THE OBJECT OF THE BOY SCOUTS

10. He has the courage to face danger in spite of fear, standing up for the right against the coaxing of friends or the jeers or threats of enemies; defeat does not down him.
11. He keeps clean in body and thought; he stands for clean speech, clean sport, clean habits; and he travels with a clean crowd.
12. He is reverent toward God.
13. He is reverent toward God, duties, and respects the convictions of others in matters of custom and religion.

The Scout's Religion.

The Boy Scouts of America maintain that no boy can grow into the best kind of citizenship without recognizing his obligation to God. The first part of the scout's oath or pledge is therefore: "I promise on my honor to do my best to honor my God and my country." The recognition of God as the ruling and leading power in the universe, and the grateful acknowledgment of His favors and blessings is necessary to the best type of citizenship and is a wholesome thing in the education of the growing boy.

Non-Sectarian.

No matter what the boy may be—Catholic, or Protestant, or Jew—this fundamental need of good citizenship should be kept before him. The Boy Scouts of America, as an organized body, therefore, recognize the religious element in the training of a boy, but it is absolutely non-sectarian in its attitude toward that religious training. Its policy is that the religious organization or institution with which the Boy Scout is connected shall give definite attention to his religious life.

There are a number of young men associated with the scout master in this work. Here's the line-up: William R. Egenberger, assistant scout master; Ralph Marshall, adjutant and secretary; Evan Noble, senior patrol leader and drillmaster; Charley Dovey, Harris Cook and Frank Marshall, patrol leaders.

The following committee of leading citizens of Plattsmouth form the local advisory committee of Troop No. 1, Boys Scouts of America: A. L. Tidd, M. S. Briggs, E. H. Wescott, C. G. Fricke, Dr. C. A. Marshall, W. G. Brooks, Thomas Kennish, Dr. Stewart Livingston, Mrs. George Dovey, Mrs. T. P. Livingston. Nuff sed. If you like to, talk about it, if you don't, keep still—don't knock. Perhaps you could do it better. Perhaps?

Any boy wishing to come into the Boy Scouts should hand in his name to William R. Egenberger at once before the scout list is closed.

ANOTHER HAPPY JUNE WEDDING

Mr. E. A. Lorenz United in Marriage With One of Wahoo's Most Charming Daughters.

From Tuesday's Daily.

This morning at 9 o'clock at the St. Wenceslaus Catholic church in Wahoo occurred the marriage of Mr. E. A. Lorenz of this city and Miss Elenora Prochayka of Wahoo. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Bor, using the beautiful nuptial mass of the Roman Catholic church. The bridal couple were attended by Frank Lorenz of Sheldon, Iowa, brother of the groom, as best man, and Miss Rose Prochayka, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, and the ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends of the contracting parties, who, following the services at the church, were tendered a reception at the home of the bride's parents in honor of the newlyweds. The wedding occurred on the birthday of the groom, and he has received a most charming present in his bride, who is one of the most popular ladies in her home city and is a young lady highly esteemed and beloved by all who have the pleasure of her acquaintance.

The groom has resided here for the past eleven years, being engaged with his brother, L. W. Lorenz, in the firm of Lorenz Brothers, and is a young man of sterling character, who, by his upright dealings, has won a host of friends who will learn with great pleasure of his securing such a worthy helpmate in his wedded life.

The young people will return to this city the last of the week and expect to make their home here in the future, where the groom has built up such a successful business.

SALOON LICENSE OF G. G. WILLIAMSON AT MURDOCK REVOKED

From Tuesday's Daily.

In the case that was argued before Judge Travis yesterday in district court and submitted to the court, in which it was sought to prevent the issuance of a license to operate a saloon to G. G. Williamson in the village of Murdock. The village board there, some few weeks ago, granted the license over the remonstrance of a number of the citizens of that place and the matter was taken to the district court to compel the board to revoke the license. The issue was made of the validity of the ordinance giving the board power to grant the license, and it was found that the law had not been complied with in the creating of the ordinance. The decision of the court is as follows:

"The court finds that the provisions of Sec. 8755, Cobby's statutes of 1905, in force April 7, 1905, when the ordinance in question was passed, was not complied with in that the ages and nays were not called and recorded as the law requires. This statute being mandatory, it follows that the ordinance is void and that the license granted by the village board of Murdock under said ordinance is void. This case is ruled by Payne vs. Ryan, 79 Neb. 414, 112 N. W. Rep., 599, which decided this identical point. The statute makes plain the duty of the court to revoke the license. The order of the village board in granting the license is revoked and the village board of the village of Murdock, Cass county, Nebraska, is ordered and directed to revoke the license forthwith. See syllabus Payne vs. Ryan, 79 Neb., 414, N. W. Rep. 112, page 599."

Gets Second Papers.

From Tuesday's Daily.

This morning Henry Vogt, a prosperous young German farmer from the vicinity of Elmwood, was granted his second naturalization papers in the office of District Clerk James Robertson. Mr. Vogt came to America October 28, 1905, landing at New York, and came to Nebraska a few weeks later. He made his former declaration for citizenship March 6, 1911, in this city. Mr. Vogt is one of the most energetic farmers in his section and will make a most worthy citizen of this mighty republic.

