The subject for the morning will be, "Wonderful Love of God," and in the evening at 7:30, "The Gospel of Christ." This will be the beginning of a series of gospel meetings at the Christian church in that place, and a cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend them. The special ability of Rev. Dunkleberger along this line of church work will make the services most interesting to all and everyone who can should make it a point to attend. "Come and let us reason together."

The new addition to the hotel is being rushed, and the contractor, Billy Hamilton, says they are rushing the work in the hope of having it completed before extreme cold weather arrives. Commercial men already speak of it as one of the best hotels in this section of Nebraska.

Uncle George Schrader is arranging to erect a new five-room residence on his farm, southeast of town, and was in town Saturday for material for the foundation. The new home will be located northwest of the old home, which was destroyed by the cyclone. We hope our old friend will be able to occupy his new quarters before extreme cold weather comes on apace.

There is soon to be a surprise for the people of Murray and vicinity, especially those who are not friendly to Dame Rumor. It is a wedding that will occur in the next ten days, and the groom-to-be is one of the Journal's valued young friends and one whom we had consigned to bachelorhood long since. However, the young lady and gentleman belong to two of the best families in Cass county, and next week we will be able to give a more extended account of the happy event. Keep a stiff upper lip, Dick; other boys have gone through the same proceedings and came out with the brightest anticipations of the future and may you do the same. Goodbye to single blessedness Dick, and remember you will have to throw aside many of your pleasantries during your single blessedness.

Obituary.

DIED—September 22, 1913, James Jordan of Alvo, familiarly called Jim and Uncle Jim.

James Jordan was born in Virginia seventy years ago. When he was about 4 years old he had a seizure of scarlet fever which left him partially deaf and weakened mentally. On top of this affliction came the death of both parents, yet in spite of all these handicaps he worked and saved every day of his life. Honest and upright in all his dealings, and although often the victim of "sharks," he always made a good living and each year added something to his stock of worldly goods. At the age of 70 he still toiled daily, and but for his untimely death by gas in a hotel at Plattsmouth, might have lived many years yet and enjoyed the fruits of his labor. What a lesson the life of this man should be to all those who become despondent and yet possess good health, good reasoning power, etc. If the afflicted and early orphan can prosper through life and pass the three-score and ten, we should not worry about our children who have no affliction to handicap them through life. Mr. Jordan leaves one brother and many friends to mourn his death.

ASSEMBLY RESTS IN SULZER CASE

Saretsky Will Be First Witness for Governor, it is Understood.

SULZER EXPECTED TO TESTIFY

Wife Will Attempt to Show, it is Said, Husband's Alleged Speculations Conducted for Her Account—Colwell May Not Be Called.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The assembly board of managers rested their case in the trial of the impeachment of Governor William Sulzer. Counsel for the governor will submit several preliminary motions for the court to decide before opening the case for the defense.

These disposed of, counsel probably will ask permission to take another adjournment before calling their first witness. This witness, it is said, will be Louis A. Saretsky, the governor's campaign secretary, whom counsel for the impeachment managers failed to put on the stand, although he was under subpoena. Saretsky indorsed many of the checks given Sulzer in his campaign which were not reported in his sworn statement of campaign contributions.

The governor and Mrs. Sulzer are expected to take the stand before the defense closes. The governor will defend his failure to report the numerous contributions on the ground that they were personal gifts, it is believed.
