CASE BEFORE JUDGE

ARCHER FROM CEDAR CREEK

W. W. Sanders vs. Mrs. Harris was the title of a case on trial before Judge Archer Saturday afternoon. The suit was one in replevin and the goods had been appraised at about $56. The property included a cook range, four chairs, an extension table and bedding and other articles. The defendant keeps a hotel at Cedar Creek and the plaintiff and family had been boarders there, but some misunderstanding arose and the plaintiff and family sought other quarters. The defendant claimed to have purchased the furniture from plaintiff and her testimony was corroborated in part by Miss Galloway, one of the defendant's witnesses. The plaintiff was represented by D. O. Dwyer and defendant by W. A. Robertson, of the firm of Rawls & Robertson.

After deliberating upon the case until today, Judge Archer handed down a decision holding that the plaintiff was entitled to the goods and should retain them under the writ and ordered each party to pay the costs made by them.

Notice!

There will be a meeting of the members of the Farmers' Mutual Fire and Live Stock Insurance company of Cass County at Heil's school house, District No. 88, Wednesday, August 7 at 1:30 p. m. for the purpose of electing officers and transacting such other business as may legally come before the meeting.

Jacob Tritsch, President.
J. P. Falter, Secretary.

Misses Jessie Fox and Bessie DellesDernier were Omaha passengers this afternoon, where they visited friends for a few hours.

In Police Court.

Levi Patton was observed on the street Saturday having frequent and animated conversations with men of various political views, and from the trend of his conversation one might infer that Levi expected to meet with the Chicago convention today. His manner of walking was somewhat unsteady, and as the day dragged on it appeared to grow worse instead of better, until at last the police gathered Levi in and allowed him to rest in the city prison until this morning, when he was arraigned before Judge Archer as a plain drunk. He was given further time in the city prison to reflect and get his political bearings once more.

Visits Brother at Malvern.

Dr. E. W. Cook and wife and M. S. Briggs motored to Malvern, Iowa, yesterday in the doctor's car, where they visited Dr. Cook's brother for the day. The trip was without incident until the party reached the grade leading from the ferry landing on this side of the river, when the engine refused to further transmit power. The Parmele barn was called up and Neils Renner went to the assistance of the party with a team of horses. The time required in bringing the travelers to the city was about twenty minutes.

Entertained Week-End Party.

Mr. Louie Todd of near Nehawka entertained at a week-end party Saturday night and Sunday about twenty-five or thirty members of the Omaha Symphony Study Orchestra. Seven automobiles arrived in the city Saturday afternoon and met the visitors at the Burlington station. The following named prominent Nehawka citizens had their cars here at the service of the orchestra: Dave West, V. P. Sheldon, F. P. Sheldon, Charles Merrill, Ed Hadley, Good Todd and Louie Todd.

Meek Davis of near Murray was a passenger to Omaha this afternoon.

A JOKE IN WHICH THERE WAS NO JOKE VISABLE

Plattsmouth, Neb., July 31. Leader-Echo, Elmwood, Neb.:

Friend Clark—I have read your article about me in your last issue; also copy of same in Plattsmouth Journal. It was probably intended as a joke, but the joker was left out. The article was deceptive, misleading and insulting. People that are not personally acquainted with me and do not understand the facts will be misled. You certainly have done me an injustice and the article should be corrected so that people will understand that it was only a joke. If you had tried, do not believe you could have made it more libelous. Yours truly,
Allen J. Beeson.

As the Journal published the article referred to above, we owe Judge Beeson an apology for so doing. We are in the habit of recopying such articles from our county exchanges and must confess that we did not really note how the article sounded until after it was in print. And supposing the originator of the same would make some sort of an apology for such a bad break, we waited to copy the apology, the same as we did the first article. The original article was gotten up in such shape that it really did cast some reflections upon the Judge, and those who are not acquainted with him would look upon it in a different light from those who know him so well. So we hope Judge Beeson will accept our apology, which is given in good faith.

MEETS FORMER PLATTSMOUTH BOYS OUT WEST

George Mann of the Journal force returned last week from a four weeks' visit in Buffalo and surrounding counties in northwestern Nebraska. While in North Platte he met three former Plattsmouth men—Fred W. Warren, Jay Johnson and H. R. Reece—and together, on the invitation of Judge Fred W. Warren, the party went to the Jap cafe and dined sumptuously. It was an enjoyable reunion of old-time Plattsmouth men and they passed the time very pleasantly recounting their experiences of former days. Fred W. Warren is a brother of Frank Warren of this city and is a candidate for congress in the Sixth congressional district on the socialist ticket. He was elected police judge on that ticket at North Platte some time ago and is very popular there. He is a good orator and wide-awake. His republican opponent in the race is Congressman Kinkaid, author of the Kinkaid homestead bill, increasing the entry which a homesteader can take from a fourth to a whole section of land.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE OPENED TO DAY

Institute Opens Very Auspiciously

With Largest First Day Attendance in Years.