BUSINESS INTERESTS OF OUR OWN CITY

Our Merchants Should Do Like Those in Other Towns and Reach Out for Trade.

From Wednesday's Daily.

While the business men of the city are seeking fields from which to secure trade for themselves they should not overlook the splendid opportunity that presents itself in the vicinity of La Platte and the territory north of the Platte river. For the farmers and others residing in that locality this city is the logical trading point, but in years past it has been impossible for them to come here save by train, and then it was out of the question for them to bring their produce to this city to trade with the merchants. The construction of the Pollock-Duff bridge over the Platte river changed the condition of affairs and the territory there is now open to the live merchant to reach out and secure.

There are many farmers in that section anxious to come to this city to do their trading and they only await the offer of the merchants to come here and transact their business. The merchants of the city could easily secure tickets in large blocks and distribute them to the residents there so that they could drive here over the toll bridge and bring what they desired to sell to the merchants and what they purchased in this city could be conveyed home without any expense, and as the great advantage of trading here was brought to their minds there is not the slightest doubt but what they would make this their permanent trading point.

At Louisville the merchants of that energetic city give bridge tickets to their customers on the Sarpy side of the river, and as a result have developed a splendid trade for themselves from this source.

The trade will take time to develop; there will be no great rush here and the increase will be gradual, but if the inducement is given for the farmers to come here you can bet your last dollar that the additional trade will more than pay the merchant for what little outlay he may have to make to secure their presence here. Our field from which we can draw trade is quite limited, as the Missouri river cuts us off to a great extent from the farmers on the Iowa side, but with the wagon bridge over the Platte there is no reason why the business men should not seek expansion of their trade in the direction of Sarpy county.

CHILDREN'S DAY EXERCISES AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH SUNDAY

From Wednesday's Daily.

The Christian Sunday school held their children's day exercises last Sunday evening, this being the day of the year for the children, and they were there in force, and all enjoyed their parts, presenting them in a highly satisfactory manner. They had been trained by Mesdames P. F. Rhin, C. M. Foster and O. C. Hudson and showed the work which these ladies had bestowed upon them. The presentation was "The Cry of the Nations" and was participated in by nearly forty of the scholars. A drill known as the "line-up drill," was a very pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment and was enjoyed by the crowded house, the audience occupying every seat in the house, as well as having to bring into requisition chairs which were placed in the aisles. One very pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment was the delivery of a poem by Miss Elizabeth Hall, which was the composition of her mother, Mrs. Major Hall. A neat sum was realized as a missionary offering.

Dr. B. F. Brendel of Muray was in the city yesterday for a short time, en route home from Omaha, where he was called on professional business. The doctor has been suffering for the past week from an infection that broke out on his forehead and was very annoying for a few days, but is greatly improved now.

COMMERCIAL CLUB

SECRETARIES HAVE A PROBLEM TO SOLVE

From Wednesday's Daily.

Lincoln News: Commercial club secretaries have one problem they have not yet solved. That is, how to get people to patronize home concerns. It requires but slight technical knowledge of business to find out that if everybody in Lincoln bought from local merchants all of the goods made at home that they could use and if all the merchants bought their supplies from wholesalers doing business in the city where these were available our commercial expansion would be great. The fact is that is not done, and the commercial secretaries wage an almost hopeless campaign in the effort to increase the percentage. Outside of the perishable goods, Lincoln merchants don't buy to exceed 10 per cent of their supplies from Lincoln jobbers, if the News' information is correct, and the factory-made goods from other cities form the large bulk of their shelf goods, largely because the demand is for them. The head of a wholesale house that has been established here for six years said the other day that the buyer of one retail concern had just made his first visit to his warehouses that day. This condition is common to all other trade centers, and is not a characteristic of Lincoln. It illustrates a queer angle in human nature.

Thomas Keckler of Manley, August Krecklow of Wabash and William Wendt of Louisville were visitors in this city yesterday. They were pleasant callers at this office, at which time Messrs. Keckler and Krecklow renewed their subscription and Mr. Wendt had his name enrolled on our list.

August Gorder Slightly Improved.

August Gorder, who for several weeks has been quite low at his home suffering from what seems to be diabetes, is reported today as being very slightly improved and his friends are hopeful he may be able to recover from the attack. For several days past his condition was very critical and it was thought his recovery impossible, but the improvement gives his friends hope for his recovery.

WORK ON DEPOT IS PROGRESSING NICELY

The new addition that is to be placed on the Burlington depot here is now assuming the appearance of a real structure, the frame of the building having been gotten along in fine shape yesterday by Superintendent McDonald's men and the work will be pushed as fast as possible to completion. The extension will be some thirty-four feet and will give a much larger baggage room, as well as a waiting room of some thirty-six feet on the north, in addition to the smaller waiting room on the south side of the depot. The improvements on the exterior of the depot will be very much appreciated by the traveling public, as the extension of the platform, as well as the placing of the tracks some four feet further east at the depot will overcome the present annoyance of dirt from passing trains, as well as the danger to a large extent from having objects fall from loaded cars and injure someone standing on the platform. In the present condition of the platform an object falling would very likely seriously injure anyone on the platform, as the tracks are quite close to the depot building.
