SUNDAY SERVICES HELD IN THE VARIOUS PLATTSMOUTH CHURCHES

Services at the Methodist Notable For the Receiving of Forty New Members, Thirty of Them Adults—Rev. Zink Addresses the Odd Fellows at the Christian—J. W. Gamble Speaks to Christian Endeavors at the Presbyterian.

The morning service at the First Methodist church yesterday was one which will be memorable in the history of the church and one which brought an hour of unusual pleasure and spiritual uplift to both pastor and people. As the result of a quiet but faithful effort of the pastor, Rev. Austin, a class of forty, thirty of whom were adults, was received into the communion of the church.

The service was one of the most impressive and devotional ever held in the church. It was conducted by the pastor in a manner completely exemplifying the beautiful and sacred rites of the ritual in the sacraments of baptism, the reception into membership and at last the administration of the Lord's Supper. The congregation was large, considering the inclement weather, and to this cause may be attributed the absence of many members, as well as about fifteen others of the class for membership, who were detained.

Such an occasion as this speaks much for the steady growth of the church, both numerically and spiritually, and is gratifying indeed to the pastor, whose faithful labors in the pulpit and personal work find here their rich reward.

The Children's day exercises drew a large congregation in the evening, the auditorium and the lecture room both being filled to their full seating capacity. The exercises were of great interest, and to the committee, composed of Miss Balsler, Miss Edna Morrison and Miss Violet Freese, is due much credit for their painstaking training of the children in their various songs, recitation and dialogues.

A collection was taken for a fund which is used to educate deserving young people who have not the ready means to procure tuition and books with. Mrs. R. B. Hayes made a short talk while the envelopes were being passed, telling how great a benefit the fund is. The money being loaned to individuals applying for it without interest, to be returned to the fund within two years after the student can earn the money. Mrs. Hayes borrowed from the fund while taking her college course and appreciated the advantage very much. The collection plates were then passed by members of the Sunday school and the offerings taken.

Secretary Wescott, before the exercises closed, took the opportunity to invite any who were present who were not members of any other Sunday school to become a member of his school. The average attendance for the past quarter was 227, but he would like to see this increased.

At the Christian Church.

At the morning service Rev. A. L. Zink preached a memorial sermon for the I. O. O. F., which order attended the service in a body, and before the service at the church a committee of the lodge went to the cemetery and decorated with flowers the graves of deceased brothers. The special music consisted of anthems by the choir and a solo by Miss Gertrude Steiner. Rev. Zink delivered an eloquent address, referring to the visit of the members to the silent city of the dead, where the tombs of their dead friends and brothers had been strewn with flowers of memory, and spoke feelingly of the friendly ties existing between brethren of the order, and said: "In thus putting our trust in this friendly order we are not deprived of any conformity to religion, to the laws of our country or the duty we owe ourselves. We can only be Odd Fellows when we act like honest men. In our lodge we do not attach undue importance to outward appearance, for often men are not what they seem to be."

At the Presbyterian Church.

Children's day exercises were held at the regular hour of the Sunday school and consisted of music, drills, recitations and songs by the younger members of the school. A collection was taken for the benefit of the Sunday school extension fund. At the morning service Rev. Gade preached to a good-sized congregation, considering the threatening weather. The special music consisted of an anthem by the choir, the solo part being sung by Miss Mathilda Vallery. At the evening service the Y. P. S. C. E. had charge of the service, and the meeting was addressed by former Superintendent of City Schools J. W. Gamble. Mr. Gamble is an entertaining speaker, and many of his friends took advantage of the opportunity to hear him again. His subject for last evening was, "Conservation of Health and Prevention of Loss by Fire," which proved very interesting to all present, and especially to the fire boys, who attended in a body.

From Valyrang, Neb.

The Journal is in receipt of a letter from Mrs. S. E. Carrigan, of Valyrang, Neb., in which she encloses $1.50 for another year's subscription to the Semi-Weekly Journal. She also states that she is getting along nicely in her present home and is in every way enjoying life and the best of health.

Louis Marquardt and Dietrich Koester of Avoca returned today to continue jury service in the district court.

PLAN FOR NARROWING PLATTE RIVER CHANNEL

Engineer Gerber Makes Report to State Railway Commission of Investigations Made.

