SOME BALL PLAYING AT THE LOUISVILLE CARNIVAL

Cedar Creek Don't Give Manley a Look-in at Big Game at the Louisville Carnival.

One of the most enthusiastic games of base ball ever pulled off at the Louisville ball park was between the two little burghs of Cedar Creek and Manley. A ball team cannot always be measured by the size of a town, which was plainly evident at this clash.

At the beginning Manley rooters were strong in their belief that Cedar Creek's machine would crumble before such a fire as was expected from the talented Mr. Cunningham from Omaha, who was on the mound, but when the ever true Mr. Conner's south paw got wound up and let loose of some of his reserves of slants and smoke it looked as though there were others at their posts, which fact became more evident as the game proceeded. It was a pretty battle from the mound until the fourth inning, when, with two men down and two and nothing on the batter, the famous Mr. Cunningham presented Wolff with a walk.

Conner was the next on the batting order and he laced out a neat little single, placing a man on first and second with the big chief, Mr. McKeag, at the bat. True to his name, the stalker Indian wielded his club with the accuracy of a Roman and the ball went sizzling through the opening between first and second base and Wolff and Conner both came marching home "with the bacon."

There were two men down in Manley's half of the fourth inning, when Weeping Water's star, Mr. Klipsper, made an attempt to pilfer second base, but was caught by four feet, when a very rank decision, which was later acknowledged by the umpire, game him life and made it possible for Manley's only scores to come in. This fact remains undisputed by all fair-minded fans who witnessed the game, and therefore they claim it a shutout in reality. There was never another chance for Manley to score.

Mr. Durkee, an ex-Storz Triumph, was there and over on the shortstop line for Manley, but he, too, humbled himself before the slants of Mr. Conner. The Cedar Creek machinery was working so smoothly that even the fleet-footed Mr. Routh and Mr. O'Brien were stabbed by a good margin in their attempt to steal second base.

The whole team played a wonderful game and without the excusable errors in the outfield it would have been without a taint. Again in the seventh the first man up hit for two sacks and was followed by the topnotchers on Cedar Creek's batting list with bingles until the bases were choked, with the little 18-year-old Walter Salberg at the bat. Well, he just slipped a beautiful one over the infield and scored two, making his second hit in the game and bringing in three runs in all, which is not so bad for a minor.

There were but seven of Manley's men who were allowed a berth on the initial bag, and three of this number were caught at second attempting to pilfer. Score by innings:

Cedar Creek	1 0 2 0 0 0 3 0	6

Batteries—Manley, Chamberlain and O'Brien; Cedar Creek, Conner and Wolff. Hits—Manley, 2; Cedar Creek, 9. Errors—Manley, 4; Cedar Creek, 2.

There was plenty of Irish coin behind the famous aggregation and the Louisville sports were loath to get it covered, as their judgment, as usual, was very good and a neat little was cleaned up. There are two vital points to beware of before entering into a real battle—over-confidence and underestimating the enemy's strength.

At 2:30 the Cedar Creek aggregation went on the field for the second encounter of the day and were represented on the mound by the big chief, Mr. McKeag, who hurled beautiful ball for five innings, that being all he would go, as he had a game to pitch the following day. The sixth was where the youngsters went to pieces, when the locals, with but one hit, put four scores across the platter. Two hits in the seventh allowed the second earned run for the locals, the first earned run being a homer by Osonkop in the second inning. Cedar Creek played a hard game after the bad inning and scored in every inning but the last.

There is one thing that must be

PENROSE TELLS OF OIL CASH

Explains to Senate What He Did With $25,000.

PART OF LARGE CONTRIBUTION

Says Standard Oil Gave $150,000 to Elect Roosevelt—Asserts Flinn Offered Him Two Millions to Be Senator—Editor Also Object of Attack.

Washington, Aug. 22.—In a careful, deliberate speech in the senate Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania replied to the charges made regarding a certificate of deposit for $25,000 sent him by John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil company in 1904.

Senator Penrose admitted receiving that sum from Mr. Archbold, but said it was part of a collection of a contribution of $150,000 made by Archbold to the Republican national campaign, $100,000 of which amount he said went to the Republican national committee and $50,000 to himself for use in Pennsylvania.

"Theodore Roosevelt had been advised of the contribution," Senator Penrose declared.

He said that later Cornelius N. Bliss, then treasurer of the national committee, asked for another contribution of $150,000 from Archbold and his associates "interested in the Standard Oil company."

"The demand was urgent, insistent—I may say imperative—and it was reported it came direct from Roosevelt," declared Senator Penrose, forcefully.

William Flinn, Roosevelt leader in Pennsylvania, was accused by Penrose. The senator charged that in 1904 Flinn offered him and Israel W. Durham $1,000,000 or $2,000,000 if they would favor his candidacy to the senate to succeed Senator Quay. Senator Penrose read what purported to be copies of telegrams to show that Flinn asked John D. Archbold to assist him in securing the election.

Editor Object of Attack.

Senator Penrose also attacked E. A. Van Valkenberg, editor of the Pennsylvania North American, and referred to the "effrontery, hypocrisy and mendacity of the Van Valkenberg-Flinn combination."

The galleries of the senate were filled in response to the announcement that Senator Penrose was to speak. He read his speech from printed proofs. At the conclusion of his speech the senator promised further disclosures. Senator Stone (Mo.) asked him if he knew anything of the contribution of E. H. Harriman to the 1904 Republican campaign fund.

"The papers are on file and letters exist," said Senator Penrose, "which I think during the campaign will see the light of day. I think it would be very beneficial to the country if they should become public."

"Where are they now?" asked Senator Stone.

"They are hidden in the archives of the campaign committee, in the cellars and vaults of business men and in the offices of lawyers," retorted Senator Penrose. "I think the time has come when these charges should be met and the American people should no longer be gulled by answers which insinuate that another man is a liar."

Quotes Roosevelt Interview.

Penrose had read by the clerk a newspaper interview with Colonel Roosevelt, in which the latter was quoted as saying that Penrose had nothing to do with the presidential campaign in 1904. The senator said he was a member of the national committee, chairman of the Pennsylvania state committee and conducted the campaign in Pennsylvania.

"Mr. President, is this ingratitude, mendacity or political aphasia?" he demanded.

A ripple of laughter greeted this question and Penrose seized his big palm leaf fan and settled into his seat.

Senator Bacon asked to whom the $2,000,000 was to be paid by the "citizen who wanted to be elected to the senate?"

"I suppose either Mr. Durham or myself," responded Mr. Penrose. "We did not get that far in the consideration of the business."

Senator Culberson (Tex.), seeing psychological opportunity, immediately called up his bill forbidding campaign contributions by corporations and limiting the amount to be contributed by individuals to $5,000.

A filibuster developed and after a half dozen roll calls on it the senate was forced to adjourn.

Warren and Mondell Renominated.

Cheney, Wyo., Aug. 22.—It is considered certain that Senator Warren and Representative Mondell were renominated by the Republicans and John B. Kendrick for senator and T. P. Fahy for congress were selected by the Democrats in the primary.

Kansas Bank Defaulter Captured.

Topeka, Aug. 22.—John A. Flack, wanted on a charge of having defaulted $75,000 of the funds of the Abilene State bank, of which he was cashier, has been captured in New York city, according to information received by J. N. Dolley, state bank commissioner.
