman of the Burlington machine shop for the past two years, has resigned his position to accept a similar position at Havelock. Superintendent Baird has accepted the resignation of Mr. DeLong and he will begin his duties in his new position Monday next. No one has yet been appointed to succeed him in the local shops.

PLAY AND DANCE A GREAT SUCCESS

The Operetta and Dance at T. J. Sokol Hall Wednesday Night, May 29.

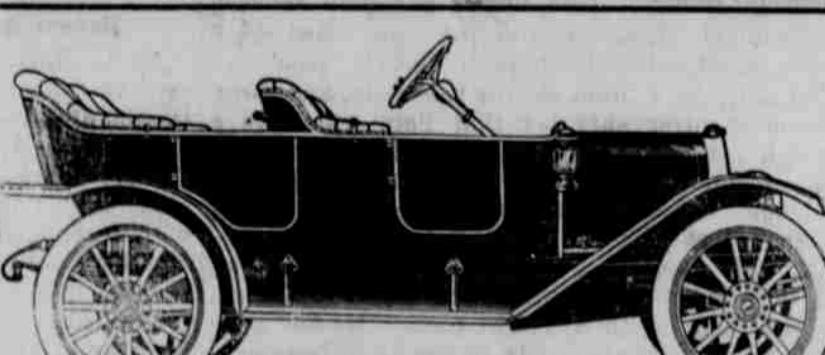

The operetta and dance at the T. J. Sokol hall last Wednesday night were both grand successes. The play was entitled "Bohemian Amazons, or Women Suffragettes" and was given by Bohemian home talent. Every member of the cast of characters played their parts fine and merited the applause each won by their natural true to nature acting. A large attendance was present and everyone was much pleased with the manner in which the local players acquitted themselves.

The dance after the play was also largely attended and was a most enjoyable event. The music was furnished by the M. W. A. orchestra, which played all of the latest thrillers. Financially and socially the evening was a great success. On Memorial day the T. J. Sokols gave a fine picnic in their park, and during the afternoon a large crowd attended. A platform dance was an enjoyable feature of the afternoon and evening. The Burlington Route band furnished the music for the dance. The best of order prevailed and the event was one of much pleasure and enjoyment to all who were present.

Sustained Serious Fall.

Mr. Bergren sustained a bad fall at Mynard this morning while making his way hurriedly to the station to catch the morning train home. He had been working for Baxter Smith on the W. T. Richardson dwelling, and the rain having interfered with work today he started for the depot and heard the train whistle, and he began to run and slipped in such a manner as to throw him to the ground, injuring his leg.