A special from Lincoln says that the narrowing of the Platte river channel and subsequent confining of the river to a small area of bed, involving considerable expense, but which would be extremely profitable to the people of the state, is the subject of a report just made to the state railway commission by one of its most proficient engineers, C. H. Gerber. Mr. Gerber has made many investigations along the old stream and he has spent a great deal of time forecasting the outcome of the work should his advice in the matter be followed.

Among other things, the railway commission's expert believes that a channel from 50 to 800 feet wide could be made to contain all the water that now wanders aimlessly over some 2,000 to 3,000 feet in river bed width. He believes that the decreased cost arising by reason of the shortened bridges would alone pay for the work and that part of the present bed of the river would be reclaimed to the amount of several thousand acres of land from Fort Laramie to the mouth of the stream. This narrowing and straightening of the river, according to Mr. Gerber, has been too long delayed and should be taken up within the next few years.

Mr. Geber's plan contemplates merely the placing of obstruction in the river bed in such places that when the river itself forms sand bars it will have done a great deal of the work through its own force. While engineers have been studying power problems on the Platte in the past few months, Mr. Greber has been ferreting out ways of preventing floods and of making the river generally more useful and less expensive to the people of the state.

Mr. Pollock Returned Today.

T. H. Pollock returned from Kansas City this morning via Omaha, the good roads booster car having reached Omaha on the return trip at 4 o'clock this morning. Mr. Pollock spoke very highly of the reception accorded the good roads boosters at every town they made. The schedule was found to be a little slow and longer time was used in some towns than was expected when the party left Omaha. At Atchison they were met some distance out of the city by members of the Commercial club and were given a hearty welcome. The party was taken to the Elks' club rooms, where Mayor Walter and Governor Stubbs both made extended addresses.

At Kansas City, Kansas, and in Kansas City, Missouri, the reception accorded the party was very warm and everything was done to welcome the boosters. The dailies in the city all devoted quite an amount of space to the visitors and encouraged them in their good mission. The Kansas City Post took a picture of the party and their car and placed a four-column cut, which distinctly shows the features of each member of the Omaha party, with Mr. Pollock of Plattsmouth well in the foreground, designating Mr. Pollock as the builder of a $25,000 wagon bridge over the Platte river, shortening the route from Omaha to Kansas City thirty-five miles. The party was royally received and treated by the Commercial club of Kansas City. On their return trip the party encountered muddy roads from Leavenworth to St. Joseph, but after that the road was good.

Stands Operation Well.

Judge Travis returned from Omaha on No. 24, where he was present while his son, Raymond, was operated on for appendicitis this morning. The young man stood the operation well and was doing nicely when the Judge left him about noon, but he was not yet free from the influence of the ether. Judge Travis returned to hold court this afternoon and returned to Omaha on the M. P. at 5 o'clock.

A Decided Improvement.

Sam Smith has been making some changes in the old livery barn headquarters of so many years standing on the corner of Sixth and Vine streets, in making preparations for the opening of the Warga & Cecil garage, which will be known as the Plattsmouth Garage company. The new firm are to take possession this week, which necessitates rapid work for the needed repairs. A new concrete floor has been laid in the front portion of the building, nearly fifty feet square, which is to be used as a working and repair room, also for the receiving of machines left in their care. The interior of this portion of the building will be treated with a coat of paint. A new door will be cut in the south side for a Vine street entrance, and when completed the old building will surely present a decided change for the better.

Sunday Visitors in Plattsmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Domingo and youngest daughter, from two miles northeast of Weeping Water, came up Saturday afternoon from their home to spend Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Ray Smith. The Journal is pleased to acknowledge a pleasant call from Mr. Domingo, who, in company with his old neighbor of nearly thirty years ago, George Rhoden, our fellow townsman, paid us a brief visit in the afternoon. Jacob Domingo is one of the pioneer and most highly respected farmers of Cass county and the Journal is pleased to number him among our friends and readers.

Lawn Social at Mynard.

A social will be given on the lawn of Robert Propst on Saturday evening, June 15, for the benefit of the Mynard baseball club. Ice cream and cake will be served, and everybody is invited to come and enjoy a nice, social time.
