SO DON'T COMPLAIN.

The beautiful Spring,
Summer and Fall,
Then comes Winter,
The worst of all;
In the early Spring,
When the grass is green,
The trees with their foliage
Are glad to be seen.

And when Summer comes
And the weather is hot,
The shade is welcomed
In every spot;
And we love to sit
Beneath the trees,
In the beautiful shade
And in the breeze.

But the Summer seems long,
And the weather so hot
That we tire of the heat
And wish it would stop;
But as Autumn comes
And frosts the trees,
We feel the coolness
Of the breeze.

The flowers soon fade
At the Autumn's call,
And it sorrows our heart
To see the foliage fall;
For the beautiful shade
Is spoiled and we know
Soon the trees will stand
Covered with snow.

The violets that stood
In their lustur aglow,
Are dead to the ground
And will bloom no more;
And the robins that chirped
In the trees o'er our head,
Their voices are silent,
With their brood they have fled.

Then the storms come,
Bitter and cold,
On the streets we will see
Not a living soul;
All we can see
O'er the country wide
Is drifts of snow,
Side by side.

So don't complain
When the weather is hot,
For there's beautiful flowers
In every spot;
And the Winter, you know,
Is fierce and cold
And extremely severe
On many a soul.

—M. G. Churchill.

Searle Davis was a guest at the G. M. Minford home Tuesday of this week.

Stephen Beckner passed away at the Immanuel hospital at Omaha, Neb., July 12, 1913. He was born near Nehawka, Neb., February 28, 1885, and was 28 years, 4 months and 12 days of age. He was born and reared on the farm and at the time of his death was engaged in farming.
