Mr. Charles Swan fell from a load of hay last Thursday and was quite severely injured. He fell several feet and struck on the back of his head and shoulders, causing a concussion of the brain and spine. His condition was quite serious, but hopes are entertained for his recovery. He was at the home of his son, Winfield Swan.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrissey went to Omaha Tuesday morning for a brief visit. A special meeting of the Royal Highlanders will be held on Thursday evening of this week, which will complete Mr. and Mrs. Morrissey's work in this territory for the present. They have certainly done some excellent work here during their few weeks' stay and have made many friends, who will regret to see them leave. They have added about thirty-five new members to the order.

Too Much Advertising.

In last week's issue of the Journal we made mention of James Brown being in possession of the recipe, or prescription, with which George Berger, at Ness City, Kansas, had so successfully handled and saved his horses from the recent mysterious disease. Here we said that Mr. Brown would willingly give the same to any of his neighbors who might apply. There is where we got Mr. Brown into trouble—either lots of work or employ a stenographer to answer the many letters and telephone calls. He was unable to copy the same for so many, and he has consented to send us a copy of it to either publish or keep on file in this office. Should the disease become prevalent in this section, the remedy will be found in this paper. We shall try to publish it next week.

Social on October 5.

The proceeds of the social to be given at Lewiston October 5, will be applied on hiring painters to finish up work with the material on hand. The community has been very kind so far in assisting in the good cause and we trust those who have failed to contribute will do so now. It only needs a small amount to have the church in a condition that we can all feel proud of. Do your share by coming out Saturday evening, October 5. Bring a box and your friends.

The Thimble Bee will meet with Mrs. Oscar Gapey Tuesday afternoon. Everybody invited.

Misses Florence Dovey, Eva Allison and Margaret Helps were visiting friends here from Thursday until Sunday of last week.

Mrs. G. H. Gilmore gave a bridge party last Friday afternoon. Those invited were: Messdames James Holmes, S. O. Pitman, O. A. Davis, E. S. Tutt, L. D. Hiatt and James Loughridge; Misses Eva Allison of Plattsmouth, Margaret Helps of Long Beach, Florence Dovey, Pauline and Fay Oldham and Margie Walker.

Some Fine Pictures.

Did you notice those two fine oil paintings on each side of the lobby of the Gem theater last evening? They were painted by Professor Asch, from near Murray, and are indeed beauties, adding a great deal to the beauty of the entrance of the Gem, filling in the two large panels that have heretofore been vacant. Notice them tonight when you visit the Gem. Manager Shlaes is ever on the alert for the best attractions, and also anything that will beautify his two excellent picture play houses in this city. This is the only secret for him being the first successful moving picture man in this city.

Defeats Sunnyside Team.

Cedar Creek's second team defeated the Sunnyside first team at the Cedar Creek ball park Sunday. Sunnyside came down to clean the Cedar Creek team, but they did not have a lookin. Cedar Creek winning by a score of 7 to 4. This makes three straight games for Cedar Creek's second team against Sunnyside this year. The batteries were: C. C. Keil and Meisinger for Cedar Creek, and Schafer and Volk for Sunnyside.

Returns From Oklahoma.

Henry Boeck and wife returned this morning from their visit with their nephews and nieces, near Ponca, Oklahoma. While there Uncle Henry and wife visited the great natural gas and oil wells that are located near Ponca and were surprised at the price of gas, it being only 18 cents per 1,000 feet. It is used there for heating and lighting, and at a price that makes a visitor long to be able to move there.

Cupid Picking Up.

County Judge Beeson again appeared in the role of Cupid today, when he united in the bonds of holy wedlock the lives and hearts of Irvin R. Tubbs, aged 24, and Miss Pearl Schrooter, aged 18, both of Burlington, Kansas. The judge tied the knot in the most approved style and the young people went their way rejoicing.

Up-to-Date Shining Parlor.

Thos. Jett, one of the best shoe shiners that ever struck Plattsmouth, has rented the center room of the new building being erected on the north side of Main street, and will establish an up-to-date shining parlor, where both ladies and gents can have their shoes polished. Tom expects to fit the room up in fine shape, and expects to keep such a parlor as no lady need fear to call when they need their shoes polished.

ANOTHER POPULAR PLAY AT THE PARMELE

"The Arab," One of the Greatest Plays of Season, at Parmele
October 2.

The New York World of September 22, 1911, has the following to say regarding Edgar Selwyn's new play of the Orient, "The Arab," which will be seen here at the Parmele theater on Wednesday, October 2:

The Orientalism of Edgar Selwyn's children of the desert in his new play, "The Arab," often may seem to be only skin deep, but the picturesqueness of the guileless son of a Bedouin sheik and the unusual atmosphere which he has been successful in creating for the scenes, in which he is always the central figure, give the drama an attractiveness which argues well for its popular success.

The play held the attention of its second audience closely at the Lyceum last evening, which is a much better test of its merits than the insincere applause of a first night crowd, yet it was noticeable that the character of Jamil Abdullah Azam, rather than the beautiful story, was uppermost in the general regard. This deflection of interest is understandable. Jamil, as a character, even with his strangely contradictory code, is much more appealing to the sympathies than a settlement of missionaries who have remained blind to a self-evident danger.

As for Jamil, he is the son of a powerful chieftan in the hills, who has deserted his tribe and become a dragoon. "The best dragoon in the whole world," he calls himself. He has been a Christian half a dozen times, but has always fallen by the wayside because the presents promised by the Christians were not good enough, and in his Oriental guile he is always willing to admit the facts. But he is fond of the missionary's daughter, and for her he is willing to swear off lying and begin his redemption all over again, and as subsequent events prove, he is willing to do even more. Jamil knows of the plot to allow the Bedouins to sweep down on the village, butcher the Armenians and Christians, but sounds a warning in time to prevent it, after being shot by the treacherous governor.
