ANNUAL BASKET BALL GAMES

A Large Crowd Witnessed the Basket Ball Games at Coates' Hall.

From Saturday's Daily. Last evening the four classes of the High school came together at Coates' hall for their annual basket ball games and it resulted in many surprises.

In the opening game between the juniors and the freshmen, the freshmen sprang a surprise on their opponents and hung a large-sized defeat on them, winning by a score of 28 to 18. The youngsters had evidently practiced a great deal more than the juniors, as they lead the fight all the way through the game.

The seniors badly outclassed the sophomores in their contest and were able to throw baskets at will, the sophs being unable to stop their clever plays. Arries and Duncan of the senior team are very clever basket ball players and had no trouble in getting the ball into the baskets at all times. The final score of this game was 42 to 2 in favor of the seniors.

In the championship game between the seniors and the freshmen there was considerable feeling displayed by the players on the freshman side and the referee. The game was hard fought, both sides playing a good game. The final score was 48 to 20 in favor of the seniors. After the games some of the young people engaged in dancing until a late hour. This was separate from the school part of the entertainment.

PARCELS POSTS IN OPERATION ON JANUARY 1

From Saturday's Daily. Although under the parcels post law, which goes into effect January 1, deliveries will be made to the houses, those sending parcels will have to post them, taking them to the postoffice or to the stations which are to be designated by the postmaster as receiving stations for such matter. However, persons living on a rural route may give their parcels to the carrier to be mailed.

Another requirement is that special stamps will have to be used on the fourth-class mail matter after the law goes into effect at the first of the year. Parcels post packages mailed bearing ordinary postage stamps will be held for postage, according to information sent in a bulletin just issued by the postmaster general. This, it is believed, will probably cause some delay and confusion at first until the patrons become familiar with the regulations.

Another requirement is that all parcels must bear the return card of the sender, otherwise they will not be accepted for mailing. Shortly before January 1 each postmaster will be furnished with one or more copies of the official parcels post map of the United States, showing the unit area in which his postoffice is located, and also the eight postal zones, indicating the distance on which the rates are based. The special parcels post stamps will be placed on sale after January 1.

GLEN EDWARDS INJURED WHILE WALKING IN SLEEP

From Saturday's Daily. Word has been received in this city by relatives informing them of an accident that befell Glen Edwards, formerly of this city. Glen has always been troubled with walking in his sleep and last week while traveling on a train he dropped off to sleep, and while in that condition stepped off the train at Auburn, California, receiving a very severe cut on the head and numerous bruises. He was taken to a hospital in that city and several stitches taken in his head and will be forced to remain in the hospital for about a week yet before he can get out. This will be sad news to Glen's friends here, but it was very fortunate he was not killed in the fall, and he should be careful to stay awake hereafter while traveling.

IOWAN TELLS OF WHITE ESKIMOS

Dr. Anderson Corroborates Assertions Made by Partner.

FOUR YEARS SPENT IN NORTH

Men Have Light Hair and Eyes, White Some of the Women Have Fair Skin and Rosy Cheeks, With Dark Hair. Origin of Natives Uncertain.

San Francisco, Nov. 2.—Corroborating in every essential detail the story of the discovery of blonde Eskimo tribes recently given the world of science by Wihjalmar Steffansson, his partner in Arctic exploration, Dr. Rudolph Martin Anderson of Forest City La., arrived here on the whaler Belvedere, after four and a half years to the north. He was accompanied by Professor E. De Koven Leffingwell of Pasadena, Cal., who has spent three and a half years making observations in the vicinity of the Flaxman islands. "It was over in the Cape Bexley territory that Steffansson first got in touch with the blonde aborigines," said Dr. Anderson. "In the spring of 1910 we lost most of our dogs while at Cape Barry, where we had wintered. Steffansson and I parted company, he leaving with two Eskimos for the east, while I pushed on to the Mackenzie delta for supplies. We met again at Langton bay in the autumn of 1910 and he told me of the queer tribe he had discovered.