The county superintendent, Miss Mary E. Foster, has the smile that will not rub off. The annual session of the county teachers opened most auspiciously this morning with an enrollment of 85—about twenty more than there has ever been before on the opening day. Aside from that all of the instructors were Johnny-on-the-spot and the session opened with the greatest display of enthusiasm.

The clouds were mighty black early in the day and it looked as though King Jupiter Pluvius was going to do his worst. But later he thought better of the matter and now everyone is rejoicing that the rain came. All of the teachers are looking forward eagerly to the reception to be held tonight on the Westcott-Abbott lawn just across the street from the High school. This reception is tendered by the Commercial club. All friends of the Cass county teachers are invited to come out, listen to the band, eat the refreshments and make the school ma'ams feel that they are welcome. This is the time to show that Plattsmouth knows how to show the glad hand to invited guests.

The singing by the institute to start the work was especially good. Miss Pyrtle, who has the direction of this work, was remarkably pleased that all took hold with such spirit.

The second period was devoted to reading by Superintendent Abbott. Mr. Abbott developed the importance of reading, its intimate relation to every other subject taught in the schools, and its relation to a number of other important means of expression.

Superintendent Waterhouse insisted, in an admirable and clean-cut exposition, that writing is not taught as it should be taught and that through conscious effort constantly applied it might be improved. It is a subject of grave importance and watchfulness on the part of teachers which ought to be exerted all of the time. In that way only can we make our pupils good writers.

Miss Pyrtle, in her second period, talked about the splendid opportunity teachers have of interesting the little people by telling stories well and having the children learn to tell stories. The dramatic spirit is strong in these little tots and the most splendid results can frequently be obtained by having them dramatize.

When Dr. Winship arrived, during Superintendent Waterhouse's speech, there was a hearty round of applause. Mr. Waterhouse had just asked the question in relation to the subject he was discussing: "What have we now?" when he turned and saw Dr. Winship, and he answered his own question, "I see we have Dr. Winship." The opening of this course of lectures by this great and distinguished lecturer was listened to with breathless attention. Before his course is over it is hoped that the High school auditorium will be packed from every one of his addresses. While they are prepared primarily for the teachers they will have such broad and vital interest that people outside the teaching profession will find them full of inspiration and good cheer. His purpose in the course as stated in this initial address will be the helping of all individually to be broader and bigger men and women and wiser and more devoted teachers. His illustrations, taken from base ball and the school room, were all given with a zest and earnestness that made all feel it was mighty good to be there. In telling of the chance young teachers have for success, he declared that they must keep their heads and not get rattled. "Better be a tailender and keep your head than a champion team and get rattled."

The program for Tuesday, August 6, is as follows:
FORENOON.
8:30 to 9—Music—Miss Pyrtle.
9 to 9:30—Reading—Superintendent Abbott, "The Love of Good Books."
9:30 to 10:10—Address—Dr. Winship, "Suggestions as to Number Teaching."
10:10 to 10:40—Convocation.
10:40 to 11:20—"Dramatizing, etc." Miss Pyrtle.

2:15 to 2:55—Address, "The

VERY SERIOUS ACCIDENT WEST OF MURRAY LAST SATURDAY EVENING

Fred and Walter Engelkemeier Were Driving Home in Spring Wagon, When an Automobile Came Along at Usual Speed

Scaring their Team, Which Ran Away, Throwing Both Out—Fred Seriously Injured.

Last Thursday Fred and Walter Engelkemeier, sons of August Engelkemeier, were driving home from Murray in a light spring wagon, when about a mile and a quarter west of that village they met an automobile, which frightened the team so badly that it soon became unmanageable and ran away, throwing the young men out and knocking the breath out of Fred, who alighted on his stomach.

The occupants of the auto did not stop to render any assistance, but disappeared over the hill toward Murray. Dr. Gilmore was summoned and found Fred lying on the ground still unconscious and unable to breathe. The doctor administered restoratives and revived the injured young man and took the two to their home.

When the doctor returned to Murray he ascertained that the occupants of the automobile were two prominent citizens of Malvern, Iowa—Mr. Caldwell, a real estate dealer, and Mr. Wortman, editor of the Malvern Leader. At the request of Mr. Engelkemeier, Doctor Gilmore called up Mr. Caldwell and informed him of what had happened and that the young man was badly hurt. Mr. Caldwell expressed great surprise, stating that he noticed the team shy, but had no idea that it had run away, and informed Dr. Gilmore that he and Mr. Wortman would start at once in his car for Murray, and if the doctor could go out with them they would see Mr. Engelkemeier and his son at once and fix the matter up.

