WILL HARNES THE PLATTE RIVER

Enterprising Citizens of Louisville Organize a Company for This Purpose—Mean Business.

When Kountze Bros. of New York applied for a state charter to tap the Platte river at Fremont and lead it by canal to Omaha at an approximate cost of $4,000,000, they demonstrated their faith in a project which will ultimately be the means of bringing this vast western country into her own.

Today we are privileged for the first time to give to the public the particulars of the organization of a company with an authorized capital stock of $500,000 under the name of the Platte Electric Light and Power company.

W. B. Leiler of Springfield, Neb., is president; James Slander, Louisville, secretary, and Peter C. Stander, Louisville, treasurer. The object of the new corporation, as stated in their printed matter, now being printed in this office, is the manufacture and sale of light and power.

The Courier reporter called on Mr. P. C. Stander, treasurer of the new company, this morning and learned from him the proposed location of the plant. Mr. Stander was very enthusiastic over the possibilities of the new company. At a point between Louisville and South Bend, where the bluffs are abrupt on either side and the bed of the river is formed of solid limestone. This extends from bank to bank. Near the center of the river is a natural channel of 2,000 feet in width, of considerable depth at low water season. Here they propose to put in the water wheels, about twenty in number, although they estimate that six wheels will give them all the power necessary. A bridge will be built across the river at this point, from which the apparatus will be operated. The water wheels are a new patent by the president of the company and are so constructed that they will raise and fall with the river.

One foot of water will operate the wheels at full capacity, although at this point—the only one in the Platte river—the depth of the water never reaches less than three feet. The fall of the river, as determined by the Burlington Railroad company, is seven feet to the mile. The flow is from six to seven miles per hour, which is sufficient to generate all the power necessary to revolutionize the cost of fuel for manufacturing purposes throughout eastern Nebraska.

Mr. Stander is of the belief that with an expenditure of say $200,000, better results can be obtained than will be possible for Kountze Bros. of New York to give with their canal, which they estimate will cost $4,000,000.

The establishment of this gigantic power plant in the suburbs of Louisville will mean more to this city than the average citizen will at first imagine. Let's all boost for the success of the Platte Electric Light and Power company.—Louisville Courier.

DEPARTS FOR BOHEMIA TO COMPLETE HER MUSIC

Today Miss Agnes Knoeflek departed for Bohemia, where she will complete her musical education. This little 13-year-old girl is a very skilled violinist and her work has received the highest praise from the masters of the violin who have heard her playing, and her parents are sending her abroad in order that she may receive the finishing touches from the masters of the old world. Miss Knoeflek has studied under Prof. Kohlbaba for several years and under his skillful training she has developed into a marvelous player, whose artistic performances have delighted Plattsmouth audiences on a number of occasions. Musical experts who have heard the little lady perform on the violin have predicted without hesitation a great career for her and there is no doubt that her name will be famous in a few years in the old world, as well as in this country. Miss Knoeflek has memorized a large number of the most difficult pieces written for the violin, and at her age has displayed a talent that is unusual in most of the professional players of the country.

ORANGES GROWN IN OUR OWN COUNTY OF CASS

Mrs. Georgia Creamer presented the editor of the Journal with an orange plucked from a tree planted seventeen years ago on their home place, near Murray. This tree has been bearing fruit for several years, and this year in a greater quantity than ever before. Seventeen years ago Mrs. Creamer planted a small twig, you might say, and today she can boast of quite an orange tree. The specimen she brought to this office has the color of those sweet, delicious oranges that come from Florida. We haven't tasted it yet, but are keeping it to show our friends that Nebraska climate is adapted even to the growing of oranges, as well as all kinds of other fruit. Accept our thanks, Mrs. Creamer.

BARNEY WAMPLER AND MISS TRUIE SOUTH MARRIED

Saturday afternoon Judge A. J. Beeson pronounced the words that united the lives of Mr. Barney Wampler and Miss Truie South, two of the popular young people of our city. The wedding came as a great surprise to the friends of the contracting parties, as there was no intimation given that they intended to be married until they appeared before the judge to have the ceremony performed. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas South and has been reared to womanhood in this city, where she has made a host of friends by her charming personality. The groom is a most estimable young man, who is employed in the Burlington shops, and possesses the esteem and friendship of everyone with whom he is acquainted. The friends of the young couple last night, after recovering from their surprise, were busy showering their good wishes and congratulations upon the newly weds.

GAS PLANT AT NEKAWKA BLOWS UP SUNDAY MORNING

Yesterday morning the gas plant at the village of Nehawka blew up, with the result that the building and its contents were completely wrecked. The gas that is used for illuminating purposes is manufactured from a combination of carbide and water, and just about ten minutes before the explosion happened Andrew Sturm, who has charge of the plant, had paid a visit to the building and attended to the mixture of the gas. He was seated in his office when, hearing an explosion, looked out of the window in time to see the building going up in the air. It was very fortunate that no one was in the building at the time, as it is almost certain to have resulted in their death.