Hard Journey Accomplished.

"In December we started out and were thirty-one days crossing 300 miles of the worst strip of land we ever encountered. We explored the little known Horton river and made records and compass calculations. This is one of the largest rivers flowing into the Arctic. We were going through the barren grounds and putting in a supply of caribou for our dash for Coronation bay in the spring. From Dease river to the Dismal lake country and to the Coppermine river and Coronation bay was our course, the last seventy-five miles over the ice, before we found these strange people.

"First we came on a deserted snow village and finally found an inhabited village with a population of forty souls. "Many of the men had light mustaches and beards and light hair covering their heads. The eyebrows of these men were light and their eyes were light. Some of the women—not all—had fair skin and rosy cheeks, but their hair was dark, oily and tangled.

"There were none of the flat nosed Eskimos of the true Mongolian type among these people. Their features bore the characteristics of the Caucasian race. They do not know where they came from and no one else knows.

Tribes Keeps No Records.

"They have no records, no history no legends and their language, a peculiar tribal dialect, was extremely hard to understand. As to their origin there can be only a guess. They may be survivors of the expedition of Sir John Franklin, lost to the east of their present locality in 1840 or thereabouts or they may be descendants of the inhabitants of an early Icelandic colony.

"Among these people there is no hope, no thought worth registering, no ideals, no particular purpose in life. For six months of the year they simply exist, living in snow houses and eating seal meat. In the summer time they move to the main land and subsist on caribou meat. They have no religion and no marriage ceremony, although there is fidelity as a tribal characteristic.

"Steffansson had seen about 250 more of these people in his summer trip. He found the conditions about the same as those I observed. The people we discovered are extremely primitive, having no modern implements of any kind and no modern weapons. They hunt with a crude bow and arrow and spear fish through holes in the ice. They cook their food, by kindling a fire they strike two crystallized stones together."

Dr. Anderson brings back hundreds of specimens of animals, birds, fishes and minerals.

INTERPRETS PRIMARY LAW

Nebraska Supreme Court Submits Formal Opinion.

PARTIES CLEARLY RECOGNIZED

Holds That Presidential Electors Are Nominated at Primaries to Vote for Candidate Whom Party's Convention May Name.

Lincoln, Nov. 2.—The Nebraska supreme court interpreted the state primary law in various decisions formally rendered. An opinion was handed down in the suit denying the right of the Roosevelt electors to preferential place on the ballot; also in the case of A. M. Morrissey, who sought invalid to prevent the Progressives from going on the ballot at all.

The syllabus in the case won by the Taft electors is as follows:

"Persons nominated by a political party at a primary election as candidates for presidential electors, are nominated, not as electors to vote for any particular candidate then known but to vote, if elected, for the persons who may subsequently be nominated by the national convention of such party as candidates for the offices of president and vice president.

"It is a well settled rule at common law that if a person, while occupying one office, accepts another incompatible with the first, he ipso facto vacates the first office and his title thereto is thereby terminated without any other act or proceeding.

"In such a case one of the tests of incompatibility is whether the nature and duties of the two offices are such as to render it improper, from considerations of public policy, for the incumbent to retain both.

"Where it appears that acts or events have occurred rendering an office vacant, the authority having the power to fill such vacancy may treat the office as vacant and proceed to elect or appoint, according to the form of law, another to fill it.

"By the statutes of this state every voter has the right by a single cross, or by one manipulation of the lever of a voting machine, to vote a straight ticket for the candidates of his party. And it is the right of the governing body or committee of a political party to appeal to the court to enforce such right.

"Under the statutes of Nebraska, the national convention of a political party, or, when the convention is not in session, its national central committee is the supreme governing body of such party, as to national affairs, and has full authority to decide which of rival conventions or committees in the state is the regular and duly authorized convention or committee of such party."