They did so, and with Dr. Gilmore went to the Engelkemeier home and offered to do anything in their power to make the matter right. However the matter turns out, it will be conceded that Messrs. Caldwell and Wortman have been gentlemanly and acted on the square, and as soon as they knew of damage having resulted did all they could to rectify it. Their actions in the matter show that they are honorable men and have not tried to avoid liability should they be found to have been at fault.

School, Home and Neighborhood," Dr. Winship.

2:55 to 3:25—Address, "Fair Play in the School Room," Superintendent A. H. Waterhouse. Everybody invited.

MISS LUCILLE BRYAN AN UNFORTUNATE YOUNG LADY

Miss Lucille Bryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bryan, of the vicinity of South Bend, last September, while playing at school, dislocated her hip. She was taken to a hospital at Kirksville, Missouri, and remained there for about seven weeks. When she came home she wore a cast for a month and walked about with the aid of a pair of crutches for about two months. To her parents and friends she seemed to be apparently well, but about four weeks ago she partially dislocated the hip again and had to return to the hospital. It would be well for the boys and girls to take warning from this sad incident and be very careful in their play, as a little thing sometimes causes much trouble. Lucille is 13 years of age.

The Drayman Surprised.

Claus Boetel, sr., was quite agreeably surprised this morning, when he went to his barn to hitch the sorrel to his dray wagon. His sons had, unknown to Mr. Boetel, given his wagon a brand new coat of paint, making the box black and the wheels yellow, with large lettered signs on side and rear to attract attention to his line. "Baggage," in white letters, decorated the side of the box, and "Dray" the endgate, on both inside and outside, so that whether the endgate is up or down the "Dray" is always in plain sight. New wheels have been placed on the wagon and it now appears one of the neatest in the business. Mr. Boetel expects to keep right along with the procession, regardless of the pace, and folks may as well understand this now and begin to fall in line with their baggage.

Will Move Near Plattsmouth.

George Schiessl, from near Greenwood, was in the city several days last week visiting with a number of his old Plattsmouth friends and making arrangements for moving to this end of the county in the near future. He has rented the J. P. Falter farm west of this city and will move thereto this fall. While here Mr. Schiessl called at this office to renew his subscription to the Journal. He is an excellent farmer and we are glad to welcome him to this end of the county.

$7,000.00 Wanted.

$7,000.00 cheap private money for a customer. Good real estate security. See me quick. For March 1st, 1913.

C. F. Harris, Union, Neb.

John Loberg of Nehawka was a Plattsmouth visitor today and a caller at the county attorney's office on important business.

AMENDMENT TO THE BANK GUARANTEE LAW

An amendment to the present bank guaranty deposit law, designating what should be done with the accumulated money in the guaranty fund when a bank voluntarily liquidates, is needed in this state, according to E. Royse, secretary of the state banking board. Mr. Royse contends that if the law contemplates that the fund is to remain intact and inviolate after it has reached its utmost proportions then it should be set out explicitly in the provisions of the guaranty statute. If, however, the law intends that the banks of the state shall set aside this fund as long as they do business, and once provisions of the guaranty statute. If, however, the law inholders, the state banking official believes that the provisions of the law should be made plainer so that courts would have no difficulty in solving possible litigation.

RESIDENCE ON WINTERSTEEN HILL DESTROYED BY FIRE

The Occupant Has Narrow Escape From Being Burned—Most of Contents Saved.

Fire broke out about 5 o'clock Sunday morning at the home of Mrs. Kuchinsky in the East Fourth ward. When the fire was discovered by the neighbors Mrs. Kuchinsky was yet asleep in her bed and it was with much difficulty that she was aroused and rescued from the burning building. The building, a three-room cottage, was totally destroyed. It is said that fully twenty-five minutes elapsed after the fire was discovered before the alarm was sounded. All this time was spent in trying to telephone the alarm to the party at the whistle.

The company did good work when they arrived and prevented the fire from spreading to other properties in the vicinity. The hose cart on Wintersteen Hill came in good play and there is no doubt but the building would have been saved had the alarm been turned in promptly. The origin of the fire is a mystery and it seemed to have started in the bedroom where Mrs. Kuchinsky lay asleep.

Almost all of the furniture was saved, but the bedding was burned. Fire brands were falling on Mrs. Kuchinsky when she was awakened by the neighbors. There was no fire in her stove and the lids were off the stove when it was carried from the building.
